Who Is Talking To Us?
A Very Young Planet
Respect Electricity
What A Girl Could Do

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1936, by King Features Syndicate, Inc., International Copyright and all other rights reserved.)

PARIS, June 26.—Queer sounds that may be radio signals from the Milky way are collected by the California Institute of Technology, with a powerful receiver set up at the edge of the Mojave desert. Scientists seem to interpret strange messages that hiss in the loud speaker all night long. They seem to come from the heart of the swarm of stars called the Milky way, in which our sun is a tiny speck of light.

The "radio messages" from the Milky way, before they reach our Mojave desert, travel the fascinating distance of one hundred and twenty sextillion miles, which is written by writing 120 and then adding twenty-one zeros, thus: 120,000,000,000,000,000,0000,000. That is a long distance.

BIBLE READERS will be interested in the fact that this strange noise in the Milky way produces a hissing sound, remembering that, in Isaiah 7, verse 18, it is written "and it shall come to pass in that day, that the Lord shall hiss," etc.

THAT WE DO NOT understand the message need not surprise us; we are a very young planet. A very young baby in the cradle does not understand its grandfather's chirping.

DO NOT TRIFLE with the mysterious power of electricity unless you know how to control it. In New York, Grimes Rayburn Waller, a radio engineer, by profession, was found dead in a room in which he was experimenting with various new radio ideas, transformers, etc.

He had a special arrangement that enabled him to increase the current's power. As a result, the toes of his left foot were burned off. The right foot half destroyed, hands holding the new invention seared to the bone, a deep wound on the chest. Hideous power is locked up in that current of rampant electric power. What forces men will control when they really master electricity, as they will do.

IN EARLY DAYS, when civilization was feebly starting, size and muscle were all important. The man who could swing the heaviest club was the ruler. Steadily size becomes less and less important.

Priscilla Murphy, 16-year-old school girl, flew alone over Boston, youngest girl flier in America. A thousand years ago, one fighting man could have destroyed a thousand such girls. Now, that one girl from an airplane, might easily wipe out ten thousand men.

YANKEE CUNNING did not die with old New Englanders, supposed to have sold nutmegs made of wood; the New Deal supplies proof.

Men were put to work in gangs of four each with buckets of black paint and told to paint a long iron fence. They got $4 a day. When the supply of paint given was exhausted, each gang was to stop work.

Some painted slowly, so goes the story, but eventually all gangs but one stopped and were paid; their paint was gone. The one gang went on painting, each collecting $4 a day.

STATE FINISHES IN BEN GAUTHIER TRIAL

ALEXANDRIA, La., June 27.—(AP)—The state's testimony was concluded late today in the trial of Ben Gauthier, 23, former city hall janitor, charged with murder. Court adjourned late today to convene again Monday.

The state rested after a written confession obtained by District Attorney Al Hundley, from the accused on the night of the slaying of James H. Brewer, secretary-treasurer of Alexandria, with who's death Gauthier is charged, on May 18, had been introduced as evidence and had been read to the jury.

More than two days were consumed in selecting the jury. The introduction of evidence was begun just before noon Friday.

A portion of the morning session today was spent in the city hall, the scene of the alleged crime, where the jury, court officials, attorneys and accused were taken to inspect the surroundings where the fatal assault upon Brewer occurred.

Several witnesses, a majority of whom had previously testified, again testified at the city hall. They were: Mayor V. V. Lamkin, I. W. Sylvester, city engineer; P. J. Couvillion, who succeeded Brewer as secretary-treasurer; Harry Kelone and Kermie Marshall, city hall employes.

WEDDING GUEST SLAIN IN FIGHT AT NEW ORLEANS

GENERAL BATTLE AMONG MEN AT EVENT FOLLOWS

Women Also Engage In Melee In Effort To Separate Combatants

NEW ORLEANS, June 27.—(AP)—The police today pieced together bits of blood-stained evidence and statements taken from witnesses among 600 guests present last night in a society wedding reception fight in the Orleans club in which two men were floored, one of them meeting almost instant death from a fractured neck.

Sumners Carpenter, 21, promising young interior decorator and painter, was the fatal victim of the bloody encounter which started in the kitchen of the fashionable St. Charles Avenue club and wound up in a general fight in the front part of the building in which a number of male guests participated.

James S. Percy, 27, assistant freshman football coach at Loyola university and substitute halfback on the Tulane football squad in 1930, was accused by Detective Captains Louis Kuepferle and Frank Lannes, of striking Carpenter a blow on the chin which sent him to his death and Percy was released under $2,500 bond on a tentative charge of manslaughter.

When the officers arrived at the club Dr. Willoughby E. Kittredge, Jr., and his bride, the former Miss Ruth Sullivan, had departed for their honeymoon and witnesses to the fight remaining at the club were threatened with recall of the honored couple before some of them would talk freely to the police.

Remark Blamed

Under questioning at police headquarters, Percy, tall, handsome and weighing nearly 200 pounds, blamed the trouble on a remark he said Carpenter made to him while they were drinking in the kitchen.

He would not make public just what the remark was but he said he reproved Carpenter, that the remark

PERRYVILLE MAN DIES LAST NIGHT

J. A. Perry, Prominent Planter And Gas Rights Holder, Expires

J. A. Perry, 75, operator of one of the largest plantations in Ouachita parish and holder of extensive natural gas rights, died at 8:30 o'clock last night at his home. He had been in failing health for a year.

Mr. Perry had been prominently identified with the farming interests of the parish since young manhood. He operated a large general merchandise store at Perryville, a community which he founded as a young planter and which expanded with the discovery and development of natural gas resources.

A man of affable and hospitable disposition, Mr. Perry was one of that passing generation of men whom the present generation know as the typical gentleman of the Old South. His home and the warmth of hospitality

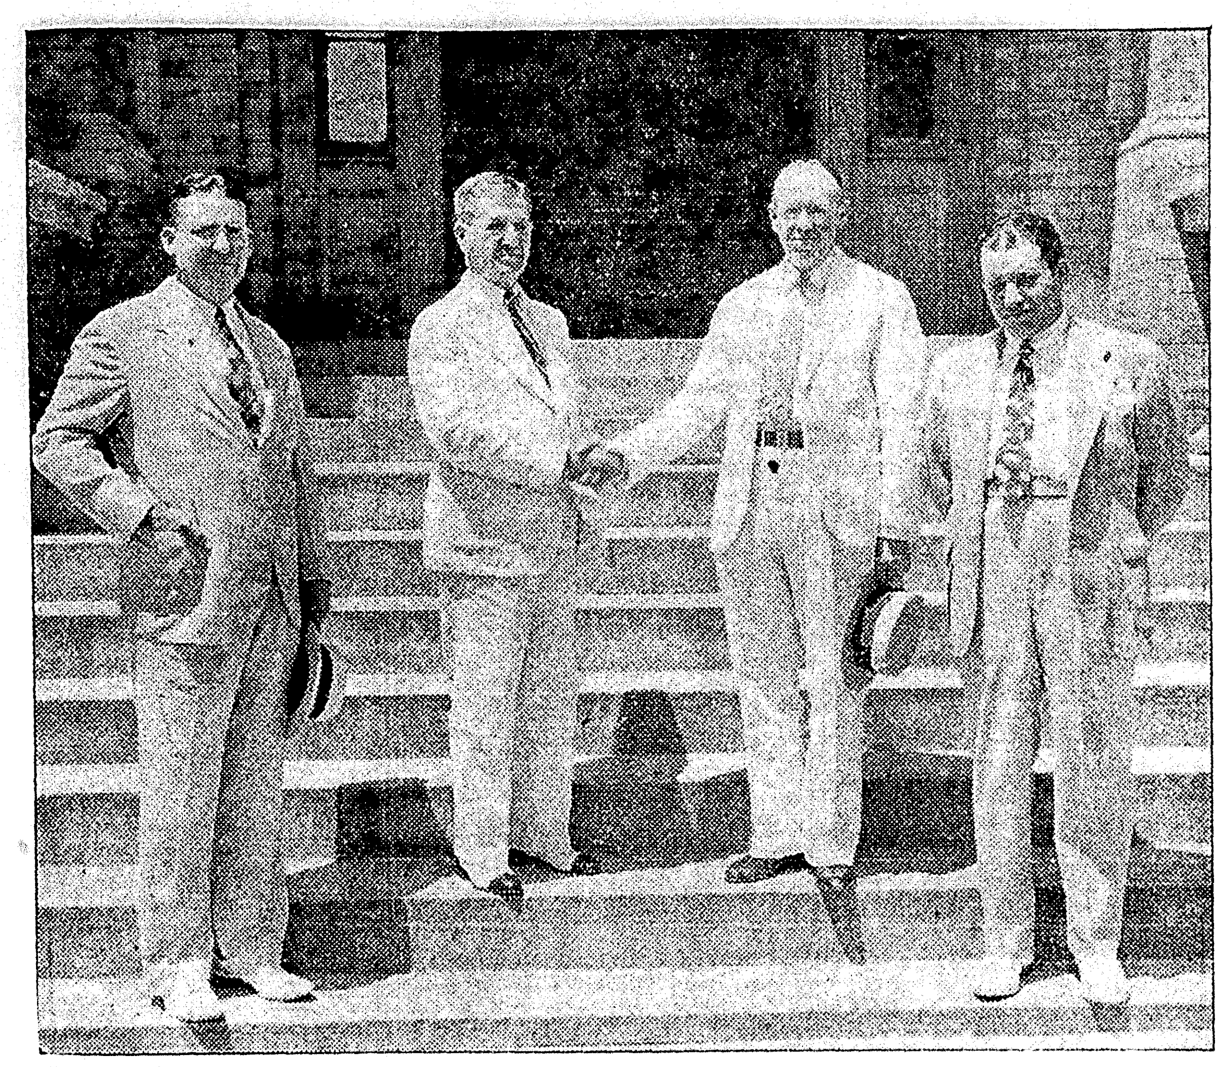
OFFICIAL APPROVAL OF 'MONROE DAY'



Scene on the steps of the city hall as Mayor Arnold Bernstein congratulated the committee of the merchants' division Chamber of Commerce on completing plans for observance of "Monroe Day," Monday, June 29. Following his congratulations, Mayor Bernstein issued a proclamation approving the plans and urging citizens to lend their cooperation to make them successful. NEW HEAT WAVE STRIKES MONROE

Official Temperature Saturday Rises To 101; Rain Needed

After a three-day respite from torrid heat, Monroe started sweltering again yesterday. The official maximum temperature, according to Miss Katie Key, government weather observer, was 101 degrees.

Because little wind was stirring, the day appeared much warmer. As it was, the Natural Gas company thermometer at the city hall climbed to a maximum of 103 degrees. The indicator reached that point at 2:30 p. m. and remained there for two hours before beginning its descent.

The official minimum, according to Miss Key, was 72 degrees. The gas company thermometer gauged a minimum of 76 degrees at 6 a. m. From then until late in the morning, the temperature rose slowly; but shortly before noon, it started soaring toward the maximum.

With the sky clear, indications were that the city was in for another spell of tropical weather.

But what was worrying farmers more than the heat, was the lack of rain. Precipitation during the entire month thus far has been negligible Only .12 of an inch of rain has fallen

FELLOW CONVICTS PLEAD FOR GREEN

SALT LAKE CITY, June 27.—(AP)—Fellow convicts came dramatically to the aid of Delbert Green today in the triple slayer's fight to escape a Utah firing squad.

A smuggled petition, signed secretly by 208 of Utah state prison's 322 prisoners, was presented to the board of pardons. It urged commutation to life imprisonment of the 28-year-old killer's death sentence.

The board—which had rejected two previous appeals for the man sentenced to be shot July 10—delayed action until Wednesday.

"We beg of you to have mercy on our friend," the petition read.

Earlier, Green's mother, Mrs. Lillie Mae Alexander, pleaded brokenly. She has led a legal battle that finds her sallow-faced son alive despite having been sentenced to death four times for the jealousy shooting of his wife, her mother and an uncle in 1929.

Board members appeared amazed when Attorney Edward Morrisey produced the petition.

Weeks ago word leaked out that one was being circulated by J. W. Abbott, later released. Governor Henry H. Blood ordered it destroyed. But when Abbott was freed, the story went today, he smuggled it back in pasted to the leaves of a manuscript.

The convicts contended the condemned man is of unsound mind.

Quints' Dad Slips In To See 5 Tots

CALLANDER, Ont., June 27.—(AP)—Oliva Dionne crawled through a drainpipe today to see his famous daughters, the quintuplets.

He had been barred from the Dafoe hospital, where the 25-month-old girls are quartered, because his home is under quarantine for measles suffered by the older children.

The three policemen on duty at the hospital behind a high wire fence were amazed when the quintuplets' father suddenly appeared in the yard. They permitted him to look through a window at the little girls.

Dionne went away as he had come—through a drainpipe under the fence. The policemen plugged up the pipe after he had gone.

Dr. A. R. Dafoe said later it might be possible for Dionne and his wife, who is expecting another child, to enter the quintuplets' hospital tomorrow, provided the danger of measles' infection is past.

PLANE CARRYING 4 CRASHES IN LAKE

BURLINGTON, Vt., June 27.—(AP)—Harold Pugh, manager of the Burlington airport, reported tonight an airplane carrying three men and a girl, crashed into Lake Champlain, near Essex, N. Y., today. Pugh reported the plane sank and all four apparently were drowned.

The plane was one of 26 which left New York today on a goodwill flight to Montreal.

Pugh reported the pilot was Frank Saggy. The others, he said, were Steve Kaye, a Mr. Erickson, and an unidentified girl. Further identification, Pugh said, was lacking.

WREN RELEASED IN DEATH PROBE

Mystery Still Surrounds Fatal Injuring Of Luther Evans

Held in the Ouachita parish jail for the past two weeks, during the sheriff's department investigation of the mysterious death of Luther Evans, whose decapitated body was found on tracks of the Illinois Central railroad near Grammont street on the morning of Saturday, June 13, E. C. Wren, 42, of Minden, was released from the jail late yesterday afternoon.

Wren left the courthouse with the expressed purpose of leaving Monroe immediately and returning to Minden, where he said his soldier's bonus check probably was awaiting him at the postoffice. He already was buying 40 acres of land near Minden, and planned to build a home on the land, he said.

Mystery surrounding the death of Evans remained uncleared as the fact that little blood found about his body where it was discovered on the tracks presented the same enigma late yesterday as it did on June 13. Had Evans met death beneath the wheels of the train which evidently passed over his neck, the ground about his body would have been darkened with considerable blood in the expected course of events, the investigation reasoned. Had he been murdered and his body placed on the tracks in an effort to conceal the real cause of his death, little blood could be expected to be found about his body, according to the investigators.

Evans was buried here June 20 and was identified on the following Monday by a report on his fingerprint record received from the federal government at Washington. He was an

Mayor's Proclamation Urges Buying Here On Monroe Day

Mayor Arnold Bernstein on Saturday issued a proclamation approving the plans of the retail merchant's division of the Chamber of Commerce in naming Monday as "Monroe Day," when thousands of shoppers are expected to visit the city in response to special opportunities offered for the buying of merchandise at unusually attractive prices.

The mayor's proclamation follows:

"Whereas, the merchants' division of the Chamber of Commerce has designated Monday, June 29, as 'Monroe Day,' to be observed by retail stores and the shopping public in emphasizing the opportunities afforded in this city for buying dependable merchandise at reasonable prices; and

"Whereas, such an occasion serves to bring the people of our trade area into closer relations of friendliness and goodwill with the people of this community; and

"Whereas, it is desirable and appropriate that every encouragement should be given to the efforts of our business interests in the promotion of these worthy objects;

"Now, therefore, I, Arnold Bernstein, mayor of Monroe, do hereby proclaim Monday, July 29, as 'Monroe Day,' and urge our people to observe the same in harmony with the plans of the retail merchants, in order that the event may be crowned with complete success.

(Signed) "ARNOLD BERNSTEIN,
"Mayor of Monroe."

REMAINING LECHE BILLS COMING UP ON MONDAY NIGHT

Straggling Measures Expected To Be Passed Without Difficulty

LEGISLATURE WILL OPEN EIGHTH WEEK OF SESSION

Senate Can Vote On Liquidation Board And Hospital Bond Issue

BATON ROUGE, La., June 27.—(AP)—Straggling administration bills not yet over the enactment goal line are to be finally passed Monday night when the legislature opens its eighth week of session.

They are house measures authorizing the state board of liquidation to use money from dedicated funds to "preserve the faith and credit of the state" in cases of economic or other emergency, and providing for the issuance of $8,000,000 in bonds for New Orleans charity hospital construction.

The liquidation board and hospital bond issue bills can be voted upon by the senate when it convenes after the week-end adjournment, and are certain of passage.

They have the same status as the administration's four tax bills designed to provide revenue for social security, charitable and educational institutions, and highway maintenance by imposing levies on natural gas production, sulphur, lubricating oil and soft drinks, and with those money raisers are expected to sweep through the upper chamber without delay.

The board of liquidation bill would permit the board to suspend at its discretion when held necessary to preserve the state's credit, any law earmarking or dedicating money to a certain fund, and to use money from that fund to meet the state's obligations.

The hospital bill is intended to meet requirements of bond attorneys and facilitate the issuance of enough bonds to furnish the New Orleans charity hospital with a new building.

It reenacts and amends a previous act providing for the issuance of the bonds which would be secured by a $400,000 annual allocation from the corporation franchise tax.

Benson said his advices were that no lives were lost but that the wind attained a velocity of 80 miles an hour. He said several buildings were damaged.

MYRNA LOY MARRIED TO ARTHUR HORNBLOW, JR.

HOLLYWOOD, June 27—(AP)—Titian-haired Myrna Loy, who the late Rudolph Valentino converted from a sculptress to a movie vamp, became Mrs. Arthur Hornblow, Jr., today.

The wedding ceremony was performed in the sleepy little seashore Mexican town of Ensenada, Lower California. It was her first marriage and the movie producer's second. He recently was divorced at Reno from Juliette Crosby, of the stage.

CANDIDATES AND PLATFORMS

(By Associated Press)

The 1936 campaign arrayal is virtually complete.

The followers of Dr. Francis Townsend and his old-age revolving pension plan, and the forces of the "share-the-wealth" movement organized by the late Huey P. Long and now led by the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, must still determine their course.

The communists will set forth their platform and nominate their candidates at their New York City convention today.

Otherwise, the platforms and candidates all have been placed before that great American body, "the people."

With repeal of the eighteenth amendment, after the 1932 election, the prohibition party has revitalized its forces for its most vigorous campaign in years. And from the dissatisfaction of Father Charles Coughlin's national union for social justice and others with the two major parties has come the "Union Party of the United States."

The political lists for '36:

Democratic

For president—Franklin D. Roosevelt.

For vice-president—John N. Garner.

The platform—An affirmation of the Roosevelt New Deal, "without apology or retreat." It advocates federal action to solve national problems; it calls for constitutional change if such

SPECIAL SESSION OF COURT SLATED

Two Local Men To Face Trial On Charge Of Attempted Robbery

Eight defendants are scheduled to go on trial in a special term of the district court here Tuesday and Wednesday.

Cases set for trial Tuesday are as follows: Alonzo Claiborne, negro, larceny of a truck; Solomon Sheftall and R. B. Alexander, assault with intent to rob; Barnette Day and Reggie Bell, forging and uttering.

The cases set for trial Wednesday are: Bob Jones, negro, assault with intent to commit murder; Leon Nall, carnal knowledge; and W. M. Spillers, operating a motor vehicle while in an intoxicating condition and causing damage to the property of another person.

The case in which the greatest interest is centered is that of Sheftall and Alexander, local young men, who are accused in connection with the attempted robbery of Henry C. Mickey here some months ago. W. L. Applin, Mississippi youth who had been here a short time prior to the robbery, was wounded by Mickey in the robbery attempt, was arrested and later plead-

RELIEF IN DROUTH AREAS COORDINATED

WASHINGTON, June 27.—(AP)—The government's manifold moves to alleviate human distress and property loss in the 1936 drouth areas today were placed in the hands of a special drouth committee, instructed to proceed immediately with a plan of coordination.

Jess W. Tapp, assistant AAA administrator, was named chairman of the committee. Four others appointed by Secretary Wallace were C. V. Warburton, director of the agricultural extension service; Hugh H. Bennett, chief of the soil conservation service; A. C. Black, chief of the bureau of agricultural economics; and W. F. Callander, assistant AAA administrator. Joseph L. Bailey, assistant resettlement administrator, also will serve with the committee.

Wallace named the committee after a conference with President Roosevelt at which drouth conditions this year were described as bad as during the all-time record drouth of 1934.

FRENCH WORKERS TAKE OVER MUNITIONS PLANT

PARIS, June 27.—(AP)—French workers took over a munitions plant with the consent of its owners today amid sporadic political and strike disorders and signs of dissension from one faction of the reigning popular front—the Radical Socialists.

Near Amiens, a munitions factory which the proprietors were forced to close because of their inability to pay taxes, will be run by the workers. Newspapers said the government had promised to advance them money.

Conservative Radical Socialists openly accused their communist collaborators in the peoples front of responsibility for daily strikes and disorders.

Executives Given Five-Minute Ovation On Arriving At Field

By John F. Chester

FRANKLIN FIELD, PHILADELPHIA, June 27.—(AP)—President Franklin D. Roosevelt accepted renomination tonight with a declaration of war against "economic tyranny."

Addressing a giant outdoor mass meeting from a dias raised above the grass of this big amphitheater, the chief executive touched upon the constitution and hit at "monopoly" and "the economic royalists" who "complain that we seek to overflow the institutions of America."

His words, perhaps sounding a keynote in his 1936 campaign, climaxed a 24-hour period unprecedented in American political history.

John Nance Garner, speaking before him, "gladly" accepted his own renomination as vice-president. Only this afternoon was Garner renamed by acclamation at the closing session of the Democratic national convention as had been Roosevelt in the early morning hours. Never before has a major party named and notified in so short a time.

The president, declaring America was fighting "for the survival of democracy" and for economic freedom as well, concluded with these words:

"I accept the commission you have tendered me. I join with you. I am enlisted for the duration of the war."

Mr. Roosevelt's acceptance speech was carried not only to those thousands immediately before him, but

SENATOR RACE IN MISSISSIPPI OPENS

JACKSON, Miss., June 27.—(AP)—For Mississippians, the political spotlight shifts this week from the party forum in Philadelphia to courthouse lawns in the home state as the senatorial and congressional campaign opens in full fury.

Headlining the all-state card will be the senatorial fight between Senator Pat Harrison and former Governor Sennett Conner, with State Senator Frank Harper of Hattiesburg making a belated bid for a place on the platform.

Returning to Mississippi from Philadelphia over the week-end, Senator Harrison will launch the first aggressive campaign he has faced since he defeated Senator James K. Vardaman in 1918.

He will take up next week the stump speaking activity that has engaged his opponent for the past three weeks.

The senior senator will open his campaign at his old home town of Crystal Springs, in Copiah county, next Thursday morning at 11 o'clock, with an outdoor barbecue and reception from the "home folks" planned for the opening festivities.

Senator Harrison will stake his candidacy on his loyalty to the New Deal and his record in congress.

Official Temperature Saturday Rises To 101; Rain Needed

After a three-day respite from torrid heat, Monroe started sweltering again yesterday. The official maximum temperature, according to Miss Katie Key, government weather observer, was 101 degrees.

Because little wind was stirring, the day appeared much warmer. As it was, the Natural Gas company thermometer at the city hall climbed to a maximum of 103 degrees. The indicator reached that point at 2:30 p. m. and remained there for two hours before beginning its descent.

The official minimum, according to Miss Key, was 72 degrees. The gas company thermometer gauged a minimum of 76 degrees at 6 a. m. From then until late in the morning, the temperature rose slowly; but shortly before noon, it started soaring toward the maximum.

With the sky clear, indications were that the city was in for another spell of tropical weather.

But what was worrying farmers more than the heat, was the lack of rain. Precipitation during the entire month thus far has been negligible Only .12 of an inch of rain has fallen

FELLOW CONVICTS PLEAD FOR GREEN

SALT LAKE CITY, June 27.—(AP)—Fellow convicts came dramatically to the aid of Delbert Green today in the triple slayer's fight to escape a Utah firing squad.

A smuggled petition, signed secretly by 208 of Utah state prison's 322 prisoners, was presented to the board of pardons. It urged commutation to life imprisonment of the 28-year-old killer's death sentence.

The board—which had rejected two previous appeals for the man sentenced to be shot July 10—delayed action until Wednesday.

"We beg of you to have mercy on our friend," the petition read.

Earlier, Green's mother, Mrs. Lillie Mae Alexander, pleaded brokenly. She has led a legal battle that finds her sallow-faced son alive despite having been sentenced to death four times for the jealousy shooting of his wife, her mother and an uncle in 1929.

Board members appeared amazed when Attorney Edward Morrisey produced the petition.

Weeks ago word leaked out that one was being circulated by J. W. Abbott, later released. Governor Henry H. Blood ordered it destroyed. But when Abbott was freed, the story went today, he smuggled it back in pasted to the leaves of a manuscript.

The convicts contended the condemned man is of unsound mind.

Quints' Dad Slips In To See 5 Tots

CALLANDER, Ont., June 27.—(AP)—Oliva Dionne crawled through a drainpipe today to see his famous daughters, the quintuplets.

He had been barred from the Dafoe hospital, where the 25-month-old girls are quartered, because his home is under quarantine for measles suffered by the older children.

The three policemen on duty at the hospital behind a high wire fence were amazed when the quintuplets' father suddenly appeared in the yard. They permitted him to look through a window at the little girls.

Dionne went away as he had come—through a drainpipe under the fence. The policemen plugged up the pipe after he had gone.

Dr. A. R. Dafoe said later it might be possible for Dionne and his wife, who is expecting another child, to enter the quintuplets' hospital tomorrow, provided the danger of measles' infection is past.

PLANE CARRYING 4 CRASHES IN LAKE

BURLINGTON, Vt., June 27.—(AP)—Harold Pugh, manager of the Burlington airport, reported tonight an airplane carrying three men and a girl, crashed into Lake Champlain, near Essex, N. Y., today. Pugh reported the plane sank and all four apparently were drowned.

The plane was one of 26 which left New York today on a goodwill flight to Montreal.

Pugh reported the pilot was Frank Saggy. The others, he said, were Steve Kaye, a Mr. Erickson, and an unidentified girl. Further identification, Pugh said, was lacking.

WREN RELEASED IN DEATH PROBE

Mystery Still Surrounds Fatal Injuring Of Luther Evans

Held in the Ouachita parish jail for the past two weeks, during the sheriff's department investigation of the mysterious death of Luther Evans, whose decapitated body was found on tracks of the Illinois Central railroad near Grammont street on the morning of Saturday, June 13, E. C. Wren, 42, of Minden, was released from the jail late yesterday afternoon.

Wren left the courthouse with the expressed purpose of leaving Monroe immediately and returning to Minden, where he said his soldier's bonus check probably was awaiting him at the postoffice. He already was buying 40 acres of land near Minden, and planned to build a home on the land, he said.

Mystery surrounding the death of Evans remained uncleared as the fact that little blood found about his body where it was discovered on the tracks presented the same enigma late yesterday as it did on June 13. Had Evans met death beneath the wheels of the train which evidently passed over his neck, the ground about his body would have been darkened with considerable blood in the expected course of events, the investigation reasoned. Had he been murdered and his body placed on the tracks in an effort to conceal the real cause of his death, little blood could be expected to be found about his body, according to the investigators.

Evans was buried here June 20 and was identified on the following Monday by a report on his fingerprint record received from the federal government at Washington. He was an

Mayor's Proclamation Urges Buying Here On Monroe Day

Mayor Arnold Bernstein on Saturday issued a proclamation approving the plans of the retail merchant's division of the Chamber of Commerce in naming Monday as "Monroe Day," when thousands of shoppers are expected to visit the city in response to special opportunities offered for the buying of merchandise at unusually attractive prices.

The mayor's proclamation follows:

"Whereas, the merchants' division of the Chamber of Commerce has designated Monday, June 29, as 'Monroe Day,' to be observed by retail stores and the shopping public in emphasizing the opportunities afforded in this city for buying dependable merchandise at reasonable prices; and

"Whereas, such an occasion serves to bring the people of our trade area into closer relations of friendliness and goodwill with the people of this community; and

"Whereas, it is desirable and appropriate that every encouragement should be given to the efforts of our business interests in the promotion of these worthy objects;

"Now, therefore, I, Arnold Bernstein, mayor of Monroe, do hereby proclaim Monday, July 29, as 'Monroe Day,' and urge our people to observe the same in harmony with the plans of the retail merchants, in order that the event may be crowned with complete success.

(Signed) "ARNOLD BERNSTEIN,
"Mayor of Monroe."

M. C. DeLarot, president of the merchants' division, said Saturday that "more than usual interest was being

Straggling Measures Expected To Be Passed Without Difficulty

LEGISLATURE WILL OPEN EIGHTH WEEK OF SESSION

Senate Can Vote On Liquidation Board And Hospital Bond Issue

BATON ROUGE, La., June 27.—(AP)—Straggling administration bills not yet over the enactment goal line are to be finally passed Monday night when the legislature opens its eighth week of session.

They are house measures authorizing the state board of liquidation to use money from dedicated funds to "preserve the faith and credit of the state" in cases of economic or other emergency, and providing for the issuance of $8,000,000 in bonds for New Orleans charity hospital construction.

The liquidation board and hospital bond issue bills can be voted upon by the senate when it convenes after the week-end adjournment, and are certain of passage.

They have the same status as the administration's four tax bills designed to provide revenue for social security, charitable and educational institutions, and highway maintenance by imposing levies on natural gas production, sulphur, lubricating oil and soft drinks, and with those money raisers are expected to sweep through the upper chamber without delay.

The board of liquidation bill would permit the board to suspend at its discretion when held necessary to preserve the state's credit, any law earmarking or dedicating money to a certain fund, and to use money from that fund to meet the state's obligations.

The hospital bill is intended to meet requirements of bond attorneys and facilitate the issuance of enough bonds to furnish the New Orleans charity hospital with a new building.

It reenacts and amends a previous act providing for the issuance of the bonds which would be secured by a $400,000 annual allocation from the corporation franchise tax.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 27.—(AP)—A former policeman, Okey DeBoard, waived hearing today and was held for the grand jury on a charge of killing Leo Fizer, West Virginia university football player, during a fight in a beer garden.

Fizer was shot to death, five other persons were wounded and two were beaten.

DeBoard, employed as a "bouncer" at the establishment, faced charges of feloniously shooting Opal Clark, Clayton Henson, Charlie Erwin, Henry Hill and Frank Marple and of beat-

STORM ENDANGERS 15 SMALL CRAFT

GALVESTON, Tex., June 27.—(AP)—Berger Benson, district coast guard superintendent, said he had been advised by radio 15 small craft were sunk or strained by the storm which struck Port Aransas today.

Benson said his advices were that no lives were lost but that the wind attained a velocity of 80 miles an hour. He said several buildings were damaged.

MYRNA LOY MARRIED TO ARTHUR HORNBLOW, JR.

HOLLYWOOD, June 27—(AP)—Titian-haired Myrna Loy, who the late Rudolph Valentino converted from a sculptress to a movie vamp, became Mrs. Arthur Hornblow, Jr., today.

The wedding ceremony was performed in the sleepy little seashore Mexican town of Ensenada, Lower California. It was her first marriage and the movie producer's second. He recently was divorced at Reno from Juliette Crosby, of the stage.

CANDIDATES AND PLATFORMS

(By Associated Press)

The 1936 campaign arrayal is virtually complete.

The followers of Dr. Francis Townsend and his old-age revolving pension plan, and the forces of the "share-the-wealth" movement organized by the late Huey P. Long and now led by the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, must still determine their course.

The communists will set forth their platform and nominate their candidates at their New York City convention today.

Otherwise, the platforms and candidates all have been placed before that great American body, "the people."

With repeal of the eighteenth amendment, after the 1932 election, the prohibition party has revitalized its forces for its most vigorous campaign in years. And from the dissatisfaction of Father Charles Coughlin's national union for social justice and others with the two major parties has come the "Union Party of the United States."

The political lists for '36:

Democratic

For president—Franklin D. Roosevelt.

For vice-president—John N. Garner.

The platform—An affirmation of the Roosevelt New Deal, "without apology or retreat." It advocates federal action to solve national problems; it calls for constitutional change if such

SPECIAL SESSION OF COURT SLATED

Two Local Men To Face Trial On Charge Of Attempted Robbery

Eight defendants are scheduled to go on trial in a special term of the district court here Tuesday and Wednesday.

Cases set for trial Tuesday are as follows: Alonzo Claiborne, negro, larceny of a truck; Solomon Sheftall and R. B. Alexander, assault with intent to rob; Barnette Day and Reggie Bell, forging and uttering.

The cases set for trial Wednesday are: Bob Jones, negro, assault with intent to commit murder; Leon Nall, carnal knowledge; and W. M. Spillers, operating a motor vehicle while in an intoxicating condition and causing damage to the property of another person.

The case in which the greatest interest is centered is that of Sheftall and Alexander, local young men, who are accused in connection with the attempted robbery of Henry C. Mickey here some months ago. W. L. Applin, Mississippi youth who had been here a short time prior to the robbery, was wounded by Mickey in the robbery attempt, was arrested and later plead-

RELIEF IN DROUTH AREAS COORDINATED

WASHINGTON, June 27.—(AP)—The government's manifold moves to alleviate human distress and property loss in the 1936 drouth areas today were placed in the hands of a special drouth committee, instructed to proceed immediately with a plan of coordination.

Jess W. Tapp, assistant AAA administrator, was named chairman of the committee. Four others appointed by Secretary Wallace were C. V. Warburton, director of the agricultural extension service; Hugh H. Bennett, chief of the soil conservation service; A. C. Black, chief of the bureau of agricultural economics; and W. F. Callander, assistant AAA administrator. Joseph L. Bailey, assistant resettlement administrator, also will serve with the committee.

Wallace named the committee after a conference with President Roosevelt at which drouth conditions this year were described as bad as during the all-time record drouth of 1934.

FRENCH WORKERS TAKE OVER MUNITIONS PLANT

PARIS, June 27.—(AP)—French workers took over a munitions plant with the consent of its owners today amid sporadic political and strike disorders and signs of dissension from one faction of the reigning popular front—the Radical Socialists.

Near Amiens, a munitions factory which the proprietors were forced to close because of their inability to pay taxes, will be run by the workers. Newspapers said the government had promised to advance them money.

Conservative Radical Socialists openly accused their communist collaborators in the peoples front of responsibility for daily strikes and disorders.

Executives Given Five-Minute Ovation On Arriving At Field

By John F. Chester

FRANKLIN FIELD, PHILADELPHIA, June 27.—(AP)—President Franklin D. Roosevelt accepted renomination tonight with a declaration of war against "economic tyranny."

Addressing a giant outdoor mass meeting from a dias raised above the grass of this big amphitheater, the chief executive touched upon the constitution and hit at "monopoly" and "the economic royalists" who "complain that we seek to overflow the institutions of America."

His words, perhaps sounding a keynote in his 1936 campaign, climaxed a 24-hour period unprecedented in American political history.

John Nance Garner, speaking before him, "gladly" accepted his own renomination as vice-president. Only this afternoon was Garner renamed by acclamation at the closing session of the Democratic national convention; as had been Roosevelt in the early morning hours. Never before has a major party named and notified in so short a time.

The president, declaring America was fighting "for the survival of democracy" and for economic freedom as well, concluded with these words:

"I accept the commission you have tendered me. I join with you. I am enlisted for the duration of the war."

Mr. Roosevelt's acceptance speech was carried not only to those thousands immediately before him, but

SENATOR RACE IN MISSISSIPPI OPENS

JACKSON, Miss., June 27.—(AP)—For Mississippians, the political spotlight shifts this week from the party forum in Philadelphia to courthouse lawns in the home state as the senatorial and congressional campaign opens in full fury.

Headlining the all-state card will be the senatorial fight between Senator Pat Harrison and former Governor Sennett Conner, with State Senator Frank Harper of Hattiesburg making a belated bid for a place on the platform.

Returning to Mississippi from Philadelphia over the week-end, Senator Harrison will launch the first aggressive campaign he has faced since he defeated Senator James K. Vardaman in 1918.

He will take up next week the stump speaking activity that has engaged his opponent for the past three weeks.

The senior senator will open his campaign at his old home town of Crystal Springs, in Copiah county, next Thursday morning at 11 o'clock, with an outdoor barbecue and reception from the "home folks" planned for the opening festivities.

Senator Harrison will stake his candidacy on his loyalty to the New Deal and his record in congress.

DRUGGIST'S BOND MYSTERY SOLVED

Money Proves To Be Sweepstakes Winnings Of Neighbor

LAUREL, Miss., June 27.—(AP)—Roy Ford, a rural Smith county farmer, was a happy man tonight with his dreams of a fortune come true and the mystery solved in the sending to Mississippi of $142,625 in "army and navy" government bonds from British Columbia.

The bonds were said to be winnings from a ticket held by Ford on the Irish sweepstakes, but they were delivered by mistake two days ago to his neighbor, Roy W. Ford, the village druggist at Mize, Miss., eight miles away.

The first Mr. Ford was mystified over the package because he knew of no one who should send him such a valuable package from far away British Columbia.

He said that if the bonds proved to be for him he would build in the village of Mize two brick churches at which the people could worship. But this hope waned today when he found that the bonds were intended for his neighbor of the same name and were delivered to the latter.

Miss Kendall Eaton, Belhaven college student and daughter of Harvey Eaton, a well known merchant of nearby Taylorsville, said the bonds had been turned over by the first Mr. Ford to the second Mr. Ford and that news of the transfer had been given her by a brother of the winner on the sweepstakes.

For two days the sleepy little village of Mize, nestling on the edge of Sullivan's hollow, has been buzzing with excitement over the arrival of the bonds.

Conscientious folk have been praying that their value would prove true because the first Mr. Ford who received the package by mistatke said he would build the churches if the money was meant for him.

These reports declared that the second Mr. Ford held a $2.50 winning ticket on the sweepstakes which was expected to pay $150,000 and that it was not unusual for the awards to be paid off in bonds.

ing Herman Airtrip and Gale Powell. None was seriously hurt.

Detective Ed Shuck said DeBoard told him:

"Fizer and another fellow got into an argument and I went to separate them. While I was doing that, Fizer hit me a terrific blow in the mouth and knocked me to the floor.

"I lay there a few minutes and when I got up I was dazed. I pulled out my pistol and started shooting."

The disturbance happened so quickly in the downtown garden Police Chief W. A. Tully said:

"I don't suppose we ever will know exactly what did happen."

Miss Opal Clark, one of those wounded slightly, told Tully:

"It was about midnight. Two boys were arguing in the entrance. DeBoard got in between them and someone pushed or knocked him down. He got up firing his gun in one hand and swinging a blackjack in the other. I ran."

Fizer lived in St. Albans, 15 miles west of Charleston. He was a triple-threat backfield player and sophomore on last year's Mountaineer eleven.

Coach Trusty Tallman called from Huntington to confirm the fact of the shooting and told friends he had counted heavily on Fizer for next year's team.

GERMANY MAY SEEK TO TAKE FREE AREA

FREE CITY OF DANZIG, June 27.—(AP)—Germany plans further steps soon to return this free area to the reich, foreign observers predicted tonight following a Nazi independence declaration.

The declaration by Albert Forster, young Nazi leader, that the League of Nations and its high commissioner (Sean Lester) had become "superluous" in Danzig affairs, caused a sensation when published today. It was published throughout Germany at the same time.

Opposition members regarded the declaration as a trial balloon on the part of Reichsfuehrer Hitler.

Foreign observers said Commissioner Lester led a mere shadow of existence as far as his political influence and power was concerned. This opinion was shared by opposition leaders.

Medicine Men Of Navajos Enact Ritual Asking Rain

NEE ALNEENG, Ariz., June 27.—(AP)—Medicine men of the Navajos sped at dawn today in the four directions of the compass to enact at ancient tribal ritual—an atonement designed to bring rain to their parched lands.

Their stock huddled about a few permanent water-holes and their 15,000,000 acres of range land gray with dust, the tribesmen—for the first time in a generation—turned to an age-old ceremony to beseech their god of rain to quench seared acres.

Summoned by the venerable wise one, Beninie (winker), the leaders and medicine men assembled last night for Toegash (no sleep night). In the shadowy light of their fires were laid plans for dispatching the medicine men to the four sacred mountains, almost a thousand miles apart.

Prayers of holy Navajos of all the clans blessed the steps of those took up the weary journey toward Dookoslid, Franciscan peaks near Flagstaff, Ariz., Tsodzil, Mounta Taylor near Grants, N. M.; Sisnajini, Pelado peak, near Taos, N. M., and Debensa, Piute peak in Colorado's San Juan range.

From those mountains will be taken water from the ever-running streams. Properly blessed and purified, it will play a central part in the rain-making ritual.

Beninie, as medicine man, is forbidden to inaugurate the ceremonial on his own initiatve. Only on another's request can he summon the clansmen for the Toegash.

A Navajo stockman came to him yesterday, and told of disappearing water holes, scorched grass and thirsty stock.

"You make rain medicine," he begged of the medicine man. "I will bear the cost."

Days may pass before the return of those on holy quest. When they do, thousands of Navajos will foregather with the wise ones, as they call to their rain god to answer their supplications.

Senator Noe, getting in touch with the New Orleans postmaster by telephone, explained that Monroe merchants had planned a mammoth trade day in this city Monday, and that veterans were anxious to get their checks in order to participate.

"If the veterans can get their checks before that time, Senator Noe advised the New Orleans postmaster, "it will be greatly to their advantage end to the merchants of Monroe."

Postmaster Ferguson promised to take the matter up with his department immediately and see if something could be done to rush the checks out at once.

At noon Postmaster Ferguson advised Senator Noe and the Legion committee that he had made arrangements to have all the remaining bonus checks intended for local veterans in the Monroe post office by 9 o'clock Monday morning.

Earlier in the day Postmaster J. R. Wooten announced that 150 checks had been received Saturday morning from New Orleans and that the bulk of the remainder would probably be received Sunday and Monday. All of the checks received Saturday were delivered by mail during the day.

With assurance that all checks would be in the hands of the veterans here Monday morning, local merchants were anticipating one of the largest shopping crowds in the city to celebrate "Monroe Day."

DRUGGIST'S BOND MYSTERY SOLVED

Money Proves To Be Sweepstakes Winnings Of Neighbor

LAUREL, Miss., June 27.—(AP)—Roy Ford, a rural Smith county farmer, was a happy man tonight with his dreams of a fortune come true and the mystery solved in the sending to Mississippi of $142,625 in "army and navy" government bonds from British Columbia.

The bonds were said to be winnings from a ticket held by Ford on the Irish sweepstakes, but they were delivered by mistake two days ago to his neighbor, Roy W. Ford, the village druggist at Mize, Miss., eight miles away.

The first Mr. Ford was mystified over the package because he knew of no one who should send him such a valuable package from far away British Columbia.

He said that if the bonds proved to be for him he would build in the village of Mize two brick churches at which the people could worship. But this hope waned today when he found that the bonds were intended for his neighbor of the same name and were delivered to the latter.

Miss Kendall Eaton, Belhaven college student and daughter of Harvey Eaton, a well known merchant of nearby Taylorsville, said the bonds had been turned over by the first Mr. Ford to the second Mr. Ford and that news of the transfer had been given her by a brother of the winner on the sweepstakes.

For two days the sleepy little village of Mize, nestling on the edge of Sullivan's hollow, has been buzzing with excitement over the arrival of the bonds.

Conscientious folk have been praying that their value would prove true because the first Mr. Ford who received the package by mistatke said he would build the churches if the money was meant for him.

These reports declared that the second Mr. Ford held a $2.50 winning ticket on the sweepstakes which was expected to pay $150,000 and that it was not unusual for the awards to be paid off in bonds.

TWO PASTORS WILL EXCHANGE PULPITS

BASTROP, La., June 27.—(Special)—Revs. J. A. McCormick, pastor of the First Methodist church of Mer Rouge, and W. H. Giles, pastor of the First Baptist church of Bastrop, will exchange pulpits Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. The exchange of pulpits by Methodist pastors in the Monroe district during the summer months has been established by precedent during former years.

The Women's Missionary society zone meeting will be held at the First Methodist church in Mer Rouge Tuesday afternoon at 2:30. This zone includes societies from the following pastoral charges: Columbia, Monroe, West Monroe, Mer Rouge, Oak Ridge, Sterlington, Bastrop and Bomita.

BOUNCER SLAYS ONE, HURTS SEVEN

ing Herman Airtrip and Gale Powell. None was seriously hurt.

Detective Ed Shuck said DeBoard told him:

"Fizer and another fellow got into an argument and I went to separate them. While I was doing that, Fizer hit me a terrific blow in the mouth and knocked me to the floor.

"I lay there a few minutes and when I got up I was dazed. I pulled out my pistol and started shooting."

The disturbance happened so quickly in the downtown garden Police Chief W. A. Tully said:

"I don't suppose we ever will know exactly what did happen."

Miss Opal Clark, one of those wounded slightly, told Tully:

"It was about midnight. Two boys were arguing in the entrance. DeBoard got in between them and someone pushed or knocked him down. He got up firing his gun in one hand and swinging a blackjack in the other. I ran."

Fizer lived in St. Albans, 15 miles west of Charleston. He was a triple-threat backfield player and sophomore on last year's Mountaineer eleven.

Coach Trusty Tallman called from Huntington to confirm the fact of the shooting and told friends he had counted heavily on Fizer for next year's team.

GERMANY MAY SEEK TO TAKE FREE AREA

FREE CITY OF DANZIG, June 27.—(AP)—Germany plans further steps soon to return this free area to the reich, foreign observers predicted tonight following a Nazi independence declaration.

The declaration by Albert Forster, young Nazi leader, that the League of Nations and its high commissioner (Sean Lester) had become "superluous" in Danzig affairs, caused a sensation when published today. It was published throughout Germany at the same time.

Opposition members regarded the declaration as a trial balloon on the part of Reichsfuehrer Hitler.

Foreign observers said Commissioner Lester led a mere shadow of existence as far as his political influence and power was concerned. This opinion was shared by opposition leaders.

Medicine Men Of Navajos Enact Ritual Asking Rain

NEE ALNEENG, Ariz., June 27.—(AP)—Medicine men of the Navajos sped at dawn today in the four directions of the compass to enact at ancient tribal ritual—an atonement designed to bring rain to their parched lands.

Their stock huddled about a few permanent water-holes and their 15,000,000 acres of range land gray with dust, the tribesmen—for the first time in a generation—turned to an age-old ceremony to beseech their god of rain to quench seared acres.

Summoned by the venerable wise one, Beninie (winker), the leaders and medicine men assembled last night for Toegash (no sleep night). In the shadowy light of their fires were laid plans for dispatching the medicine men to the four sacred mountains, almost a thousand miles apart.

Prayers of holy Navajos of all the clans blessed the steps of those took up the weary journey toward Dookoslid, Franciscan peaks near Flagstaff, Ariz., Tsodzil, Mounta Taylor near Grants, N. M.; Sisnajini, Pelado peak, near Taos, N. M., and Debensa, Piute peak in Colorado's San Juan range.

From those mountains will be taken water from the ever-running streams. Properly blessed and purified, it will play a central part in the rain-making ritual.

Beninie, as medicine man, is forbidden to inaugurate the ceremonial on his own initiatve. Only on another's request can he summon the clansmen for the Toegash.

A Navajo stockman came to him yesterday, and told of disappearing water holes, scorched grass and thirsty stock.

"You make rain medicine," he begged of the medicine man. "I will bear the cost."

Days may pass before the return of those on holy quest. When they do, thousands of Navajos will foregather with the wise ones, as they call to their rain god to answer their supplications.

CHECKS TO REACH HERE TOMORROW

mander William Perhamus and Sam Rubin.

Senator Noe, getting in touch with the New Orleans postmaster by telephone, explained that Monroe merchants had planned a mammoth trade day in this city Monday, and that veterans were anxious to get their checks in order to participate.

"If the veterans can get their checks before that time, Senator Noe advised the New Orleans postmaster, "it will be greatly to their advantage and to the merchants of Monroe."

Postmaster Ferguson promised to take the matter up with his department immediately and see if something could be done to rush the checks out at once.

At noon Postmaster Ferguson advised Senator Noe and the Legion committee that he had made arrangements to have all the remaining bonus checks intended for local veterans in the Monroe post office by 9 o'clock Monday morning.

Earlier in the day Postmaster J. R. Wooten announced that 150 checks had been received Saturday morning from New Orleans and that the bulk of the remainder would probably be received Sunday and Monday. All of the checks received Saturday were delivered by mail during the day.

With assurance that all checks would be in the hands of the veterans here Monday morning, local merchants were anticipating one of the largest shopping crowds in the city to celebrate "Monroe Day."

problems "cannot be effectively solved by legislation within the constitution."

Republican

For president—Alfred M. Landon, governor of Kansas.

For vice-president—Frank Knox, Chicago newspaper publisher.

The platform—Acknowledging similar national problems, it advocates state leadership in their solution. The the platform, favors constitutional presidential candidate amplifying upon change if necessary; but the authority in such change would be vested in the states—not in the federal government.

The Union Party

For president — William Lemke, North Dakota congressman.

For vice-president—Thomas Charles O'Brien, Boston attorney.

The platform—Advocating social-economic reforms, it further calls for drastic financial-monetary reform and the establishment of a central bank of issue. In endorsing the Lemke candidacy, Father Coughlin said it conformed broadly to the principles of his National Union for Social Justice.

The Socialist Party

For president—Norman Thomas, running for the third time.

For vice-president—George A. Nelson, Wisconsin farmer.

The platform—It is Marxian in its goal, seeking the establishment of the cooperative commonwealth. In its temporal phase, it advocates immediate constitutional change to give the federal government full power to regulate working conditions and to acquire and operate basic industries and natural resources.

The Prohibition Party

For president—D. Leigh Colvin, New York "dry" leader.

For vice-president—Claude A. Watson, Los Angeles attorney.

The platform—It declares both the Democrat and Republican parties have failed to solve social-economic problems; it calls for a regeneration of national life under a broadened prohibitionist leadership.

The Communist Party
(Probable Candidates)

For president—Earl Browder, secretary-general of the party.

there drew friends from many sections of the parish.

Before his health began failing, after an operation a year ago, he took an active part in the affairs of the community in which he resided and where he was an acknowledged leader.

Mr. Perry was born at Keatchie, La., in 1861, and resided at Perryville since boyhood.

He was a member of the Monroe First Methodist church.

Surviving relatives are the following: the widow; three daughters, Mrs. C. E. McKenzie and Mrs. H. A. Mouk of Monroe; Miss Rupert Perry of Perryville; three sons, Mose, Wesley and J. W. Perry, all of Perryville; two sister, Mrs. L. E. Hayden, Sr., of Shreveport; Mrs. Ella Sample of Arkansas; and a brother, Oliver A. Perry of Los Angeles, Calif.

The funeral will be held at the family home this afternoon at 4 o'clock. The officiating ministers will be Rev. D. C. Barr of Oak Ridge, retired Methodist pastor; Rev. D. L. O'Neal, pastor of the Bastrop Presbyterian church; and Rev. W. C. Scott, pastor of the Monroe First Methodist church. Interment will be made in the old city cemetery.

PRESIDENT WILL SPEND NIGHT AT MOTHER'S HOME

Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt To Hear Acceptance Speech

By Mary Elizabeth Plummer
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

NEW YORK, June 27.—(AP)—Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt was looking forward to Sunday breakfast at home with her son, the president, today when she entered her automobile and set out for Philadelphia to hear his acceptance speech tonight at Franklin field.

The mother of Franklin D. Roosevelt, active and merry-eyed at 81, will bring her son back with her from Philadelphia tonight; and tomorrow morning, at Hyde Park, will see that he is served his favorite breakfast dishes in honor of his renomination.

The aftermath of the Philadelphia acclamation by which the Democratic party chose President Roosevelt to run again will be a pleasant family ceremonial at the long mahogany table in the dining room of the Hyde Park house—the president's mother presiding at the coffee urn.

"I wouldn't miss it for anything," the dowager Mrs. Roosevelt said before telling Depew, who has been her chauffeur for years, to bring her limousine to the door of her town house for the trip to Philadelphia.

Riding back to Hyde Park tonight—and talking it all over—will be the president and his wife, his mother and Mrs. J. R. Roosevelt, the senior Mrs. Roosevelt's daughter-in-law, who accompanied her to Philadelphia.

The president's mother looked well and rested after recovering from a recent hip injury. The "gracious lady" who has been present at all the major events in her son's political career—including his nomination as governor of New York and his inauguration as president of the United States—wore a smart black and white print dress and a black hat.

She didn't know where she would be sitting at Franklin Field, but supposed she would be with the president and his wife, "wherever they were."

Her program in Philadelphia was lunch at the home of a friend; she would stay there quietly until evening, then go to Franklin Field.

She will have no part in the campaign for her son's re-election except an active interest. But she has followed the Democratic convention by radio every evening.

The Roosevelt gathering at Philadelphia tonight will be a reunion matching the great occasions of the senior Mrs. Roosevelt's birthdays at Hyde Park. All of the president's children are there—Elliot, Anna, James, Franklin, Jr., and John, plus his wife and his mother.

Shortly after the re-nomination speech of his lifelong friend, Judge John E. Mack, of Poughkeepsie—"I give you—Franklin Delano Roosevelt," resounded over radios in New York, the president's mother was calmly serving tea in her book-lined library.

Downstairs in the town house, which is closed for the summer, the rugs were sheathed in brown paper, the pictures swathed in sheets; but upstairs she was being the hospitable hostess, with her biographer, Rita Halle Kleeman, the author of "Graciuos Lady," and her daughter-in-law present.

Later, she had a quiet dinner at a hotel across the street. The president will sleep tonight in his old bedroom overlooking the Hyde Park terraces, the stately trees and the Hudson river, on the same floor as his mother's bedroom.

Waiting at Hyde Park to greet him with a bear hug will be his grandchildren, Eleanor and Curtis Dall, who have grown so tall they refused to be called "Sistie" and "Buzzie" nowadays—even after "grandpa's" renomination.

AGENTS INVESTIGATE ABDUCTION OF BANKER

BATESVILLE, Miss., June 27.—(AP)—Agents of the federal bureau of investigation at Birmingham were in Batesville today investigating the abduction of W. E. Blackmur, president of the Water Valley Mechanics Savings bank and two others and the attempted robbery of that bank Wednesday night by a trio of men.

Reports were made that the gang who escaped were seen in Batesville or vicinity and a thorough investigation by the government officers aided by the Panola sheriff's department was under way today.

Several important clues at Water Valley and elsewhere were being investigated.

PRESIDENT WILL SPEND NIGHT AT MOTHER'S HOME

Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt To Hear Acceptance Speech

By Mary Elizabeth Plummer
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

NEW YORK, June 27.—(AP)—Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt was looking forward to Sunday breakfast at home with her son, the president, today when she entered her automobile and set out for Philadelphia to hear his acceptance speech tonight at Franklin field.

The mother of Franklin D. Roosevelt, active and merry-eyed at 81, will bring her son back with her from Philadelphia tonight; and tomorrow morning, at Hyde Park, will see that he is served his favorite breakfast dishes in honor of his renomination.

The aftermath of the Philadelphia acclamation by which the Democratic party chose President Roosevelt to run again will be a pleasant family ceremonial at the long mahogany table in the dining room of the Hyde Park house—the president's mother presiding at the coffee urn.

"I wouldn't miss it for anything," the dowager Mrs. Roosevelt said before telling Depew, who has been her chauffeur for years, to bring her limousine to the door of her town house for the trip to Philadelphia.

Riding back to Hyde Park tonight—and talking it all over—will be the president and his wife, his mother and Mrs. J. R. Roosevelt, the senior Mrs. Roosevelt's daughter-in-law, who accompanied her to Philadelphia.

The president's mother looked well and rested after recovering from a recent hip injury. The "gracious lady" who has been present at all the major events in her son's political career—including his nomination as governor of New York and his inauguration as president of the United States—wore a smart black and white print dress and a black hat.

She didn't know where she would be sitting at Franklin Field, but supposed she would be with the president and his wife, "wherever they were."

Her program in Philadelphia was lunch at the home of a friend; she would stay there quietly until evening, then go to Franklin Field.

She will have no part in the campaign for her son's re-election except an active interest. But she has followed the Democratic convention by radio every evening.

The Roosevelt gathering at Philadelphia tonight will be a reunion matching the great occasions of the senior Mrs. Roosevelt's birthdays at Hyde Park. All of the president's children are there—Elliot, Anna, James, Franklin, Jr., and John, plus his wife and his mother.

Shortly after the re-nomination speech of his lifelong friend, Judge John E. Mack, of Poughkeepsie—"I give you—Franklin Delano Roosevelt," resounded over radios in New York, the president's mother was calmly serving tea in her book-lined library.

Downstairs in the town house, which is closed for the summer, the rugs were sheathed in brown paper, the pictures swathed in sheets; but upstairs she was being the hospitable hostess, with her biographer, Rita Halle Kleeman, the author of "Graciuos Lady," and her daughter-in-law present.

Later, she had a quiet dinner at a hotel across the street. The president will sleep tonight in his old bedroom overlooking the Hyde Park terraces, the stately trees and the Hudson river, on the same floor as his mother's bedroom.

Waiting at Hyde Park to greet him with a bear hug will be his grandchildren, Eleanor and Curtis Dall, who have grown so tall they refused to be called "Sistie" and "Buzzie" nowadays—even after "grandpa's" renomination.

AGENTS INVESTIGATE ABDUCTION OF BANKER

BATESVILLE, Miss., June 27.—(AP)—Agents of the federal bureau of investigation at Birmingham were in Batesville today investigating the abduction of W. E. Blackmur, president of the Water Valley Mechanics Savings bank and two others and the attempted robbery of that bank Wednesday night by a trio of men.

Reports were made that the gang who escaped were seen in Batesville or vicinity and a thorough investigation by the government officers aided by the Panola sheriff's department was under way today.

Several important clues at Water Valley and elsewhere were being investigated.

'This Thing Called Love'

A reader sends in this query: "What is this thing called love? How will I know it?" Possibly the inquiry was intended for Dorothy Dix, but it is not the first time that such messages have come to the editor's desk, mostly from young people who apparently want to know. And who could answer them fully?

For "this thing called love" has so many different meanings to so many different people. To some it's merely the biological urge with which Nature tricks us for her own ends. And that sort of love alone, while it may seem fierce and strong, is the least dependable, because the quickest over. It's just being in love with love, satisfying an urge which, when satisfied, is just like a meal to the hungry—forgotten until hungry again. Unfortunately, too many do not want to go on eating the same sort of meal; hence infidelities, heartaches, tragedies.

Perhaps the ideal love is somewhat this biological urge, plus the contentment of complete congeniality and companionship, plus an ability to be real friends, after the ardours die down, plus loyalty, and an unselfishness so complete that it permeates every other emotion belonging to love—plus faith and devotion.

The present seems so glorious that they expect it to maintain that high key always—a human impossibility. And they take no thought of the long years to come, when these other qualities are needed so badly. They "fall in love" with someone physically attractive to them, and it's like a spell. He seems so dear, so desirable, she so sweet. But they seldom take into consideration what the years will do to the loved one, nor ask themselves, seriously: "Do I really want to spend my whole life with this person, after he has ceased to be a lover only, and become just a friend, also. How will he wear then? How will I?"

If they would only be honest about this, brush the glamorous cobwebs aside, look at obvious facts, and from the sensible angle of possible faults, failings, irritations of daily life when the slump back to ordinary life-habits has come, there would be much less disappointment, much more solid happiness, and their choice eventually would be much sounder than when just depending on the headlong rush of a physical infatuation which may last a little while and then turn into disillusionment and positive hate. For the line between love and hate is so narrow it can be crossed before one knows it.

Real love that endures must be based on mutual understanding, respect and a willingness for both principals to meet each other half way in the solution of every problem that comes into their lives. Each must recognize that both have the frailties that are common to mankind; both have the little quirks and peculiarities that may be intriguing before marriage, but may be irritating afterwards unless a common sense determination to give and take is arrived at. Most marriages that go on the rocks are due to failure to recognize that each party to the contract is entitled to a "fifty-fifty" break in the association.

We all know real love is one of life's strongest spurs, greatest amalgamators. We've seen it work its miracles, change what seemed the impossible to the lovely and wonderful. We've seen the heights to which it can climb, the depths, alas, to which it can sink. But as to an actual definition, all-embracing enough to cover its whole meaning, a recipe for knowing it when seen, that has never been achieved since the world began—and it never will. But it is possible to be experienced, between those who are willing to accept its obligations as well as its privileges and enjoyments.

ON DANGEROUS GROUND

When the November winds begin to blow the votes into the ballot boxes from the Atlantic to the broad Pacific, President Roosevelt may hope, with justification, to gather a bumper crop of them from the Blue Grass state of Kentucky. He will, that is, if his press corps is as much on the alert as it is supposed to be and if mint is as important to Kentuckians, as, by tradition, it's cracked up to be.

Just what Mr. Roosevelt's sentiments are concerning mint and its use in the one way Kentuckians would deign to use it—projecting over the top of a glass—we do not know. But it is reported from Washington that the only thing raised on the White House grounds for the White House table is mint. With the proper shadings of publicity, that simple little fact could be made to convey a great deal to the voters of Kentucky and perhaps we may soon see some such development.

The proper way to mix a julep is a matter which, however, overshadows policies of government, economics or diplomacy, and has been known to lead to bloodshed. The president would have to proceed with delicacy along these dangerous bypaths. If he happened to please the julep drinkers of South Carolina he would be sure to offend those of Kentucky. Perhaps the best course after all will be to let the announcement that he has a mint bed stand just as it is, without julep overtones or allusions.

"Bernard Shaw quite frequently eats while writing," says a commentator, which may account for the occasional suggestion of spinach in his works.

Rhyme And Reason

By ANNE CAMPBELL

ON VACATION

I revel in the untried scene,
The gold of summer, and the green
Of maple trees, rain-washed and clean,
But my heart stays at home.

I love the stretch of yellow sand,
The lure of unfamiliar land,
The little hills that calmly stand,
But my heart stays at home.

I love the beauty of the road
That curves away from my abode.
My shoulders drop their weary load,
But my heart stays at home.

In my mind, nothing is as clear
As my own home, so far, so dear. . . .
I cherish it while I am here,
For my heart stays at home.

U. S. Might Try It

By BRUCE CATTON

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who quit being chief of staff for the U. S. army to become military adviser to the Philippine government, reports that he has devised a foolproof military defense plan for those jittery islands.

Under this plan, the Filipinos will spend $8,000,000 a year for 10 years. For this money they will get a fleet of small, fast, coast-defense torpedo boats, an air corps of fast bombing planes, a regular army of moderate size, and a highly trained army reserve corps that could be mobilized quickly.

Some of his remarks on the uses of this military outfit are worth listening to. For the general starts by saying that his plan "completely negatives any possibility of employing the army in aggressive action."

What the Filipinos get in the way of a fighting machine will have to be used solely on the islands and in their immediately adjacent waters. They will have to fight at home or not at all.

But, adds the general, for home fighting the machine will be incomparable. Indeed, he believes that it will make the Philippines as nearly impregnable, from a military standpoint, as any nation can hope to be.

Neither blockade nor invasion, he is confident, could prevail against it.

Now, if the general knows what he is talking about—and his reputation is that of an exceptionally brilliant soldier—it might be a smart idea to call him back to America and tell him to cook up a similar scheme for his native land.

For the general would seem to have hit upon an idea that a war-frightened world ought to welcome with open arms, to wit: a defense armament that can't be used offensively.

The big trouble with the world armament race is the fact that no such device is at present available.

Nations A and B, let us say, are hereditary and traditional enemies. Nation B, having been invaded twice within living memory by Nation A, builds a huge army and navy to attend to things if athird invasion should develop, and no one—least of all Nation A—can blame her.

But the trouble is that, having built this army and navy, there is nothing in the world to keep Nation B from turning around and using it to invade, harass, and otherwise bedevil Nation A.

So Nation A must build to meet this menace; and Nation B, in turn, must build some more to insure its own security; and Nations C, D, and X must prick up their ears and build to protect themselves against both Nations A and B—and you have as vicious and self-accelerating a spiral as the mind of man can imagine.

If perfect security can be gained in the manner General MacArthur proposes—by supporting a force which is effective only on defense—the world would like to know about it.

It might pay our own government to look into the matter—and if it pans out, to take a leaf or two from the general's book.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE KING OF DIAMONDS.—Joseph I (1715-1777) ascended the throne of Portugal in 1750. It was in his time that the diamond mines of Brazil were first exploited for the benefit of the crown of Portugal. On ceremonious occasions, the king wore a 20-buttoned coat depicted in my cartoon. Each of those buttons was a sparkling diamond of great size, valued at $20,000 at the time. Twenty buttons represent a value of $400,000 at par, but to get an idea of the magnitude of this sum, it is necessary to multiply the amount by 20. The resulting sum of $8,000,000 represents the proper purchasing power of the value of the king's buttons at the time.

A SACK OF FLOUR COST $275,000.—In 1863 R. C. Gridley of Upper Austin, Nevada, wagered with Doctor Herrick, county official of Clifton, that the Democratic nominee for mayor would be elected. If Gridley lost he was to carry a sack of flour from Austin to Clifton to the tune of "John Brown." If he won, Dr. Herrick was to carry the sack from Clifton to Austin to the tune of "Dixie." The wager was won by Dr. Herrick and the loser carried the bag of flour as agreed. When he arrived, the winner decided to sell the flour at auction for the benefit of the Sanitary commission, caring for wounded soldiers. The auction continued all over the Union, and lasted many months, until a total of $275,000 was realized, which was turned over to the Sanitary commission.

NEW YORK Day by Day

Child adoption has become so prevalent that one of its chief perplexities is being widely considered. This is whether or not the child should be told the truth of its adoption by foster parents or be kept in an ignorance that may burst about its head some day like a bomb-shell.

People who have studied the matter carefully think the child should be told the truth. It should start from scratch without deception. A child may lose all respect upon learning it has been lied to. Secrecy is fraught with this danger.

Teach the adopted child, it is urged, to love and respect his greatest friends. Any child should be proud of adopted parents. They have shown a fine quality in taking adoption steps. A great measure of love.

And here is this story. It comes to me from a little corner grocery in San Diego. In 1920 a salesman dropped in and told the man and his wife in the grocery he had adopted a baby daughter. The woman inquired if the child had been told the truth. The answer was negative.

She then related her own experience. She had been adopted during the days of the Gold Rush. Until she was 10 she knew her foster parents only as her own mother and father. She loved them and her little red rocking chair better than anything else in the world.

One day she sat on a sunny porch rocking and her mother came to her with a serious expression. She held a letter and in a voice atremble said: "This letter is from your father. He has sent for you." Then her foster parentage was explained. The shock remained with her the rest of her life. She was never able to rise above it. Always she has been unhappy. That is one experience and perhaps it could be multiplied many times. Evasion is dangerous in any experiment.

I was thinking the other day how many of the old restaurant standbys have passed from the New York picture since I came to town—eating places destined to go on forever. Among them are Longuevue, Claremont, Casino, Gansmyer's, Daly's, Browne's Chop House, Lorber's, Shanley's, Churchills, Rector's and Little Hungary.

It is often heard recently: "Why be thrifty? We are facing certain economic collapse." Even that eventuality should not sway one from this commendable attribute which has more value than dollars. Thrift is a distinct orderliness of mind that forms character. I have never known a sensibly thrifty person who was not supremely happy. Thrift, like a satisfying religion, provides an inward glow. Something that gives one the tingle of personal pride and achievement.

In discussing "Man the Unknown" in his widely discussed book Dr. Alexis Carrel offers much testimony that has long been claims of the metaphysicians. He states frankly in describing a physician's ministrations: "It is sufficient that some one around him be in a state of prayer." And: "Moral suffering profoundly disturbs health." Also: "Thought can generate organic lesions." In discussing habitual bad traits, he declares, "They are capable of starting organic changes and organic diseases" and "biological and industrial morals . . . do not give to man an armour strong enough to protect him against his own inherent vices." But perhaps his two most startling swings from materia medica are these:

"Physicians are utterly incapable of protecting consciousness against its unknown enemies.

"We are far from knowing what relations exist between skeletons, muscles and organs and mental and spiritual activities."

The snidest thing about dictatorships, it strikes me, is their shameful betrayal of youth. They know that to catch them at an impressionable time and feed their adolescent gullibility with roseate promises prevents them from thinking things out sanely. And thus in maturity joining in uprisings to oust the dictators. In every country for years youth has been granted increasing opportunities. But now they are being regimented into nonentities to be ruthlessly shot down when the populace eventually arises to destroy false Caesars.

Recently this column suggested a Hollywood movie star as a hair-cut needer. And the same day came this telegram: "Have been trying to get my barber all morning. Finally sent a wire and found he has been trying to get me. We both thank you for the tip.—Warren William."

In tuning in for a radio program I heard someone read this sentiment from an old autograph album: "May the clouds through your life form only a background for a beautiful sunset."

And this I read from an early letter by Montaigne to a friend: "Trying to condone one's past indiscretion is the foolish striving of middle and advanced years. The regret that early mistakes were made hears them of consquence. Blunders are offshoots of inexperience. To be sorry is about all we can do. We do not need to suffer. To forget them and look forward is true wisdom.

Your Baby's Health

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine.

When a baby is sick, the first thing to do is to make certain of the nature of the ailment. For this a doctor must be called.

Do not take illnesses lightly, as most of the common infectious diseases begin in just about the same way. The child who is listless, drowsy, flushed, and breathing with difficulty is obviously a sick child. The one who is alert, smiling, and playful is more likely to be healthy. A child who looks well probably feels well.

It is not absolutely safe, however, to trust merely to the appearance of the child, as a sign of its physical condition. It is much better to know with certainty than to take a chance.

An adult is able to say something about the state of his health; not so the child. The examination of a sick baby, therefore, is much more difficult than the examination of an adult.

Specialists in diseases of children are compelled to make their diagnoses on the basis of their own observations, helped somewhat by the advice of an intelligent mother or nurse.

Some people are inclined to "pooh-pooh" the help of a mother or nurse, but because of their constant familiarity with the condition of the child, they know better than the doctor, who is called for the first time, whether changes are taking place.

If the baby's face is swollen, if its eyes are almost closed, and if it has all the appearances of acute illness, anyone can tell that something is wrong. The real art of scientific observation is applied when conditions are merely beginning to be wrong.

If a baby is ill, it cries with a fretful and moaning cry which differs from that of the healthy baby.

The moment a child shows signs of illness, it should be put to bed. If the child is an infant, the food should be cut down to half the strength; if it is an older child, only fluid food should be given. If its skin seems to be hotter than usual, its temperature should be taken.

In the presence of a fever, it is well to call the doctor immediately. Do not give any medicine—even a cathartic or a laxative— until the doctor orders it. Until the doctor comes, all other children should be excluded from the room.

CLUB ORGANIZED

TALLULAH, La., June 27.—(Special)—A Roosevelt club was organized at a meeting at the Tallulah Club building with Jeff B. Snyder as chairman and Ira Baxter, secretary. Mr. Snyder explained the purposes of the club and at the close of his talk eighteen subscriptions of five dollars each were taken. Plans were made for securing the balance of the quota for Madison parish, $370.30 and officials feel assured that the entire amount will be raised and forwarded to headquarters within the next few days. Members of the Roosevelt committee for this parish are A. J. Sevier, J. B. Snyder, Frank McCaffery and D. H. Allen.

'This Thing Called Love'

A reader sends in this query: "What is this thing called love? How will I know it?" Possibly the inquiry was intended for Dorothy Dix, but it is not the first time that such messages have come to the editor's desk, mostly from young people who apparently want to know. And who could answer them fully?

For "this thing called love" has so many different meanings to so many different people. To some it's merely the biological urge with which Nature tricks us for her own ends. And that sort of love alone, while it may seem fierce and strong, is the least dependable, because the quickest over. It's just being in love with love, satisfying an urge which, when satisfied, is just like a meal to the hungry—forgotten until hungry again. Unfortunately, too many do not want to go on eating the same sort of meal; hence infidelities, heartaches, tragedies.

Perhaps the ideal love is somewhat this biological urge, plus the contentment of complete congeniality and companionship, plus an ability to be real friends, after the ardours die down, plus loyalty, and an unselfishness so complete that it permeates every other emotion belonging to love—plus faith and devotion.

The present seems so glorious that they expect it to maintain that high key always—a human impossibility. And they take no thought of the long years to come, when these other qualities are needed so badly. They "fall in love" with someone physically attractive to them, and it's like a spell. He seems so dear, so desirable, she so sweet. But they seldom take into consideration what the years will do to the loved one, nor ask themselves, seriously: "Do I really want to spend my whole life with this person, after he has ceased to be a lover only, and become just a friend, also. How will he wear then? How will I?"

If they would only be honest about this, brush the glamorous cobwebs aside, look at obvious facts, and from the sensible angle of possible faults, failings, irritations of daily life when the slump back to ordinary life-habits has come, there would be much less disappointment, much more solid happiness, and their choice eventually would be much sounder than when just depending on the headlong rush of a physical infatuation which may last a little while and then turn into disillusionment and positive hate. For the line between love and hate is so narrow it can be crossed before one knows it.

Real love that endures must be based on mutual understanding, respect and a willingness for both principals to meet each other half way in the solution of every problem that comes into their lives. Each must recognize that both have the frailties that are common to mankind; both have the little quirks and peculiarities that may be intriguing before marriage, but may be irritating afterwards unless a common sense determination to give and take is arrived at. Most marriages that go on the rocks are due to failure to recognize that each party to the contract is entitled to a "fifty-fifty" break in the association.

We all know real love is one of life's strongest spurs, greatest amalgamators. We've seen it work its miracles, change what seemed the impossible to the lovely and wonderful. We've seen the heights to which it can climb, the depths, alas, to which it can sink. But as to an actual definition, all-embracing enough to cover its whole meaning, a recipe for knowing it when seen, that has never been achieved since the world began—and it never will. But it is possible to be experienced, between those who are willing to accept its obligations as well as its privileges and enjoyments.

ON DANGEROUS GROUND

When the November winds begin to blow the votes into the ballot boxes from the Atlantic to the broad Pacific, President Roosevelt may hope, with justification, to gather a bumper crop of them from the Blue Grass state of Kentucky. He will, that is, if his press corps is as much on the alert as it is supposed to be and if mint is as important to Kentuckians, as, by tradition, it's cracked up to be.

Just what Mr. Roosevelt's sentiments are concerning mint and its use in the one way Kentuckians would deign to use it—projecting over the top of a glass—we do not know. But it is reported from Washington that the only thing raised on the White House grounds for the White House table is mint. With the proper shadings of publicity, that simple little fact could be made to convey a great deal to the voters of Kentucky and perhaps we may soon see some such development.

The proper way to mix a julep is a matter which, however, overshadows policies of government, economics or diplomacy, and has been known to lead to bloodshed. The president would have to proceed with delicacy along these dangerous bypaths. If he happened to please the julep drinkers of South Carolina he would be sure to offend those of Kentucky. Perhaps the best course after all will be to let the announcement that he has a mint bed stand just as it is, without julep overtones or allusions.

"Bernard Shaw quite frequently eats while writing," says a commentator, which may account for the occasional suggestion of spinach in his works.

The gold of summer, and the green
Of maple trees, rain-washed and clean,
But my heart stays at home.

I love the stretch of yellow sand,
The lure of unfamiliar land,
The little hills that calmly stand,
But my heart stays at home.

I love the beauty of the road
That curves away from my abode.
My shoulders drop their weary load,
But my heart stays at home.

In my mind, nothing is as clear
As my own home, so far, so dear. . . .
I cherish it while I am here,
For my heart stays at home.

U. S. Might Try It

By BRUCE CATTON

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who quit being chief of staff for the U. S. army to become military adviser to the Philippine government, reports that he has devised a foolproof military defense plan for those jittery islands.

Under this plan, the Filipinos will spend $8,000,000 a year for 10 years. For this money they will get a fleet of small, fast, coast-defense torpedo boats, an air corps of fast bombing planes, a regular army of moderate size, and a highly trained army reserve corps that could be mobilized quickly.

Some of his remarks on the uses of this military outfit are worth listening to. For the general starts by saying that his plan "completely negatives any possibility of employing the army in aggressive action."

What the Filipinos get in the way of a fighting machine will have to be used solely on the islands and in their immediately adjacent waters. They will have to fight at home or not at all.

But, adds the general, for home fighting the machine will be incomparable. Indeed, he believes that it will make the Philippines as nearly impregnable, from a military standpoint, as any nation can hope to be.

Neither blockade nor invasion, he is confident, could prevail against it.

Now, if the general knows what he is talking about—and his reputation is that of an exceptionally brilliant soldier—it might be a smart idea to call him back to America and tell him to cook up a similar scheme for his native land.

For the general would seem to have hit upon an idea that a war-frightened world ought to welcome with open arms, to wit: a defense armament that can't be used offensively.

The big trouble with the world armament race is the fact that no such device is at present available.

Nations A and B, let us say, are hereditary and traditional enemies. Nation B, having been invaded twice within living memory by Nation A, builds a huge army and navy to attend to things if a third invasion should develop, and no one—least of all Nation A—can blame her.

But the trouble is that, having built this army and navy, there is nothing in the world to keep Nation B from turning around and using it to invade, harass, and otherwise bedevil Nation A.

So Nation A must build to meet this menace; and Nation B, in turn, must build some more to insure its own security; and Nations C, D, and X must prick up their ears and build to protect themselves against both Nations A and B—and you have as vicious and self-accelerating a spiral as the mind of man can imagine.

If perfect security can be gained in the manner General MacArthur proposes—by supporting a force which is effective only on defense—the world would like to know about it.

It might pay our own government to look into the matter—and, if it pans out, to take a leaf or two from the general's book.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE KING OF DIAMONDS.—Joseph I (1715-1777) ascended the throne of Portugal in 1750. It was in his time that the diamond mines of Brazil were first exploited for the benefit of the crown of Portugal. On ceremonious occasions, the king wore a 20-buttoned coat depicted in my cartoon. Each of those buttons was a sparkling diamond of great size, valued at $20,000 at the time. Twenty buttons represent a value of $400,000 at par, but to get an idea of the magnitude of this sum, it is necessary to multiply the amount by 20. The resulting sum of $8,000,000 represents the proper purchasing power of the value of the king's buttons at the time.

A SACK OF FLOUR COST $275,000.—In 1863 R. C. Gridley of Upper Austin, Nevada, wagered with Doctor Herrick, county official of Clifton, that the Democratic nominee for mayor would be elected. If Gridley lost he was to carry a sack of flour from Austin to Clifton to the tune of "John Brown." If he won, Dr. Herrick was to carry the sack from Clifton to Austin to the tune of "Dixie." The wager was won by Dr. Herrick and the loser carried the bag of flour as agreed. When he arrived, the winner decided to sell the flour at auction for the benefit of the Sanitary commission, caring for wounded soldiers. The auction continued all over the Union, and lasted many months, until a total of $275,000 was realized, which was turned over to the Sanitary commission.

If a baby is ill, it cries with a fretful and moaning cry which differs from that of the healthy baby.

The moment a child shows signs of illness, it should be put to bed. If the child is an infant, the food should be cut down to half the strength; if it is an older child, only fluid food should be given. If its skin seems to be hotter than usual, its temperature should be taken.

In the presence of a fever, it is well to call the doctor immediately. Do not give any medicine—even a cathartic or a laxative—until the doctor orders it. Until the doctor comes, all other children should be excluded from the room.

CLUB ORGANIZED

TALLULAH, La., June 27.—(Special)—A Roosevelt club was organized at a meeting at the Tallulah Club building with Jeff B. Snyder as chairman and Ira Baxter, secretary. Mr. Snyder explained the purposes of the club and at the close of his talk eighteen subscriptions of five dollars each were taken. Plans were made for securing the balance of the quota for Madison parish, $370.30 and officials feel assured that the entire amount will be raised and forwarded to headquarters within the next few days. Members of the Roosevelt committee for this parish are A. J. Sevier, J. B. Snyder, Frank McCaffery and D. H. Allen.

Screen Life In Hollywood

Short takes: The next Chaplin picture is going to have an unusual musical number—four half-wits singing a duet.

A whitewash squad finally has purified "Sailor Beware!" the rowdy Broadway comedy hit that was purchased two years ago. It's to be called "Lady Be Careful!" The Benefield novel, "Valiant Is the Word for Carrie," also has been sufficiently cleansed by scripters, but will be renamed. But nobody yet has dared dicker for "Idiot's Delight," current stage rage.

Slave Market Rises

"Anthony Adverse" seems to have started a boom in the slave market. Paramount is rushing preparations on a big production, probably in color, about a slave ship. Twentieth Century-Fox has announced "The Last Slaver." Other studios are thumbing the S's in their story files, and wondering about "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

The Black Legion scandals scarcely had popped inot the headlines before the Brothers Warner set a crew of writers to work on a yarn about hooded hoodlums.

Eddie Cantor scarcely had settled, with his family, in the former Lita Grey Chaplin house than he went off to Honolulu in a huff. A huff is not a California skiff, nor even a yacht. Stamp News

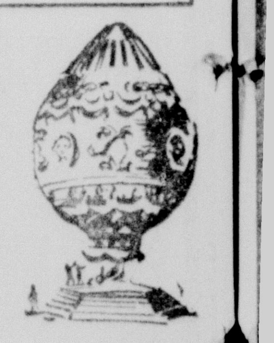
By I. S. Klein



FIRST to rise in a balloon, and first victim of an air disaster, Pilatre de Rozier is to be remembered by a new stamp which France is issuing on the 150th anniversary of his death. Rozier went up with the Marquis d'Arlandes, in November, 1783, and remained in the air 20 minutes. After various other flights, he tried to cross the channel, contrary winds blew the bag back over the shore, the hydrogen caught fire, and Rozier fell to his death.

Business for the government, at the recent international stamp exhibition in New York, was so good that an additional printing of the souvenir panes of four commemorative stamps has been ordered. A total of 1,121,056 of these panes was sold at the exhibition, for a return of $134,526.72. Sale of other U. S. stamps brought the total sales to $229,574.99.

The souvenir panes still may be obtained from the Philatelic Agency in Washington, at 12 cents each.

also to more than 5,000 rallies staged by the party from coast to coast, charging all entrants $1.

Accepts Heartily

As had been expected, the president accepted "heartily" the "brave and clear platform" adopted by the convention just closed. Time and again tonight, Mr. Roosevelt pounded against "monopoly," "economic dictatorship," and "economic tyranny."

The president was "notified" of his renomination by Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the permanent chairman of the Democratic convention, who heaped new praise upon the New Deal chief, predicted overwhelming victory in November, and hit at his enemies.

Garner, in a brief acceptance speech, declared that "I am a soldier and my duty is to follow where the commander leads." He added that he renewed "the pledge of fealty I gave four years ago.

The president and vice president were given a five minute ovation when they entered the field. Garner, in a blue striped suit, was interrupted frequently by short bursts of applause as he talked, particularly when he mentioned the name of Roosevelt.

He had some trouble with his manuscript, and missed his place once, causing him to peer closely through the horn-rimmed spectacles.

Some of those who cheered tonight were still soaked by a rain that fell before sundown. But as the New Deal chieftains arrived, a thin moon broke through the clouds.

This meeting tonight made political history. Never before has a major party nominated its president and vice president, notified them, and received their speeches of acceptance in the same day. Roosevelt was renamed early today; Garner this afternoon.

ECONOMIC ROYALISTS SCATHINGLY ATTACKED

PHILADELPHIA, June 27.—(AP)—President Roosevelt tonight accepted the renomination of the Democratic party and opened his campaign for reelection with a scatching assault upon "economic royalists" who, he charged, fear a loss of their power through the New Deal.

"The economic royalists complain that we seek to overthrow the institutions of America," he told a gigantic throng at Franklin field.

"What they really complain of is that we seek to take away their power. Our allegiance to American institutions requires the overthrow of this kind of power.

"In vain they seek to hide behind the flag and the constitution. In their blindness they forget what the flag and the constitution stand for. Now as always, they stand for a democracy, not tyranny; for freedom, not subjection; and against a dictatorship by mob rule and the over-privileged alike."

Mr. Roosevelt's brief address was confined to a general discussion of the issue of economic oppression as contrasted with New Deal objectives of guarding the people against insecurity, "protection of the family and home, the establishment of a democracy of opportunity and aid to those overtaken" by disaster.

"But the resolute enemy within our gates is ever ready to beat down our words unless in greater courage we will fight for them," he said. "For more than three years we have fought for them. This convention in every word and deed has pledged that that fight will go on.

Principle Only Guide

"The defeats and victories of these years have given to us as a people a new understanding of our government and of ourselves. Never since the early days of the New England town meeting have the affairs of government been so widely discussed and so clearly appreciated. It has been brought home to us that the only effective guide for the safety of this most worldly of worlds is moral principle.

"We do not see faith, hope and charity as unattainable ideals, but we use them as stout supports of a nation fighting the fight for freedom in a modern civilization.

"Faith—in the soundness of democracy in the midst of dictatorships.

"Hope—renewed because we know so well the progress we have made.

"Charity—in the true spirit of that grand old word."

After thanking the party and the people for "sympathy, help and confidence" in the three years of the New Deal, asserting that fear has been "conquered," Mr. Roosevelt added that he could not, with candor, report that "all is well" with the world.

Clouds Gather Darkly

"Clouds of suspicion, tides of ill-will and intolerance gather darkly in many places," he said. "In our own land we enjoy indeed a fullness of life greater than that of most nations. But the rush of modern civilization itself has raised for us new difficulties, new problems which must be solved if we are to preserve to the United States the political and economic freedom for which Washington and Jefferson planned and fought."

Political tyranny was "wiped out" in the Revolutionary war, but since the struggle, he added, "men's inventive genius released new forces in our land which reordered the lives of our people."

He continued:

"The age of machinery, of railroads, of steam and electricity; the telegraph and the radio; mass production, mass distribution—all these combined to bring forward a new civilization and with it a new problem for those who would remain free.

"For out of this modern civilization economic royalists carved new dynasties. New kingdoms were built upon concentration of control over material things. Through new uses of corporations, banks and securities, new machinery of industry, and agriculture, of labor and capital—all undreamed of by the fathers—the whole struggle of modern life was impressed into this royal service.

"There was no place among this royalty for our many thousands of small businessmen and merchants who sought to make a worthy use of the American system of initiative and profit. They were no more free than the worker or the farmer. Even honest and progressive-minded men of wealth, aware of their obligation to their generation, could never know just where they fitted into this dynastic scheme of things.

Despotism Created

The "privileged princes," he continued "reached out for control" of the government itself.

They created a new despotism and wrapped it in the robes of legal sanction," he said. "In its service new mercenaries sought to regiment the people, their labor and their properties. And as a result the average man once more confronts the problem that faced the minute men.

"The hours men and women worked, the wages they received, the conditions of their labor—these had passed beyond the control of the people, and were imposed by this new industrial dictatorship. The savings of the average family, the capital of the small businessman, the investments set aside for old age—old people's money—these were the tools which the new economic royalty used to dignify itself in.

"Those who tilled the soil no longer reaped the rewards which were their right. The small measure of their gains was decreed by men in distant cities.

"Throughout the nation, opportunity was limited by monopoly. Individual initiative was crushed in the cogs of a great machine. The field open for free business was more and more restricted. Private enterprise became too private. It became privileged enterprise, not free enterprise. . . .

"Against economic tyranny such as this, the citizen could only appeal to the organized power of the government. The collapse of 1929 showed up the despotism for what it was. The election of 1932 was the people's mandate to end it. Under that mandate it is being ended."

Mr. Roosevelt told the gathering that he "heartily subscribed" to "the brave and clear platform" that had been adopted and concluded with:

"I accept the commission you have tendered me. I join with you. I am enlisted for the duration of the war."

"reflected on my self-respect" and "I felt warranted in striking him."

Dr. Robert H. Potts, assistant coroner who examined the body, stated that Carpenter died from a broken neck.

Witnesses told officers that after Carpenter had been knocked to the floor, his friend, Crawford Powell, 21, remonstrated with Percy and both began swinging blows, with the result that Powell was floored, but rose with a bruised forehead and a cut lip.

As Percy was leaving the club for his home the fighting spread into a general melee among men in the reception rooms of the club and Alfred Kassel, 27, one of the guests, declared to the police that eight or ten women fought to separate the men.

Held 2 Hours Later

Percy was arrested about two hours later by police, who aroused him from slumber at his home and he told them that he did not know that Carpenter had been killed, but thought that he had been stunned.

Captain Kuepferle said he found bloodstains in the reception room, pantry and kitchen of the club house, that of trail of lbood led from the pantry onto the rear porch and into the yard and that a small corsage of blood-stained white flowers was found caught in a bush in the yard.

Charity hospital doctors pronounced Carpenter dead while guests were seeking to revive him with cold water as his body lay on a sofa in the club.

Mrs. Percy, wife of the man charged in the killing, was an attendant for the bride at the ceremony which preceded the fight.

The former Miss Janice Butler, court records showed that Mrs. Percy filed a petition for separation from her husband several weeks ago in civil district court and that the petition was granted by Judge Nat W. Bond.

The Orleans club is a handsome old structure, formerly a fashionable residence. It has artistic wrought-iron lace railings and festive high ceilings. The building is often rented for wedding parties.

WREN RELEASED IN DEATH PROBE

ex-convict, having served a term in the Arizona state prison for grand larceny and a term in the Mississippi state penitentiary for robbery. He had served numerous sentences for drunkenness and disorderly conduct. Evans' home city was not positively determined, but he was believed to be a native of Mississippi. He gave Vicksburg and McComb as his home city on more occasions than any other cities.

Wren was arrested by the sheriff's department shortly after Evans' body was found. Wren was said by officers to have been examining some papers in the vicinity of where the body was found. Among the papers was an army discharge made out to Lloyd Davis of San Antonio, Texas. It was at first thought possible that the discharge had some connection with the death of the man whose body was found on the tracks, but this possibility later was found unsupported.

Wren's record with peace officers includes only minor charges, such as drunkenness and disorderly conduct, it was learned from the sheriff's department.

NEW HEAT WAVE STRIKES MONROE

since the advent of June, according to Miss Key.

According to her records, a sprinkle occurred on the third of the month. Five-hundredths of an inch fell on the tenth. The final rain, thus far, .07 of an inch, followed a stiff wind late Monday night.

While the situation has not yet become acute, crops were said to be suffering from lack of rainfall. Particularly was this true of truck crops, it was said. Gardens throughout Monroe are already parched.

It was the rain and wind Monday night that brought relief to Monroe after almost a week of blistering heat. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, the official temperature was in the mid-nineties. It returned to 100 degrees Friday.

The extremely hot spell began on June 17 and continued through Monday. The climax was reached June 20, when an all-time official June record of 107 degrees was established. Throughout the entire period, the official maximums were 100 degrees or more.

They seemed to have a widow's cruse full of paint, inexhaustible.

What they actually had was a business leader who showed them where they could buy black paint at a "five and ten" at ten cents a can, and keep on earning $4 a day by buying 20 cents worth of paint.

AT UR, ANCIENT CITY of the Chaldeans, they show a gigantic brick temple, recently uncovered, where it has lain in the ground covered through the ages. It was constructed originally like the tower of Babel, to enable the builders to get up into heaven and reach the gods. First they invented those pagan gods, and then they actually believed in them.

A SENATOR from the middle west, said "an international court in 1778 would have kept this country a British colony." That is true.

And a world court in 1936 would make this country, from England's standpoint, the next best thing to a British colony.

Some of those who still support the world court idea have a feeling, which they do not confess, that we really are a British colony.

"Most of the former soldiers and their families are taking advantage of the opportunity that will be afforded them of investing their bonus money in essential retail merchandise. The merchants of this city are cooperating with them in this commendable purpose by offering unusual advantages during the celebration of a great trade day. The purpose of the merchants is to serve the ex-soldiers and their families to the best of their ability, and every facility of service will be at their disposal at the various stores of the city on Monroe Day."

The committee of the merchants' division in charge of the plans for the observance are: Mr. DeLarot, Herbert Fink, Morris, Haas and Wilson Ewing.

SPECIAL SESSION OF COURT SLATED

ed guilty to the charge which is held against Alexander and Sheftall.

Alexander and Sheftall were arrested in a surprise move of the state during the spring session of the grand jury, after Applin's case was understood to have been brought before the jury. The local youths were arrested near Pine Bluff, Ark., after they suddenly left Monroe in an automobile.

The attempted robbery of Mickey took place as he was returning to his home, 401 Breard street, late at night. Ordered by a would-be robber to throw up his hands, Mickey responded by pulling a pistol from his pocket ber, at the hospital to which he was and wounding the robber. The robtaken for treatment of a wound that proved not serious, admitted that he attempted to hold up Mickey, and revealed that his own name was Applin.

On June 15 Applin pleaded guilty in the district court to the charge against him. He was remanded to jail for sentence. Because his sentence has not yet been imposed, a probability is seen that he will be a state witness in the case.

YOUNG BAPTISTS MEET AT JONESVILLE TUESDAY

JONESVILLE, La., June 27.—(Special)—An all-day rally of young people of the Ouachita Baptist association will be held at the Trinity Baptist church Tuesday, beginning at 10 a.m.

One of the most interesting events of the program will be a pageant depicting the life of an early Christian missionary woman to China.

Reports on various activities of the association and individual groups of the body, and brief addresses will be given by Dorothy Coleman of Good Pine, Clara Jones of Olla, Edwin Jones of Jonesville, Rev. and Mrs. Shirley Briggs, Lois Manning of Jonesville and Donzie Smith of Urania.

ROOSEVELT TALKS AT HUGE OUTDOOR MASS ASSEMBLY

also to more than 5,000 rallies staged by the party from coast to coast, charging all entrants $1.

Accepts Heartily

As had been expected, the president accepted "heartily" the "brave and clear platform" adopted by the convention just closed. Time and again tonight, Mr. Roosevelt pounded against "monopoly," "economic dictatorship," and "economic tyranny."

The president was "notified" of his renomination by Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the permanent chairman of the Democratic convention, who heaped new praise upon the New Deal chief, predicted overwhelming victory in November, and hit at his enemies.

Garner, in a brief acceptance speech, declared that "I am a soldier and my duty is to follow where the commander leads." He added that he renewed "the pledge of fealty I gave four years ago.

The president and vice president were given a five minute ovation when they entered the field. Garner, in a blue striped suit, was interrupted frequently by short bursts of applause as he talked, particularly when he mentioned the name of Roosevelt.

He had some trouble with his manuscript, and missed his place once, causing him to peer closely through the horn-rimmed spectacles.

Some of those who cheered tonight were still soaked by a rain that fell before sundown. But as the New Deal chieftains arrived, a thin moon broke through the clouds.

This meeting tonight made political history. Never before has a major party nominated its president and vice president, notified them, and received their speeches of acceptance in the same day. Roosevelt was renamed early today; Garner this afternoon.

ECONOMIC ROYALISTS SCATHINGLY ATTACKED

PHILADELPHIA, June 27.—(AP)—President Roosevelt tonight accepted the renomination of the Democratic party and opened his campaign for reelection with a scatching assault upon "economic royalists" who, he charged, fear a loss of their power through the New Deal.

"The economic royalists complain that we seek to overthrow the institutions of America," he told a gigantic throng at Franklin field.

"What they really complain of is that we seek to take away their power. Our allegiance to American institutions requires the overthrow of this kind of power.

"In vain they seek to hide behind the flag and the constitution. In their blindness they forget what the flag and the constitution stand for. Now as always, they stand for a democracy, not tyranny; for freedom, not subjection; and against a dictatorship by mob rule and the over-privileged alike."

Mr. Roosevelt's brief address was confined to a general discussion of the issue of economic oppression as contrasted with New Deal objectives of guarding the people against insecurity, "protection of the family and home, the establishment of a democracy of opportunity and aid to those overtaken" by disaster.

"But the resolute enemy within our gates is ever ready to beat down our words unless in greater courage we will fight for them," he said. "For more than three years we have fought for them. This convention in every word and deed has pledged that that fight will go on.

Principle Only Guide

"The defeats and victories of these years have given to us as a people a new understanding of our government and of ourselves. Never since the early days of the New England town meeting have the affairs of government been so widely discussed and so clearly appreciated. It has been brought home to us that the only effective guide for the safety of this most worldly of worlds is moral principle.

"We do not see faith, hope and charity as unattainable ideals, but we use them as stout supports of a nation fighting the fight for freedom in a modern civilization.

"Faith—in the soundness of democracy in the midst of dictatorships.

"Hope—renewed because we know so well the progress we have made.

"Charity—in the true spirit of that grand old word."

After thanking the party and the people for "sympathy, help and confidence" in the three years of the New Deal, asserting that fear has been "conquered," Mr. Roosevelt added that he could not, with candor, report that "all is well" with the world.

Clouds Gather Darkly

"Clouds of suspicion, tides of ill-will and intolerance gather darkly in many places," he said. "In our own land we enjoy indeed a fullness of life greater than that of most nations. But the rush of modern civilization itself has raised for us new difficulties, new problems which must be solved if we are to preserve to the United States the political and economic freedom for which Washington and Jefferson planned and fought."

Political tyranny was "wiped out" in the Revolutionary war, but since the struggle, he added, "men's inventive genius released new forces in our land which reordered the lives of our people."

He continued:

"The age of machinery, of railroads, of steam and electricity; the telegraph and the radio; mass production, mass distribution—all these combined to bring forward a new civilization and with it a new problem for those who would remain free.

"For out of this modern civilization economic royalists carved new dynasties. New kingdoms were built upon concentration of control over material things. Through new uses of corporations, banks and securities, new machinery of industry, and agriculture, of labor and capital—all undreamed of by the fathers—the whole struggle of modern life was impressed into this royal service.

"There was no place among this royalty for our many thousands of small businessmen and merchants who sought to make a worthy use of the American system of initiative and profit. They were no more free than the worker or the farmer. Even honest and progressive-minded men of wealth, aware of their obligation to their generation, could never know just where they fitted into this dynastic scheme of things.

Despotism Created

The "privileged princes," he continued "reached out for control" of the government itself.

They created a new despotism and wrapped it in the robes of legal sanction," he said. "In its service new mercenaries sought to regiment the people, their labor and their properties. And as a result the average man once more confronts the problem that faced the minute men.

"The hours men and women worked, the wages they received, the conditions of their labor—these had passed beyond the control of the people, and were imposed by this new industrial dictatorship. The savings of the average family, the capital of the small businessman, the investments set aside for old age—old people's money—these were the tools which the new economic royalty used to dignify itself in.

"Those who tilled the soil no longer reaped the rewards which were their right. The small measure of their gains was decreed by men in distant cities.

"Throughout the nation, opportunity was limited by monopoly. Individual initiative was crushed in the cogs of a great machine. The field open for free business was more and more restricted. Private enterprise became too private. It became privileged enterprise, not free enterprise. . . .

"Against economic tyranny such as this, the citizen could only appeal to the organized power of the government. The collapse of 1929 showed up the despotism for what it was. The election of 1932 was the people's mandate to end it. Under that mandate it is being ended."

Mr. Roosevelt told the gathering that he "heartily subscribed" to "the brave and clear platform" that had been adopted and concluded with:

"I accept the commission you have tendered me. I join with you. I am enlisted for the duration of the war."

"reflected on my self-respect" and "I felt warranted in striking him."

Dr. Robert H. Potts, assistant coroner who examined the body, stated that Carpenter died from a broken neck.

Witnesses told officers that after Carpenter had been knocked to the floor, his friend, Crawford Powell, 21, remonstrated with Percy and both began swinging blows, with the result that Powell was floored, but rose with a bruised forehead and a cut lip.

As Percy was leaving the club for his home the fighting spread into a general melee among men in the reception rooms of the club and Alfred Kassel, 27, one of the guests, declared to the police that eight or ten women fought to separate the men.

Held 2 Hours Later

Percy was arrested about two hours later by police, who aroused him from slumber at his home and he told them that he did not know that Carpenter had been killed, but thought that he had been stunned.

Captain Kuepferle said he found bloodstains in the reception room, pantry and kitchen of the club house, that of trail of lbood led from the pantry onto the rear porch and into the yard and that a small corsage of blood-stained white flowers was found caught in a bush in the yard.

Charity hospital doctors pronounced Carpenter dead while guests were seeking to revive him with cold water as his body lay on a sofa in the club.

Mrs. Percy, wife of the man charged in the killing, was an attendant for the bride at the ceremony which preceded the fight.

The former Miss Janice Butler, court records showed that Mrs. Percy filed a petition for separation from her husband several weeks ago in civil district court and that the petition was granted by Judge Nat W. Bond.

The Orleans club is a handsome old structure, formerly a fashionable residence. It has artistic wrought-iron lace railings and festive high ceilings. The building is often rented for wedding parties.

WREN RELEASED IN DEATH PROBE

ex-convict, having served a term in the Arizona state prison for grand larceny and a term in the Mississippi state penitentiary for robbery. He had served numerous sentences for drunkenness and disorderly conduct. Evans' home city was not positively determined, but he was believed to be a native of Mississippi. He gave Vicksburg and McComb as his home city on more occasions than any other cities.

Wren was arrested by the sheriff's department shortly after Evans' body was found. Wren was said by officers to have been examining some papers in the vicinity of where the body was found. Among the papers was an army discharge made out to Lloyd Davis of San Antonio, Texas. It was at first thought possible that the discharge had some connection with the death of the man whose body was found on the tracks, but this possibility later was found unsupported.

Wren's record with peace officers includes only minor charges, such as drunkenness and disorderly conduct, it was learned from the sheriff's department.

NEW HEAT WAVE STRIKES MONROE

since the advent of June, according to Miss Key.

According to her records, a sprinkle occurred on the third of the month. Five-hundredths of an inch fell on the tenth. The final rain, thus far, .07 of an inch, followed a stiff wind late Monday night.

While the situation has not yet become acute, crops were said to be suffering from lack of rainfall. Particularly was this true of truck crops, it was said. Gardens throughout Monroe are already parched.

It was the rain and wind Monday night that brought relief to Monroe after almost a week of blistering heat. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, the official temperature was in the mid-nineties. It returned to 100 degrees Friday.

The extremely hot spell began on June 17 and continued through Monday. The climax was reached June 20, when an all-time official June record of 107 degrees was established. Throughout the entire period, the official maximums were 100 degrees or more.

They seemed to have a widow's cruse full of paint, inexhaustible.

What they actually had was a business leader who showed them where they could buy black paint at a "five and ten" at ten cents a can, and keep on earning $4 a day by buying 20 cents worth of paint.

AT UR, ANCIENT CITY of the Chaldeans, they show a gigantic brick temple, recently uncovered, where it has lain in the ground covered through the ages. It was constructed originally like the tower of Babel, to enable the builders to get up into heaven and reach the gods. First they invented those pagan gods, and then they actually believed in them.

A SENATOR from the middle west, said "an international court in 1778 would have kept this country a British colony." That is true.

And a world court in 1936 would make this country, from England's standpoint, the next best thing to a British colony.

Some of those who still support the world court idea have a feeling, which they do not confess, that we really are a British colony.

"Most of the former soldiers and their families are taking advantage of the opportunity that will be afforded them of investing their bonus money in essential retail merchandise. The merchants of this city are cooperating with them in this commendable purpose by offering unusual advantages during the celebration of a great trade day. The purpose of the merchants is to serve the ex-soldiers and their families to the best of their ability, and every facility of service will be at their disposal at the various stores of the city on Monroe Day."

SPECIAL SESSION OF COURT SLATED

ed guilty to the charge which is held against Alexander and Sheftall.

Alexander and Sheftall were arrested in a surprise move of the state during the spring session of the grand jury, after Applin's case was understood to have been brought before the jury. The local youths were arrested near Pine Bluff, Ark., after they suddenly left Monroe in an automobile.

The attempted robbery of Mickey took place as he was returning to his home, 401 Breard street, late at night. Ordered by a would-be robber to throw up his hands, Mickey responded by pulling a pistol from his pocket ber, at the hospital to which he was and wounding the robber. The robtaken for treatment of a wound that proved not serious, admitted that he attempted to hold up Mickey, and revealed that his own name was Applin.

On June 15 Applin pleaded guilty in the district court to the charge against him. He was remanded to jail for sentence. Because his sentence has not yet been imposed, a probability is seen that he will be a state witness in the case.

YOUTH HELD FOR KILLING FATHER

Older Man Dies In Hospital After Suffering Knife Wounds

PHILADELPHIA, Miss., June 27.—(AP)—Sheriff M. A. Posey announced today that Alvin Savell, 19, was being detained in the Neshoba county jail here to await action of the grand jury in connection with the death of his father, Frank Savell, 48, from knife wounds.

The older Savell died in a Philadelphia hospital where he was taken for treatment. The sheriff said Savell was arrested on a statement made by Mrs. Savell, his mother, that her husband was wounded last Saturday in a fight while both of the men were drinking. No formal charge had been filed in the case pending a thorough investigation, the sheriff said.

The alleged fight occurred at the Savell home about fives miles from Philadelphia. The sheriff quoted Mrs. Savell as saying that "Frank had been in Philadelphia last Saturday afternoon and had drunk some liquor. On the way home in his car he overtook Alvin, who also had been drinking and brought him home.

"They had been home only a short time when they began quarrelling loudly. The argument became so heated that tussel ensued in which Alvin's father was cut."

The younger man had made no public statement on his father's death.

NEGRO'S HAND INJURED

Ollie Brigston, negro, 16, employe of the Electrik Maid Bake shop, 404 DeSiard street, was brought to St. Francis sanitarium yesterday afternoon for treatment of an injury to his left hand which he said he received when his hand slipped into the rollers of a dough breaker. The palm of his hand was torn open and he suffered a slight fracture at the base of the forefinger.

TEACHER, 49, WEDS 20-YEAR-OLD PUPIL

NAGARA FALLS, N. Y., June 27.—(AP)—Miss Ruth Kennings, 49-year-old teacher, became the bride here today of her 20-year-old pupil, Leslie William Hodge, who was graduated from Niagara Falls high school on Tuesday. Hodge was 20 years old today.

Beyond saying they were "very happy," neither would talk today, but the Rev. George F. Hoyer, the Lutheran minister who married them, said "they are a happy couple; the bride certainly doesn't appear her age."

Mr Hoyer said "the couple first met in the class room, but their romance grew on her farm near Syracuse, where her husband has been helping her for a number of years."

Hodge is a factory worker here. His parents signed a consent for the marriage.

SIMPLE LIFE FOR LANDON'S FAMILY

Presidential Nominee Vacationing On National Park Ranch

ESTES PARK, Colo., June 27.—(AP)—Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas and his family voted today for the "simple life."

The Republican presidential nominee, Mrs. Landon, the three children—Peggy Anne, 19; Nancy Jo, nearly 4, and John Cobb, 2 1-2—and Mrs. S. E. Cobb, Mrs. Landon's mother, are vacationing here on Secluded ranch in Rocky Mountain national park.

The early mountain dawn is apt to find the governor trout fishing along the banks of Cow creek.

The first few days of relaxation have noticeably brightened the twinkle in his dark brown eyes and smoothed the lines his face acquired during the last few weeks' strain.

Nancy Jo and John Cobb, likewise are early risers, and that, Mrs. Landon explained, calls for early hours for the rest of the household.

Ranch life is new to these youngsters, and they have found many things to see and do. There are elk and deer to watch as they come down to the stream in the morning. There's a white bunny—Nancy Jo's new pet—to feed. There are some baby chicks—John's interest—to tend.

It is certain, if John has anything to say about it, he is going fishing.

Mrs. Landon, an expert nimrod, also intends to fish. "But a little later," she said. "Right now, all I want to do is rest and read."

Bareheaded and in riding clothes, the governor was driven here for his first press conference by Peggy Anne, who also was in riding togs.

As he started the return trip, it was noticed the car was circling back.

"Now what do you suppose—?" wondered a reporter.

"Say," said the governor, leaning from the car, "have any of you fellows found a good place to get a haircut?"

BESIEGED WORKERS GIVEN FOOD AGAIN

PORTSMOUTH, O., June 27.—(AP)—A group of workers besieged in the wire mill of the strike-closed Wheeling Steel corporation plant ate regular meals today but did not know when their food supply would be replenished again.

Encountering no opposition, 16 sheriff's deputies went through the picket lines late yesterday with food for the workers who had lived on crackers for 36 hours.

However, neither the sheriff's office nor company officials would say when another attempt to send food in would be made. Nor would they say how much food they took in yesterday or how many men were still in the wire mill.

Food shipments to some 200 guards and workers inside the huge plant stopped Tuesday when strikers and guards battled around a train carrying supplies from the main plant to the isolated wire mill. One guard was killed.

Efforts to prevent new outbreaks of violence continued today, when Sheriff Arthur Oakes adding to the 65 special deputies already commissioned to patrol the streets of New Boston, where the plant is located.

LEGION LEADERS ACTIVE

William Perhamus (left), post commander Barkdull Faulk post No. 13, American Legion, and Sam Rubin, member of the Barkdull Faulk post, who have been active in the effort to obtain prompt payment of soldiers' bonus checks. They have also been named as chairman and vice-chairman respectively of the Edison Living Memorial campaign in Monroe to raise $3,000 toward an educational fund to send boys and girls of exceptional ability to college or university to study in the field of industrial science.

GARNER DECIDES TO GO FOR WALK

Finds Nothing Much To Do While Attending Convention

PHILADELPHIA, June 27.—(AP)—John Nance Garner decided to "take a walk" today before formally accepting tonight his renomination for the vice-presidency.

Of course, it was not the Al Smith kind of walk but a stroll in the early morning quiet (comparatively speaking) through the festooned streets.

Garner came to town last night, dropped in briefly on a giant banquet of Young Democrats, dined with a few friends in a hotel, then went to bed at 9:30 after declining to let a maid pull down the covers in advance. (He likes to turn them down himself.)

"I guess I'll get up about 7 and get some of this good Philadelphia air," he said.

"What is your program for the day?" reporters asked.

"I'm not going to do a dog-goned thing," he said. "What is there to do?"

The vice-president chose to pass up today's convention session, called to go through the formality of renominating him.

With a rolling laugh, Garner conceded that he would be on hand tonight at Franklin Field where he will be notified of his renomination.

"Inasmuch as I have a part in that proceeding, I'm going down there."

Of the ceremony itself, the renomination of President Roosevelt and the party platform, he had not a word to say. He explained that he hadn't been talking much for more than three years and wasn't going to begin.

He did, however, address a few remarks to the Young Democrats.

"I talked with the president yesterday," he said. "He told me, 'Jack, I hope you are going to give those Young Democrats a good talk.' I said, 'now, boss, you know I don't do any talking.'

"I belong to the firm of Roosevelt and Garner. The senior member does all the leading and talking and I do all the work."

When he went to bed, several officers were stationed outside the door to see that revelers did not disturb him.

But before he had retired, Chairman James A. Farley took him aside and with mock seriousness informed him:

"John, everything's all right. I think we've got the nomination in the bag."

"That's the main thing," Garner responded. "It looks like you're a good field marshal."

YOUTH INJURED

WINNSBORO, La., June 27.—(Special)—Bob Fall, about 20 years old, resident of Sicily Island, was reported in a serious condition at a local sanitarium as the result of injuries suffered recently while riding a gravel truck. The accident occurred between Gilbert and Sicily Island, shortly after Fall had mounted the truck which was hauling gravel from Norris Spring near Sicily Island to Winnsboro.

REED ATTACK UPON ROOSEVELT RENEWED

KANSAS CITY, June 27.—(AP)—Former United States Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, one of the four Democrats who joined Al Smith in a plea to desert the leadership of Franklin D. Roosevelt, renewed the attack today with sharp criticism of the 1936 Democratic platform.

In a statement he predicted "the regimentation of agriculture" and "the reincarnation of the NRA" if the Democratic party wins.

"The platform, taken together with the keynote speeches of the convention," he said, "makes it perfectly plain that the policies heretofore insisted upon by Roosevelt are to be carried out if the Democratic party succeeds at the election."

"It is now clear," he continued, "that it is proposed to drive forward and if the supreme court stands in the way, to either, if possible, deprive that court of jurisdiction to pass upon the constitutionality of acts of congress or to pack the supreme court by the addition of other judges, or * * * to appoint the tools of the president * * *"

PROOF

If you don't believe Max Schmeling really poured it on Joe Louis, just take a squint at the picture of the fight. En route home from Gulfport Thursday night, I stopped over in New Orleans long enough to see the film and when it was over I wished there was time left to see it over. The old vacation starts today and I hope to run into the picture again during the two weeks ramble through the west.

Louis simply had no defense for that right and before long, the steam had gone from Joe's punches. The continuous pounding took plenty from the Bomber and you can plainly see him wilting from that murderous assault as the picture reels on.

There's one punch you want to watch. It came in the second round and although there wasn't a great deal said about it after the fight, you'll notice in the picture that it was the blow that really stopped the negro. It's a terrific right and close observation will show you that it hurt plenty. That fourth round blast, of course, didn't help Joe any, either.

Max didn't escape without taking a few himself. He isn't a very pretty picture as the film shows him after the battle. No wonder they deleted that part of the picture when they "cut" it for showing in Germany.

Schmeling's continuous attack with that right, Joe's attempt to counter with his left, the German's cool, methodical stalking of the wounded negro, Max's disdainful sneers at psychological moments, the knockdown and the knockout—it's all there in the picture.

Incidentally, the film is packing 'em in. They say Schmeling sold his rights for $27,000. If he did, he's big loser because it'll gross a cool million.

Harry Rice tells me the Paramount will show it as soon as he can get it. Don't miss it when it comes to Monroe.

WAR

Madison Square Garden and Mike Jacobs are battling each other for the right to stage the forthcoming bout between Schmeling and Jim Braddock, the current ruler of the heavyweights. Jacobs has announced that Braddock will defend his crown against Schmeling under his auspices in September, and Col. John Reed Kilpatrick counters with the statement that Braddock will be held rigidly to a contract to appear in the Garden. He also claims he has a hold on Schmeling.

Jacobs has been giving the Garden a fit for the past year or so, and Kilpatrick is about ready for a showdown, undoubtedly figuring that a battle to the finish won't hurt the Eighth avenue corporation now.

It was generally thought that the Garden had a corner on Braddock's services. Jim and his manager, Joe Gould, appeared particularly grateful to Kilpatrick and his gang for giving Braddock the opportunity to cop the crown. However, their love for the Garden may have cooled by now. After the Schmeling-Louis fight, Gould made the significant statement that Braddock would fight for the organization producing Schmeling. And that's Mike Jacobs.

Thoroughly aroused by the attempts to take Braddock away from the Garden, Colonel Kilpatrick is allowing fury to ride over the gates for the first time since he became head of the Eighth avenue corporation.

"I know just what has gone on since our principal opposition started business a little more than three years ago," asserts the old Yale Blue.

"I have a desk full of data that might kill professional boxing for a couple of years. I don't want to do it, but will, sooner than lose this fight. I've gone along like a gentleman for more than three years, and enough is sufficient."

That's a pretty strong statement. Maybe the New York commission will call upon Col. Kilpatrick to tell what he knows without waiting for a showdown between the rival promoters.

O'ROURKE PASSES

Tom O'Rourke's death was just an incident to the Schmeling-Louis battle. Thirty years ago it would have been a newspaper story sharing space with the show, for a generation ago O'Rourke was the czar of the fight game in New York.

By a strange, perverse twist of fate, O'Rourke, who won his greatest fame handling and backing negro warriors and who always was in their corner, died of a heart attack in Max Schmeling's dressing room after whispering words of advice to the white man an hour before the German cracked down upon Joe Louis.

O'Rourke, who was 83, went as he would have gone had he had his choice—surrounded by the retinue of a big fight.

Nor would have O'Rourke, the leading handler of negro fighters—he managed George Dixon and Joe Walcott—been disillusioned with so many others had he lived just an hour longer.

"Louis always feints twice with his left before jabbng," O'Rourke told Schmeling. "He holds his head too high when he comes in and his left glove too low. It leaves him set just right for you. Keep far away from him, make him feint and lead, and then send in a smashing right."

Tom O'Rourke, a keen student of of the game, seldom was wrong, and the Schmeling-Louis engagement proved that age hadn't dimmed his eyesight or affected his judgment.

O'Rourke was the last of the really old guard of colorful figures in early American boxing history. Such veterans as William A. Brady, James Wood Coffroth, Charles Harvey, Billy Roche, James J. Johnston, Jim Buckley, Joe Humphries, Dan Morgan, Billy Gibson Billy McCarney, and Al Lippe were only obtaining their starts when O'Rourke was a dominant power of bare-knuckle and leather-draped fisticuffing.

O'Rourke was the country's standout promoter long before 1906, when Tex Rickard so dramatically entered the field with his Nelson-Gans marathon in the gold fields of Nevada.

O'Rourke virtually was a one-man oligarchy in New York, and it remained unbroken until the daring Rickard invaded the east to take control of the old Garden with the advent of the Walker law. The Irishman controlled the only four clubs in Manhattan during the old Horton law days—the old Garden, the National Sporting club, the Lenox A. C., and the Coney Island club.

O'Rourke came back in 1923 to promote the Criqui-Kilbane and Dundee-Criqui featherweight championship bouts at the Polo Grounds, but faded from the picture as younger promoters entered the field.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR SIXTH KRAFT GOLF TOURNAMENT

Many Entries Expected For Annual Bastrop Meet This Week-End

BASTROP, June 27—(Special)—All plans have been completed and everything is in readiness for the sixth annual Kraft Paper golf tournament to be held in Bastrop at the Morehouse Country club on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, July 3, 4 and 5. Invitations have been sent out this week to hundreds of golfers in all parts of Louisiana, Arkansas and Mississippi and a large entry list is expected. Last year over one hundred golfers took part in the tournament.

The tournament this year will be conducted along practically the same lines as last year, in that it will be for professionals and amateurs. A total of $400 in prizes will be awarded amateurs and $75 in cash will be awarded professionals.

Since the Kraft tournaments started in 1931 they have been increasing in interest and are now being looked upon as one of the outstanding golf events of the year in Louisiana.

J. C. Young has been appointed chairman of the tournament committee and has named his various committees who have been at work on various phases of the tournament. Entertainment features which have been arranged include a barbecue and dance on the night of July 4.

Entrants may play their qualifying round any time between June 27 and 12 o'clock noon Saturday, July 4. A pro-amateur match which will be played Friday afternoon, the opening day of the tournament, is expected to attract many entrants. This is a new feature of the tournament started last year for the first time and which created much interest. The first round matches in all flights will begin Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock, semi-finals will be payed Sunday morning and finals will be played Sunday afternoon. There also will be a putting contest Sunday afternoon and the tournament will come to a close with the awarding of prizes Sunday evening.

Previous Kraft golf champions include Freddie Haas of New Orleans, who won the title in 1933 and 1934, Edwin McClure of Shreveport, who won the championship in 1932, and Cramer Haas of Monroe, who carried off the honors at the tournament last year.

TUPELO BOY WINS OPEN GOLF MEET AT JACKSON

JACKSON, Miss., June 27.—(AP)—Shooting birdies to balance his three-putt greens, Jimmy Patrick of Tupelo today won the open golf title of Mississippi from Lem V. Dukes of Jackson, the state amateur champion, by a two stroke margin in a 36-hole playoff.

GUMBERT HURLS NEW YORKERS TO WIN OVER BRUINS

Chicago Loses Another Chance To Gain National League Lead

NEW YORK, June 27.—(AP)—The Chicago Cubs today missed their second chance in a week to take over the National league lead by bowing to a suddenly-slugging band of Giants 11 to 2.

Harry Gumbert

As a result of the victory, the Giants pulled up to a third-place deadlock with the Pirates, and the Cubs sank to a full game off the St. Louis Cardinal's pace.

Harry Gumbert, chalking up his seventh win against two defeats for the season, pitched six-hit ball through the even full innings he worked. Frank Gabler relieved him when he showed signs of weakening early in the eighth.

Although the Giants were out in front from the first inning, when they scored three runs, and started Lon Warneke on the way to his fourth defeat of the season against eight victories, they sewed up the game with a six-run splurge in the eighth, after pushing two more runs across in the sixth.

The six-run spree was made while Roy Henshaw, the third Cub pitcher was in the box. The Giants pounded him for five hits and profited by Henshaw's two-base wild throw to shove the runs over.

In the first, singles by Joe Moore and Sam Leslie, a walk and Gus Mancuso's double brought in the three runs. Mel Ott's walk, Leslie's triple and Mancuso's long fly added the two in the sixth.

Singles by Augie Galan and Lon Warneke accounted for the Cubs' first tally, in the third, while their other, in the seventh, came when Gumbert passed Billy Herman with the bases loaded, after Charley Grimm and Bill Jurges had singled.

REDS WINS SLUGFEST

PHILADELPHIA, June 27.—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds won their sixth straight game today, their longest victory run of the season, by nosing out the Phillies 10 to 9 with a home run attack in which four round-trip clouts were hammered out of the park.

Ival Goodman smashed out two of the four-baggers, and Billy Myers and Babe Herman had one apiece, which more than made up for the 19-14 edge the Phils had in total base hits.

The Phillies not only lost the game, but their shortstop, Leo Norris, as

JONESVILLE TO MEET NATCHEZ IN NEW PARK

JONESVILLE, La., June 27.—(Special)—Work is being rushed to complete the new Jonesville baseball park in time for the opening game Sunday, when the Lions meet the Natchz Pan-Ams. It is expected that the grandstand and the bleachers will be ready to accommodate a large crowd on that date.

The park is being built out of quality materials and bids fair to be a great improvement over the old legion park, which was razed on account of its dilapidated condition. Present plan call for the center field fence being reserved for merchants and business men who desire to take out a space for a painted advertisement.

MUNY GOLFERS PLAY TALLULAH

Inter-City Match To Be Held At Morehouse Course At Bastrop Today

Players from the Municipal golf club will go to Bastrop today to meet members of the Tallulah Country club in an inter-city match over the Morehouse Country club course, Winnie Cole, Muny pro, said yesterday. The match is being played at the Bastrop course so that Muny and Tallulah club golfers may post qualifying scores for the sixth annual Kraft tournament at the Morehouse course this week-end.

Lakeside Country club players will meet the Morehouse contingent in another inter-city match to be played over the Bastrop links today.

Muny club golfers who will compete in today's match with Tallulah are as follows:

Joe Goyne, L. E. Ducote, Ray Buce, Shelby Cage, J. O. Pilcher, Eddie Fitzpatrick, J. M. Menefee, Tilden Austin, K. L. Weldon, Henry Florsheim, James Harris, Dr. R. T. Harberson, Dr. T. A. Brulte, Billy Downing, Milo Mattinson, Tip Schier.

H. S. Parker, Bill Clark, John Smith, Aaron Parker, Bill Adams, W. L. James, Nick Christian, Louis Masur, Sam Davis, M. Merklin, A. B. Sherrard, J. E. Newhouse, R. Perry, Charles Dunlap, J. C. Loftin, George Miller, John Madison, Jake Dorman and Winnie Cole.

The match will start at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

Tallulah will send over a large group of players to be matched with the Muny squad. At least 25 members of the Lakeside club will pair off against the Morehouse players, it was announced here Friday. Thus approximately one hundred golfers will have an opportunity to post qualifying scores today for the annual Kraft tournament, which starts next Saturday.

MOBILE GIRL WINS FINAL FOR TRI-STATE NET TITLE

CINCINNATI, June 27.—(AP)—Miss Lila G. Porter of Mobile, Ala., won the women's singles championship of the 34th annual tri-state tennis tournament today, defeating Miss Virginia Hollinger of Dayton, Ohio, national girls' indoor tennis champion and No. 1 ranking player in the Ohio valley, 6-4, 6-3.

Miss Hollinger started well but her game broke down under Mrs. Porter's fast baseline play and tantalizing dropshots. Both remained in the back courts and Mrs. Porter's shots had more power than Miss Hollinger could meet.

PADGHAM'S 287 LOW AT HOYLAKE

Sarazen Lands In Fifth Place With 291; Jim Adams Second

HOYLAKE, England, June 27.—(AP)—Alf Padgham, who broke into the professional's shop shortly after daylight to get his golf clubs, took the British open championship right under the eyes of Henry Cotton, Gene Sarazen and an assorted body of golfing stars from two continents today.

Boldly resorting to window smashing when the Hoylake golf shop key was lost, Padgham calmly speared himself a pair of 71's and then withdrew to the clubhouse veranda and watched the others vainly try to equal his total of 287.

Several of them had their chances, including Sarazen and Cotton, but they could not endure the rigors of Hoylake's finishing holes.

Sarazen, making one of his famous last-ditch fights, blazed around this morning's round in 70, and went out in 35, one under par, this afternoon. He had a huge, unwieldy gallery mad with excitement as he turned home needing a 34 to tie, but 34 is four under par for that nine, and hole by hole he dropped strokes to Hoylake's vast distances. He finished the nine in 38 for a 73, a total of 291, and a tie for fifth place.

Cotton, requiring only a 36 on that last nine to catch Padgham, also found the strain too great and cracked while the shy, quiet leader sat back and smiled. Cotton finished with a 74 for 28 and a tie with Marcel Dallemagne of France for third place.

The honor of pushing the new champion hardest went to Jim Adams, the Scottish open champion, who was knocking at the door all the way through this championship and wound up only one stroke behind.

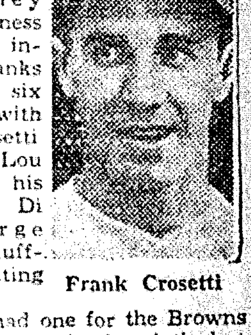
Dallamagne, the French native open champion, also finished brilliantly. He shot a 69, the best score of the last round, to tie Cotton for third at 289.

Errie Ball of Mobile, Ala., played the long holes well and the shorter ones poorly on the last nine of the final round. He started off with a par and then took a five at the short 11th. He dropped another stroke at the short 13th, but birdied the 14th and 16th for a 39 and a round of 79. This gave him a final total of 302.

CROSETTI LEADS ATTACK WITH TWO CIRCUIT SMASHES

Ruffing Chalks Up Ninth Victory, 10-6, Despite Eleven Safeties

ST. LOUIS, June 27.—(AP)—The New York Yankees hammered home-run balls all over the lot today to slug the St. Louis Browns 10 to 6 and stretch their American league lead to seven full games.



Frank Crosetti

Overcoming Pitcher Charley Ruffing's weakness in the early innings, the Yanks smashed out six home runs, with Frank Crosetti clouting two, Lou Gehrig hitting his 18th, and Joe Di Maggio, George Selkirk and Ruffing each getting one.

Jule Solters had one for the Browns with a mate on base in the ninth, but by that time the ultimate result was already established.

Although touched for 11 hits, Ruffing chalked up his ninth victory against five setbacks. Al Thomas, who went the route for the Browns, gave up 16 safe blows to "murderers' row."

Today's homers brought the Yankee total to 14 for the last three days, 25 on the current western trip and 86 for the season.

All of the Yankees' ten runs were accounted for by the homers. Ruffing brought in the first in the third inning, Crosetti hit his first with no one on base in the fifth, and Selkirk's came in the same frame with two mates on. In the seventh, Di Maggio, first up, crashed his into the bleachers, and Gehrig followed immediately afterward with his drive over the right field stands. In the three-run

If you don't believe Max Schmeling really poured it on Joe Louis, just take a squint at the picture of the fight. En route home from Gulfport Thursday night, I stopped over in New Orleans long enough to see the film and when it was over I wished there was time left to see it over. The old vacation starts today and I hope to run into the picture again during the two weeks ramble through the west.

Louis simply had no defense for that right and before long, the steam had gone from Joe's punches. The continuous pounding took plenty from the Bomber and you can plainly see him wilting from that murderous assault as the picture reels on.

There's one punch you want to watch. It came in the second round and although there wasn't a great deal said about it after the fight, you'll notice in the picture that it was the blow that really stopped the negro. It's a terrific right and close observation will show you that it hurt plenty. That fourth round blast, of course, didn't help Joe any, either.

Max didn't escape without taking a few himself. He isn't a very pretty picture as the film shows him after the battle. No wonder they deleted that part of the picture when they "cut" it for showing in Germany.

Schmeling's continuous attack with that right, Joe's attempt to counter with his left, the German's cool, methodical stalking of the wounded negro, Max's disdainful sneers at psychological moments, the knockdown and the knockout—it's all there in the picture.

Incidentally, the film is packing 'em in. They say Schmeling sold his rights for $27,000. If he did, he's big loser because it'll gross a cool million.

Harry Rice tells me the Paramount will show it as soon as he can get it. Don't miss it when it comes to Monroe.

WAR

Madison Square Garden and Mike Jacobs are battling each other for the right to stage the forthcoming bout between Schmeling and Jim Braddock, the current ruler of the heavyweights. Jacobs has announced that Braddock will defend his crown against Schmeling under his auspices in September, and Col. John Reed Kilpatrick counters with the statement that Braddock will be held rigidly to a contract to appear in the Garden. He also claims he has a hold on Schmeling.

Jacobs has been giving the Garden a fit for the past year or so, and Kilpatrick is about ready for a showdown, undoubtedly figuring that a battle to the finish won't hurt the Eighth avenue corporation now.

It was generally thought that the Garden had a corner on Braddock's services. Jim and his manager, Joe Gould, appeared particularly grateful to Kilpatrick and his gang for giving Braddock the opportunity to cop the crown. However, their love for the Garden may have cooled by now. After the Schmeling-Louis fight, Gould made the significant statement that Braddock would fight for the organization producing Schmeling. And that's Mike Jacobs.

Thoroughly aroused by the attempts to take Braddock away from the Garden, Colonel Kilpatrick is allowing fury to ride over the gates for the first time since he became head of the Eighth avenue corporation.

"I know just what has gone on since our principal opposition started business a little more than three years ago," asserts the old Yale Blue.

"I have a desk full of data that might kill professional boxing for a couple of years. I don't want to do it, but will, sooner than lose this fight. I've gone along like a gentleman for more than three years, and enough is sufficient."

That's a pretty strong statement. Maybe the New York commission will call upon Col. Kilpatrick to tell what he knows without waiting for a showdown between the rival promoters.

O'ROURKE PASSES

Tom O'Rourke's death was just an incident to the Schmeling-Louis battle. Thirty years ago it would have been a newspaper story sharing space with the show, for a generation ago O'Rourke was the czar of the fight game in New York.

By a strange, perverse twist of fate, O'Rourke, who won his greatest fame handling and backing negro warriors and who always was in their corner, died of a heart attack in Max Schmeling's dressing room after whispering words of advice to the white man an hour before the German cracked down upon Joe Louis.

O'Rourke, who was 83, went as he would have gone had he had his choice—surrounded by the retinue of a big fight.

Nor would have O'Rourke, the leading handler of negro fighters—he managed George Dixon and Joe Walcott—been disillusioned with so many others had he lived just an hour longer.

"Louis always feints twice with his left before jabbng," O'Rourke told Schmeling. "He holds his head too high when he comes in and his left glove too low. It leaves him set just right for you. Keep far away from him, make him feint and lead, and then send in a smashing right."

Tom O'Rourke, a keen student of of the game, seldom was wrong, and the Schmeling-Louis engagement proved that age hadn't dimmed his eyesight or affected his judgment.

O'Rourke was the last of the really old guard of colorful figures in early American boxing history. Such veterans as William A. Brady, James Wood Coffroth, Charles Harvey, Billy Roche, James J. Johnston, Jim Buckley, Joe Humphries, Dan Morgan, Billy Gibson Billy McCarney, and Al Lippe were only obtaining their starts when O'Rourke was a dominant power of bare-knuckle and leather-draped fisticuffing.

O'Rourke was the country's standout promoter long before 1906, when Tex Rickard so dramatically entered the field with his Nelson-Gans marathon in the gold fields of Nevada.

O'Rourke virtually was a one-man oligarchy in New York, and it remained unbroken until the daring Rickard invaded the east to take control of the old Garden with the advent of the Walker law. The Irishman controlled the only four clubs in Manhattan during the old Horton law days—the old Garden, the National Sporting club, the Lenox A. C., and the Coney Island club.

O'Rourke came back in 1923 to promote the Criqui-Kilbane and Dundee-Criqui featherweight championship bouts at the Polo Grounds, but faded from the picture as younger promoters entered the field.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR SIXTH KRAFT GOLF TOURNAMENT

Many Entries Expected For Annual Bastrop Meet This Week-End

BASTROP, June 27—(Special)—All plans have been completed and everything is in readiness for the sixth annual Kraft Paper golf tournament to be held in Bastrop at the Morehouse Country club on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, July 3, 4 and 5. Invitations have been sent out this week to hundreds of golfers in all parts of Louisiana, Arkansas and Mississippi and a large entry list is expected. Last year over one hundred golfers took part in the tournament.

The tournament this year will be conducted along practically the same lines as last year, in that it will be for professionals and amateurs. A total of $400 in prizes will be awarded amateurs and $75 in cash will be awarded professionals.

Since the Kraft tournaments started in 1931 they have been increasing in interest and are now being looked upon as one of the outstanding golf events of the year in Louisiana.

J. C. Young has been appointed chairman of the tournament committee and has named his various committees who have been at work on various phases of the tournament. Entertainment features which have been arranged include a barbecue and dance on the night of July 4.

Entrants may play their qualifying round any time between June 27 and 12 o'clock noon Saturday, July 4. A pro-amateur match which will be played Friday afternoon, the opening day of the tournament, is expected to attract many entrants. This is a new feature of the tournament started last year for the first time and which created much interest. The first round matches in all flights will begin Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock, semi-finals will be payed Sunday morning and finals will be played Sunday afternoon. There also will be a putting contest Sunday afternoon and the tournament will come to a close with the awarding of prizes Sunday evening.

Previous Kraft golf champions include Freddie Haas of New Orleans, who won the title in 1933 and 1934, Edwin McClure of Shreveport, who won the championship in 1932, and Cramer Haas of Monroe, who carried off the honors at the tournament last year.

TUPELO BOY WINS OPEN GOLF MEET AT JACKSON

JACKSON, Miss., June 27.—(AP)—Shooting birdies to balance his three-putt greens, Jimmy Patrick of Tupelo today won the open golf title of Mississippi from Lem V. Dukes of Jackson, the state amateur champion, by a two stroke margin in a 36-hole playoff.

GUMBERT HURLS NEW YORKERS TO WIN OVER BRUINS

Chicago Loses Another Chance To Gain National League Lead

NEW YORK, June 27.—(AP)—The Chicago Cubs today missed their second chance in a week to take over the National league lead by bowing to a suddenly-slugging band of Giants 11 to 2.

Harry Gumbert

As a result of the victory, the Giants pulled up to a third-place deadlock with the Pirates, and the Cubs sank to a full game off the St. Louis Cardinal's pace.

Harry Gumbert, chalking up his seventh win against two defeats for the season, pitched six-hit ball through the even full innings he worked. Frank Gabler relieved him when he showed signs of weakening early in the eighth.

Although the Giants were out in front from the first inning, when they scored three runs, and started Lon Warneke on the way to his fourth defeat of the season against eight victories, they sewed up the game with a six-run splurge in the eighth, after pushing two more runs across in the sixth.

The six-run spree was made while Roy Henshaw, the third Cub pitcher was in the box. The Giants pounded him for five hits and profited by Henshaw's two-base wild throw to shove the runs over.

In the first, singles by Joe Moore and Sam Leslie, a walk and Gus Mancuso's double brought in the three runs. Mel Ott's walk, Leslie's triple and Mancuso's long fly added the two in the sixth.

Singles by Augie Galan and Lon Warneke accounted for the Cubs' first tally, in the third, while their other, in the seventh, came when Gumbert passed Billy Herman with the bases loaded, after Charley Grimm and Bill Jurges had singled.

REDS WINS SLUGFEST

PHILADELPHIA, June 27.—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds won their sixth straight game today, their longest victory run of the season, by nosing out the Phillies 10 to 9 with a home run attack in which four round-trip clouts were hammered out of the park.

Ival Goodman smashed out two of the four-baggers, and Billy Myers and Babe Herman had one apiece, which more than made up for the 19-14 edge the Phils had in total base hits.

The Phillies not only lost the game, but their shortstop, Leo Norris, as

JONESVILLE TO MEET NATCHEZ IN NEW PARK

JONESVILLE, La., June 27.—(Special)—Work is being rushed to complete the new Jonesville baseball park in time for the opening game Sunday, when the Lions meet the Natchz Pan-Ams. It is expected that the grandstand and the bleachers will be ready to accommodate a large crowd on that date.

The park is being built out of quality materials and bids fair to be a great improvement over the old legion park, which was razed on account of its dilapidated condition. Present plan call for the center field fence being reserved for merchants and business men who desire to take out a space for a painted advertisement.

MUNY GOLFERS PLAY TALLULAH

Inter-City Match To Be Held At Morehouse Course At Bastrop Today

Players from the Municipal golf club will go to Bastrop today to meet members of the Tallulah Country club in an inter-city match over the Morehouse Country club course, Winnie Cole, Muny pro, said yesterday. The match is being played at the Bastrop course so that Muny and Tallulah club golfers may post qualifying scores for the sixth annual Kraft tournament at the Morehouse course this week-end.

Lakeside Country club players will meet the Morehouse contingent in another inter-city match to be played over the Bastrop links today.

Muny club golfers who will compete in today's match with Tallulah are as follows:

Joe Goyne, L. E. Ducote, Ray Buce, Shelby Cage, J. O. Pilcher, Eddie Fitzpatrick, J. M. Menefee, Tilden Austin, K. L. Weldon, Henry Florsheim, James Harris, Dr. R. T. Harberson, Dr. T. A. Brulte, Billy Downing, Milo Mattinson, Tip Schier.

H. S. Parker, Bill Clark, John Smith, Aaron Parker, Bill Adams, W. L. James, Nick Christian, Louis Masur, Sam Davis, M. Merklin, A. B. Sherrard, J. E. Newhouse, R. Percy, Charles Dunlap, J. C. Loftin, George Miller, John Madison, Jake Dorman and Winnie Cole.

The match will start at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

Tallulah will send over a large group of players to be matched with the Muny squad. At least 25 members of the Lakeside club will pair off against the Morehouse players, it was announced here Friday. Thus approximately one hundred golfers will have an opportunity to post qualifying scores today for the annual Kraft tournament, which starts next Saturday.

MOBILE GIRL WINS FINAL FOR TRI-STATE NET TITLE

CINCINNATI, June 27.—(AP)—Miss Lila G. Porter of Mobile, Ala., won the women's singles championship of the 34th annual tri-state tennis tournament today, defeating Miss Virginia Hollinger of Dayton, Ohio, national girls' indoor tennis champion and No. 1 ranking player in the Ohio valley, 6-4, 6-3.

Miss Hollinger started well but her game broke down under Mrs. Porter's fast baseline play and tantalizing dropshots. Both remained in the back courts and Mrs. Porter's shots had more power than Miss Hollinger could meet.

PADGHAM'S 287 LOW AT HOYLAKE

Sarazen Lands In Fifth Place With 291; Jim Adams Second

HOYLAKE, England, June 27.—(AP)—Alf Padgham, who broke into the professional's shop shortly after daylight to get his golf clubs, took the British open championship right under the eyes of Henry Cotton, Gene Sarazen and an assorted body of golfing stars from two continents today.

Boldly resorting to window smashing when the Hoylake golf shop key was lost, Padgham calmly speared himself a pair of 71's and then withdrew to the clubhouse veranda and watched the others vainly try to equal his total of 287.

Several of them had their chances, including Sarazen and Cotton, but they could not endure the rigors of Hoylake's finishing holes.

Sarazen, making one of his famous last-ditch fights, blazed around this morning's round in 70, and went out in 35, one under par, this afternoon. He had a huge, unwieldy gallery mad with excitement as he turned home needing a 34 to tie, but 34 is four under par for that nine, and hole by hole he dropped strokes to Hoylake's vast distances. He finished the nine in 38 for a 73, a total of 291, and a tie for fifth place.

Cotton, requiring only a 36 on that last nine to catch Padgham, also found the strain too great and cracked while the shy, quiet leader sat back and smiled. Cotton finished with a 74 for 28 and a tie with Marcel Dallemagne of France for third place.

The honor of pushing the new champion hardest went to Jim Adams, the Scottish open champion, who was knocking at the door all the way through this championship and wound up only one stroke behind.

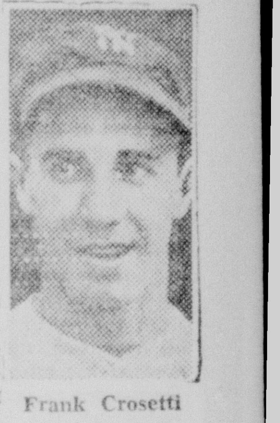
Dallamagne, the French native open champion, also finished brilliantly. He shot a 69, the best score of the last round, to tie Cotton for third at 289.

Errie Ball of Mobile, Ala., played the long holes well and the shorter ones poorly on the last nine of the final round. He started off with a par and then took a five at the short 11th. He dropped another stroke at the short 13th, but birdied the 14th and 16th for a 39 and a round of 79. This gave him a final total of 302.

CROSETTI LEADS ATTACK WITH TWO CIRCUIT SMASHES

Ruffing Chalks Up Ninth Victory, 10-6, Despite Eleven Safeties

ST. LOUIS, June 27.—(AP)—The New York Yankees hammered home-run balls all over the lot today to slug the St. Louis Browns 10 to 6 and stretch their American league lead to seven full games.



Frank Crosetti

Overcoming Pitcher Charley Ruffing's weakness in the early innings, the Yanks smashed out six home runs, with Frank Crosetti clouting two, Lou Gehrig hitting his 18th, and Joe Di Maggio, George Selkirk and Ruffing each getting one.

Jule Solters had one for the Browns with a mate on base in the ninth, but by that time the ultimate result was already established.

Although touched for 11 hits, Ruffing chalked up his ninth victory against five setbacks. Al Thomas, who went the route for the Browns, gave up 16 safe blows to "murderers' row."

Today's homers brought the Yankee total to 14 for the last three days, 25 on the current western trip and 86 for the season.

All of the Yankees' ten runs were accounted for by the homers. Ruffing brought in the first in the third inning. Crosetti hit his first with no one on base in the fifth, and Selkirk's came in the same frame with two mates on. In the seventh, Di Maggio, first up, crashed his into the bleachers, and Gehrig followed immediately afterward with his drive over the right field stands. In the three-run

KOCSIS TRIMS L. S. U. STAR IN COLLEGE GOLF

LESLIE FALTERS AS MICHIGAN ACE WINS FINAL, 6-5

Chuck Takes Early Lead Which Louisiana Star Fails To Overcome

By William Weekes
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

CHICAGO, June 27.—(AP)—Charles (Chuck) Kocsis, steel-nerved young shotmaker from Detroit, drilled in a 22-foot putt on the 31st green at the North Shore club today to overwhelm young Paul Leslie of Louisiana State, 6 and 5, and bring the National Intercollegiate golf crown to Michigan and the Big Ten for the second time in 38 years.

Chuck Kocsis

Kocsis, winner of the Western conference titles in 1934 and 1936, and the best of the amateurs in the National Open battle at Baltusrol, took the lead at the first hole of the scheduled 36-hole final match today, and never was headed.

Playing steady, consistent golf to set a pace the courageous sophomore from the south was unable to match, he was one up at lunch time, increased his margin to four up at the three-quarter mark as Leslie faltered, and ended the match with a flourish on the 31st hole.

Kocsis, born at New Castle, Pa., 23 years ago, duplicated the achievement of Michigan's Johnny Fischer in 1932, in winning both the Big Ten and National Collegiate titles. Fischer went on to become a member of the United States Walker cup team, an honor which has not fallen to Kocsis so far.

Hero of three comebacks during the tournament, two of them of the hair-raising variety, in reaching the final round, Kocsis was at the top of his game today. There was no need for him to stage a rally of any kind as he put in a day of near-par shooting over the 6,927-yard, liberally trapped North Short course, to wear Leslie down.

He finished the morning round one up and at the start of afternoon play it was apparent the pace was beginning to tell on the southern shotmaker. He dropped the tenth to Kocsis' par four and after halving the next two lost three holes in a row. From then on it was a question of time, with Leslie's putting becoming erratic after having been brilliant all week.

Kocsis, on the other hand, started pouring them in from everywhere, reaching the climax of his hot work on the carpets with the 22-foot effort on the finishing hole.

Leslie proceeded to the finals in orderly manner, reaching his peak by eliminating his more famous teammate, Frederick T. Haas, Jr. Kocsis, however, had anything but an easy time reaching the final round. He squeezed in among the qualifiers with 156 strokes and then beat Paul Jamison of Yale and Lynford Lardner, Jr., before encountering trouble.

The Michigan star had to go an extra hole to down John O. Lexinson of Yale after squaring the match with a birdie and made a great rally to square his match with Willie Turnesa of Holy Cross Friday before winning on the extra hole. Leslie eliminated Art Doering, Colorado, Pay Malloy, Notre Dame and Verne (Spec) Stewart of Stanford.

HARDIN, MOREAU TORRANCE WIN IN SEMI-FINAL TRIAL

Bonthron's Victory Over Venzke Features Meet At Harvard Oval

By Alan Gould
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 27.—(AP)—Bounding Bill Bonthron, hero of many a stirring foot-race during his spectacular career at Princeton university, dashed down the Harvard Stadium stretch today with an old-time burst of speed to lick his Pennsylvania rival, Gene Venzke, and fortify his chances of making the American Olympic team.

Out of competition last year and slow this spring to round into form, Bonthron bounded off the last turn to close an eight-yard gap quickly, overtake Venzke some distance from the tape and win by a foot in the 1500 meter final of the eastern sectional Olympic tryouts.

The former Princeton captain's time of 3:55.2 was not so startling, compared to his own world record of 3:48.8.

Bonthron's victory was the high-spot of the tryouts which served as the semi-final test for some of the south's outstanding athletes, as well as the eastern group. First and second place men in each of the 17 events contested today under rainy conditions automatically qualified for the final American tryouts July 11-12 at Randall's Island Stadium, New York City.

The weather conditions, including tricky gusts of wind as well as frequent showers, were not conducive to exceptional performances.

Eddie Gordon of Iowa City, 1932 Olympic broad jump champion did no better than 23 feet, 6 inches, and finished third to Henry (Monk) Little of William and Mary, and thus missed the final tryouts.

Syracuse's Eddie O'Brien, national champion and sensation of the last winter season, qualified in the 400 meters but he ran such a disappointing second to his Dartmouth rival, Jack Hoffstetter, that his chances of making the Olympic team appear jeopardized, particularly with a star field of quarter-milers emerging from the west.

Hoffstetter registered 47.7 seconds. O'Brien was extended to save second place from the rush of Dick Gill of Boston college by a stride.

David Weichert of Rice institute, Texas, achieved the most startling performance of the field events when he cleared 14 feet, 3 inches to surpass the Olympic pole vault record in the meet's closing event. Inspired by the best performance of his career, Weichert then tried the bar at the world record height of 15-5 1-2 but failed in two attempts. Second place went to Bug Deacon, former Stanford star, at 14 feet even. The Olympic record, 14 feet, 1 7-8 inches, was made by Bill Miller, U. S. winner in 1932.

The only other Olympic mark to be bettered was in the hammer throw. On his last attempt, Henry Dreyer of Providence, R. I., and the New York A. C., got off a mighty toss of 180 feet, 3 inches to overtake his Maine rival, Donald Favor, who had achieved 177 feet, 4 inches. Dreyer surpassed the Olympic record of 179 feet, 8.4 inches, made by Matt McGrath, New York police officer, in the 1912 games.

John Woodruff, 20-year-old negro runner who has just finished his freshman year at the University of Pittsburgh, established himself as a real Olympic hope by capturing the 800 meters in the dazzling time of 1:51.3. Only Ben Eastman, coast star and record-holder, has beaten this time in competition this year. Woodruff, who has an extraordinary stride, beat Indiana's Chuck Hornbostel by three yards.

The veteran Joe McCluskey of the New York A. C., not only proved he is still in a class by himself among American steeplechasers but came within one-tenth second of the Olympic standard. McCluskey was clocked in 9:21.9. He finished 75 yards in front of Eino Pentti of the Millrose A. A. New York, who thus gained his second qualifying place. Pentti won the 10,000 meters run easily yesterday.

Walter (Duke) Hood, Cornell star now representing the Newark A. C., missed his chance to top the discus throwers and beat the Olympic record when he fouled on his best throw, measuring 165 feet, 11 1-2 inches. Hood qualified, however, with a second place throw of 160 feet, 11 1-4 inches, made the day before, while the 1932 Olympic champion, John Anderson of the New York A. C. remained in front, with 161 feet, 8 1-2 inches.

The Olympic high jump record of 6 feet, 6 inches was equalled by Cornelius Johnson, Los Angeles negro, but he has consistently done better. Johnson was satisfied not to try jumping higher when this mark sufficed to clinch first place, an inch beyond the best efforts of either George Spitz of the New York A. C., or Al Threadgill, Temple university negro.

Jack Torrance, the 320-pound Baton Rouge (La.) policeman and world record-holder, rallied to win the shot put with a toss of 52 feet, 3 1-8 inches. Torrance trailed in yesterday's trials but made his first effort this afternoon good enough to beat his Boston rival, Dimmy Zaitz, who took second place with 51 feet, 9 inches. The big southerner still feels the effects of a sore shoulder, however, and is far from his form of two years ago, when he set a world mark of 57 feet, 1 inch.

Louisiana's hurdlers monopolized the spotlight. The veteran Al Moreau skimmed over the 110 meter high hurdles in 14.5 second to whip Phil Good of Bowdoin college, by two yards, with another Louisianan, Johnny Morriss, 1934 national champion, third. Glenn Hardin of Louisiana State, apparently back in tip form, romped off with the 400 meter hurdles in 52.6 seconds, finishing four yards in front of Hamilton Hucker, Buffalo boy competing for the New York A. C.

The sprints failed to develop anything startling. Robert Rodenkirchen, the Jersey City schoolboy who was disbarred yesterday on non-citizenship grounds after breaking a 200 meter record, sat on the sidelines as Ben Johnson, New York negro, fleshed home a winner in 21.5 seconds. This was a half-second short of the mark Rodenkirchen made for the distance, run around one turn, but good enough to give Johnson a yard victory over Edgar Mason, Pittsburgh star and inter-collegiate A. A. A. A. champion.

Rodenkirchen's status, as an Olympic hopeful, depends on pending steps to obtain his father's final citizenship papers before July 15, the date on which the American Olympic team sails. If the German-born youngster's eligibility to represent the United States can be cleared, he will be permitted to enter the final tryouts in New York on the strength of his fast work yesterday.

SMOKIES SHADE CHICKS

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., June 27.—(AP)—Masterful relief hurling by Jim Mooney, former major league southpaw, coupled with two home runs by Marshall Mauldin, young center fielder, enabled Knoxville to defeat Memphis 4 to 3 today.

Mooney relieved Moss in the seventh inning with three on and none out. Duke flied out, scoring Grace. Benning fanned. Farrell forced Reese at second. Nine men faced Mooney in three innings. Willie Duke hit a home run for Memphis.

Score by innings:
Memphis ....001 010 100—3 7 1
Knoxville ....200 002 00x—4 7 2
Nelson and Powell; Moss, Mooney and Mueller.

VOLS TRIM LOOKOUTS

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 27.—(AP)—Nashville made it two straight today over the Chattanooga Lookouts, winning 6 to 2 as Poco Taitt batted out a homer and two singles in three times at bat.

The teams meet in a doubleheader here tomorrow.

Score by innings:
Chattanooga ....110 000 000—2 7 2
Nashville ....004 000 20x—6 8 0
Chase and Crompton; Barnes and O'Malley.

TRAVELERS WIN IN 11TH

ATLANTA, June 27.—(AP)—The Little Rock Travelers shoved across two runs in an eleventh-inning attack to break a deadlock and defeat the league-leading Atlanta Crackers 5-3 today.

The Crackers got off to a good start with two tallies in the first inning and one in the third but they never were able to score again.
Little Rock .....010 010 100 02—5 10 2
Atlanta ....201 000 000 00—3 11 0
Moore and Dickey; Durham and Galvin.

HOMER BEATS PELS

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 27.—(AP)—Legrant Scott's home run with the bases loaded proved a lethal wallop here tonight as the Barons defeated New Orleans, 5 to 4, behind the steady hurling of Bobby Coombs.

Scott also drove home the other Birmingham run in the first when he singled after James opened the inning with a double.

OUACHITA VALLEY

MEETING MONDAY

A meeting of team managers of the Ouachita Valley league for the purpose of taking action on player assignments for the second half of the season, will be held Monday night at 8 o'clock at the Monroe city hall, T. O. Dent, president of the league, announced last night.

President Dent said all managers of teams in the league will be expected to be at the meeting with their player lists already prepared.

TWO AT STERLINGTON

The Sterlington Engineers and the Hodge Papermakers will play a doubleheader this afternoon on the Sterlington diamond. The first game will start at 2:30 o'clock. The usual large Sunday afternoon gallery of fans is expected to be on hand to witness the games.

Baumsten and Brooks will draw the pitching assignments for the Engineers, while Louis and Fontenot are expectedto hurl for the Papermakers.

The Engineers, now the third-place team in the standings, will be out to win the game and further their chances of coming out of the first half of the season in a tie with the Brown Paper Mill Brownies for second place.

RUSTON AT BROWN

The Brown Paper mill's Brownies, riding hard to overtake the league leading Swartz Carbon Blackers before the close of the first half pennant race in the Ouachita Valley league, will meet the Ruston Volunteers in a double header at the Brownville park this afternoon, and tomorrow they will tangle with the Carbon Blackers in what promises to be the crucial game of the season.

The first of today's games will start at 2:30 o'clock, and Monday's skirmish will begin at 4 p.m.

Providing the Brownies can beat the Vols in both games today, they will be in a good position to go into a tie with Swartz. A twin victory today and a victory over the Carbon Blackers tomorrow will practically cinch the Papermakers chances of getting in at least a playoff for the first half pennant.

However, if Swartz should happen to lose to Winnfield today, which is not likely, and the Brownies should win both of their's, the two leading clubs would go into a tie and tomorrow's game would have all the earmarks of a championship battle.

The game Monday will be a continuation of last Sunday's battle between Swartz and Brown, which was protested by the Carbon Blackers in the fourth inning, although the game was completed with the Brownies leading at the end of nine innings, 5 to 2. The play Monday will be resumed in the start of the fourth inning with Hammonds of Swartz at bat and two men out, the stage the game had reached when the protest was made concerning a base hit which at the time was called a double but ruled a home run after the protest had been heard by T. O. Dent, president of the league. Swartz will be leading Brown, 3 to 1, the score up to the fourth inning, when the game starts tomorrow.

Manager Norbert Steed has Fred Hammett, Ralph Fields and Mutt Pittard ready for the hurling duties in today's games, which Duncan will match. The batteries for tomorrow's game are expected to be Mayes and Duncan for Brown and Still and Courtney for Swartz.

GRANT TROUNCES AUSTRALIAN STAR

Atlanta Atom Whips McGrath, 6-3, 6-4, 6-0, Before 20,000 At Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 27.—(AP)—Britons know now why Bryan (Bitsy) Grant is the giant-killer of the tennis courts.

The Atlanta atom shelled Vivian McGrath of Australia to cover, 6-3, 6-4, 6-0 in the fourth round of the all-England championship today.

Grant treated a capacity gallery of 20,000 to one of the greatest displays of court-covering ever seen on Wimbledon's historic center turf.

With McGrath's victory tucked under his belt and an earlier triumph over Heiner Henkel, young German Davis cup star, Grant found himself in the quarter-final round where he will meet Fred Perry, twice champion, Monday in the star attraction. It should be a great deal of contrasting styles—the Atlantan's rhythmic steadiness and the Briton's blasting accuracy.

Grant, Perry, and the Australians, Jack Crawford and Adrian Quist, all gained the round of eight today. Perry breezed past Camille Malfroy, former Cambridge player, 6-2, 6-2, 6-4; Crawford toppled Harry Lee, ex-British Davis cupster, 7-5, 6-4, 9-7, and Quist defeated Donald Butler, 6-3, 7-5, 9-7.

The other quarter-final brackets were filled yesterday by Red Head Don Budge, who still looks like America's best bet notwithstanding Grant's fine showings; Wilmer Allison, the American champion, Gottfried von Cramm, German ace, and H. W. (Bunny) Austin, Perry's Davis cup teammate. All eight are seeded players.

Perry, Grant, Budge and Quist are in the upper half of the draw; Allison, Austin, Crawford and von Cramm form the lower half. Monday's program: Perry vs. Grant; Budge vs. Quist; Austin vs. Allison, and Crawford vs. von Cramm.

While Grant stole the show, Helen Jacobs, the American champion, moved into the quarter-finals with a 6-4, 6-3 triumph over Countess Lili de la Valdene of France and Spain. Her next opponent will be the much improved Anita Lizana of Chile, who trounced Mary Heeley of England, 6-3, 6-3.

KOCSIS TRIMS L. S. U. STAR IN COLLEGE GOLF

Louisiana Stars Qualify For Olympic Track Finals

LESLIE FALTERS AS MICHIGAN ACE WINS FINAL, 6-5

Chuck Takes Early Lead Which Louisiana Star Fails To Overcome

By William Weekes
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Chuck Kocsis

CHICAGO, June 27.—(AP)—Charles (Chuck) Kocsis, steel-nerved young shotmaker from Detroit, drilled in a 22-foot putt on the 31st green at the North Shore club today to overwhelm young Paul Leslie of Louisiana State, 6 and 5, and bring the National Intercollegiate golf crown to Michigan and the Big Ten for the second time in 38 years.

Kocsis, winner of the Western conference titles in 1934 and 1936, and the best of the amateurs in the National Open battle at Baltusrol, took the lead at the first hole of the scheduled 36-hole final match today, and never was headed.

Playing steady, consistent golf to set a pace the courageous sophomore from the south was unable to match, he was one up at lunch time, increased his margin to four up at the three-quarter mark as Leslie faltered, and ended the match with a flourish on the 31st hole.

Kocsis, born at New Castle, Pa., 23 years ago, duplicated the achievement of Michigan's Johnny Fischer in 1932, in winning both the Big Ten and National Collegiate titles. Fischer went on to become a member of the United States Walker cup team, an honor which has not fallen to Kocsis so far.

Hero of three comebacks during the tournament, two of them of the hair-raising variety, in reaching the final round, Kocsis was at the top of his game today. There was no need for him to stage a rally of any kind as he put in a day of near-par shooting over the 6,927-yard, liberally trapped North Short course, to wear Leslie down.

He finished the morning round one up and at the start of afternoon play it was apparent the pace was beginning to tell on the southern shotmaker. He dropped the tenth to Kocsis' par four and after halving the next two lost three holes in a row. From then on it was a question of time, with Leslie's putting becoming erratic after having been brilliant all week.

Kocsis, on the other hand, started pouring them in from everywhere, reaching the climax of his hot work on the carpets with the 22-foot effort on the finishing hole.

SMOKIES SHADE CHICKS

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., June 27.—(AP)—Masterful relief hurling by Jim Mooney, former major league southpaw, coupled with two home runs by Marshall Mauldin, young center fielder, enabled Knoxville to defeat Memphis 4 to 3 today.

Mooney relieved Moss in the seventh inning with three on and none out. Duke flied out, scoring Grace. Benning fanned. Farrell forced Reese at second. Nine men faced Mooney in three innings. Willie Duke hit a home run for Memphis.

Score by innings:

Memphis	001 010 100	3	7	1
Knoxville	200 002 00x	4	7	2

Nelson and Powell; Moss, Mooney and Mueller.

VOLS TRIM LOOKOUTS

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 27.—(AP)—Nashville made it two straight today over the Chattanooga Lookouts, winning 6 to 2 as Poco Taitt batted out a homer and two singles in three times at bat.

The teams meet in a doubleheader here tomorrow.

Score by innings:

Chattanooga	110 000 000	2	7	2
Nashville	004 000 20x	6	8	0

Chase and Crompton; Barnes and O'Malley.

TRAVELERS WIN IN 11TH

ATLANTA, June 27.—(AP)—The Little Rock Travelers shoved across two runs in an eleventh-inning attack to break a deadlock and defeat the league-leading Atlanta Crackers 5-3 today.

The Crackers got off to a good start with two tallies in the first inning and one in the third but they never were able to score again.

Little Rock	010 010 100 02	5	10	2
Atlanta	201 000 000 00	3	11	0

Moore and Dickey; Durham and Galvin.

HOMER BEATS PELS

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 27.—(AP)—Legrant Scott's home run with the bases loaded proved a lethal wallop here tonight as the Barons defeated New Orleans, 5 to 4, behind the steady hurling of Bobby Coombs.

Scott also drove home the other Birmingham run in the first when he singled after James opened the inning with a double.

OUACHITA VALLEY

MEETING MONDAY

A meeting of team managers of the Ouachita Valley league for the purpose of taking action on player assignments for the second half of the season, will be held Monday night at 8 o'clock at the Monroe city hall, T. O. Dent, president of the league, announced last night.

President Dent said all managers of teams in the league will be expected to be at the meeting with their player lists already prepared.

TWO AT STERLINGTON

The Sterlington Engineers and the Hodge Papermakers will play a doubleheader this afternoon on the Sterlington diamond. The first game will start at 2:30 o'clock. The usual large Sunday afternoon gallery of fans is expected to be on hand to witness the games.

Baumsten and Brooks will draw the pitching assignments for the Engineers, while Louis and Fontenot are expectedto hurl for the Papermakers.

The Engineers, now the third-place team in the standings, will be out to win the game and further their chances of coming out of the first half of the season in a tie with the Brown Paper Mill Brownies for second place.

RUSTON AT BROWN

The Brown Paper mill's Brownies, riding hard to overtake the league leading Swartz Carbon Blackers before the close of the first half pennant race in the Ouachita Valley league, will meet the Ruston Volunteers in a double header at the Brownville park this afternoon, and tomorrow they will tangle with the Carbon Blackers in what promises to be the crucial game of the season.

The first of today's games will start at 2:30 o'clock, and Monday's skirmish will begin at 4 p.m.

Providing the Brownies can beat the Vols in both games today, they will be in a good position to go into a tie with Swartz. A twin victory today and a victory over the Carbon Blackers tomorrow will practically cinch the Papermakers chances of getting in at least a playoff for the first half pennant.

However, if Swartz should happen to lose to Winnfield today, which is not likely, and the Brownies should win both of their's, the two leading clubs would go into a tie and tomorrow's game would have all the earmarks of a championship battle.

The game Monday will be a continuation of last Sunday's battle between Swartz and Brown, which was protested by the Carbon Blackers in the fourth inning, although the game was completed with the Brownies leading at the end of nine innings, 5 to 2. The play Monday will be resumed in the start of the fourth inning with Hammonds of Swartz at bat and two men out, the stage the game had reached when the protest was made concerning a base hit which at the time was called a double but ruled a home run after the protest had been heard by T. O. Dent, president of the league. Swartz will be leading Brown, 3 to 1, the score up to the fourth inning, when the game starts tomorrow.

Manager Herbert Steed has Fred Hammett, Ralph Fields and Mutt Pittard ready for the hurling duties in today's games, which Duncan will match. The batteries for tomorrow's game are expected to be Mayes and Duncan for Brown and Still and Courtney for Swartz.

GRANT TROUNCES AUSTRALIAN STAR

Atlanta Atom Whips McGrath, 6-3, 6-4, 6-0, Before 20,000 At Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 27.—(AP)—Britons know now why Bryan (Bitsy) Grant is the giant-killer of the tennis courts.

The Atlanta atom shelled Vivian McGrath of Australia to cover, 6-3, 6-4, 6-0 in the fourth round of the all-England championship today.

Grant treated a capacity gallery of 20,000 to one of the greatest displays of court-covering ever seen on Wimbledon's historic center turf.

With McGrath's victory tucked under his belt and an earlier triumph over Heiner Henkel, young German Davis cup star, Grant found himself in the quarter-final round where he will meet Fred Perry, twice champion, Monday in the star attraction. It should be a great deal of contrasting styles—the Atlantan's rhythmic steadiness and the Briton's blasting accuracy.

Grant, Perry, and the Australians, Jack Crawford and Adrian Quist, all gained the round of eight today. Perry breezed past Camille Malfroy, former Cambridge player, 6-2, 6-2, 6-4; Crawford toppled Harry Lee, ex-British Davis cupster, 7-5, 6-4, 9-7, and Quist defeated Donald Butler, 6-3, 7-5, 9-7.

The other quarter-final brackets were filled yesterday by Red Head Don Budge, who still looks like America's best bet notwithstanding Grant's fine showings; Wilmer Allison, the American champion, Gottfried von Cramm, German ace, and H. W. (Bunny) Austin, Perry's Davis cup teammate. All eight are seeded players.

Perry, Grant, Budge and Quist are in the upper half of the draw; Allison, Austin, Crawford and von Cramm form the lower half. Monday's program: Perry vs. Grant; Budge vs. Quist; Austin vs. Allison, and Crawford vs. von Cramm.

While Grant stole the show, Helen Jacobs, the American champion, moved into the quarter-finals with a 6-4, 6-3 triumph over Countess Lili de la Valdene of France and Spain. Her next opponent will be the much improved Anita Lizana of Chile, who trounced Mary Heeley of England, 6-3, 6-3.

SHIPPERS TRIM INDIANS

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 27.—(AP)—Pitcher Eddie Marleau threw his own ball game away tonight, cleaning the bases of three runners with a wild heave into the stands in an attempt to catch Croucher at third in the ninth inning and Beaumont defeated Oklahoma City handily, 6 to 3.

BIG LAKE, Texas.—(AP)—The lake from which this city got its name is practically dry—only one small hole is left of the once large body of water. Pioneer residents believe cattle watering there kept the bed tramped down sufficiently to hold water in its earlier, larger days.

EVANGELINE LEAGUE

(By Associated Press)

"Smoky Joe" Woods shaded "Lefty" Bradshaw in a tight pitching duel for his 14th victory of the season yesterday and gave Rayne a 1-0 decision over Lake Charles. Woods allowed seven scattered hits.

League-leading Opelousas lost to New Iberia when New Iberia rallied in the eighth to score six runs and cinch the 9 to 5 victory.

Ace Adams limited Abbeville to six hits and shut them out to give Jeanerette a 4-0 conquest. Alexandria staged a seventh-inning spree to score three runs and defeat Lafayette, 5 to 3.

BASHARA MEETS ELITCH AT STADIUM TUESDAY

OLD FAVORITE TO RETURN AGAINST TOUGH GRAPPLER

Nick Brings Back All His Tricks In Main Event At Local Arena

Crown Prince Nick Elitch, the reigning favorite of the royal Imps of Satan who go about the earth wreaking mischief in the wrestling wars, will be back in Monoe Tuesday night.

Always a colorful showman, always entertaining with his artful, impish tricks, Crown Prince Elitch will need all of his strategems in his battle Tuesday night. His opponent will be the formidable Ellis Bashara, former Oklahoma university football star.

A man with chest and shoulders so large and powerful that his legs appear too small for his body, a wrestler who darts in and out on the nimble legs, who scampers about the ring with impish alacrity, a grappler who appears to have no neck and whose skull is so proportioned that it is a special advantage in twisting out of leg scissors, a matman possessed of great energy and who knows all of the tricks of the trade as they are practiced in this country and abroad—that is a picture of his royal excellency, Nick Elitch, native of Greece.

Prince Nick's opponent for the Tuesday night battle is a stockily built wrestler, a man with a great, bulging chest, powerful arms, and legs built in proportion to his body. Bashara is about as tough as any wrestler who ever appeared here, and holds the stadium record of starting two riots within one fall.

Prince Nick was mobbed by the fans here some months ago, after Nick had literally choked Ernest Kelly, the stadium favorite, into submission in a spirited battle. After that battle, however, because Elitch always gave the fans a show, he became a favorite of the fans. Nick always gave a good account of himself, no matter how ponderous or mean his opponent happened to be.

Elitch weighs 210 pounds. Bashara weighs 220.

There will be three former football players on the complete program. In addition to Bashara, both Everett Kibbons, 220 pounds, and Ed "Strangler" White, 220 pounds, who will appear in the semi-final bout, formerly were college football stars. Kibbons played with Oklahoma A. and M. and White played with the University of Alabama.

Kibbons, a native native of Tulsa, was the national intercollegiate heavy weight champion before turning professional. He won the title in 1931, after winning the lightheavyweight title in 1930. His success in professional ranks has been as phenomenal as his success among the simon pures.

Kibbons uses a number of spectacular holds in his matches, including flying tackles, flying mares and airplane spins. He was a sensation during a South American tour last fall, and has been packing in the fans in performances in the southwest since returning to this country.

"Strangler" White is a scientific grappler, rarely resorting to the rough stuff. However, he can swap punches with the best of them and has no scruples against this type of milling when it becomes necessary.

Referee "Butch" Martin will referee both the semi-final and the main event matches, unless Bashara still is angered with Martin because of a decision Martin made against him in a match three weeks ago.

Three Champions Defeated In Women's Swimming Meet

ONLY ONE CHAMP SURVIVES UPSETS IN OUTDOOR MEET

Miss Mary Hoerger, Erna Kompa And Katherine Rawls Are Dethroned

NEW YORK, June 27.—(AP)—Three champions, among them 12-year-old Mary Hoerger, the tiniest and youngest mermaid of them all, fell in a wave of upsets that shook the women's national outdoor swimming championships at Oriental pool, Manhattan beach, today.

Only one of four defending title-holders, Mrs. Lenore Kight Wingard of Homestead, Pa., survived the tolling count over the champions. The Homestead star retained her 440-yard free-style championship with ease.

The little Hoerger girl, who stunned the swimming world last year by whipping one of diving's greatest fields, was dethroned by Claudia Eckert, 1935 indoor low board champion from Chicago, who scored her winning points in two beautifully executed dives—the running front somersault, layout position, and a backward one and a half duck.

Miss Eckert's total was 132.63 as against 129.49 for the 80-pound Miami girl. Janice Lifson of New York, second to Miss Hoerger by a fraction of a point last year, was third with 128.37 points.

Mrs. Eleanor Holm Jarrett of New York, a veteran who thinks hard training is a lot of hokum, came back to regain her title in the 220-yard back stroke, defeating the Kompa sisters from New York, Elizabeth and Erna, with yards to spare in the record time of 2:51.8, or 4.8 seconds faster than her own American record.

The result dethroned Erna Kompa, third today, as champion.

Iris Cummings, 15-year-old Los Angelees high school girl, who almost missed the championships because her club mates thought she wasn't good enough, turned in the day's biggest upset when she won the 220-yard breast stroke, defeating Katherine Rawls, Miami star, and defending title-holder, by inches, in a driving finish . Miss Cummings' time was 4:17.2.

TWO ROOKIES ON ALL-STAR TEAMS

DiMaggio And Stu Martin Selected By Fans; Dizzy Dean Leads Poll

BOSTON, June 27.—(AP)—The National and American league all-star teams will take the field here July 7 with two of the most spectacular rookies in many years on opposing teams.

Joe DiMaggio, brilliant Yankee outfielder, and Stuart Martin, Card's infielder, each in his first year in the major's made the grade in a nationwide poll of baseball fans conducted by newspapers to decide 16 of the 21 players to represent each league in the mid-season classic.

Joe McCarthy of the Yankees and Charley Grimm of the Cubs were named rival managers, and each will select the other five players.

The material from which they may choose still includes such stars as Al Simmons, Joe Cronin, Mel Harder, Joe Vosmik, Frankie Frisch, Paul Waner, Pepper Martin, and eleven other participants in last year's fixture, all of whom failed to gain places in the balloting this year.

"Dizzy" Dean led all players with 41,900 votes with Charlie Gehringer a close second with 41,385, Gabby Hartnett third with 41,385, and Bob Grove fourth with 40,640.

The National league squad:

Outfielders—Joe Medwick, Cards; Mel Ott and Joe Moore, Giants; Wally Berger, Bees, Frank Demaree, Cubs.

Infielders—Bill Herman, Cubs; Arky Vaughan, Pirates; Bill Terry, Giants; Stuart Martin, Cards; Pinky Whitney, Phillies.

Pitchers—Dizzy Dean, Cards; Carl Hubbell, Giants; Van Mungo, Dodgers, Lon Warneke, Cubs.

Catchers—Gabby Hartnett, Cubs; Ernie Lombardi, Reds.

The American league squad:

Outfielders—Joe Di Maggio, and George Selkirk, Yankees, Earl Averill, Indians; Ray Radcliff, White Sox; Ben Chapman, Senators.

Infielders—Charley Gehringer, Tigers; Luke Appling, White Sox; Lou Gehrig, Yankees; Jimmy Foxx, Red Sox; Pinky Higgins, Athletics.

Pitchers—Lefty Grove, Red Sox; Vernon Gomez and Monte Pearson, Yankees, Lynwood Rowe, Tigers.

Catchers—Mickey Cochrane, Tigers; Bill Dickey, Yankees; Rolly Hemsley, Browns.

MISS MILEY AGAIN WINS TRANS-MISSISSIPPI TITLE

DENVER, June 27.—(AP)—Dexterious shots in tight places earned for Marion Miley, of Lexington, Ky., the Trans-Mississippi Women's golf title here today.

She beat her close friend and tournament roommate, 19-year-old Beatrice Barrett of Minneapolis, on the 34th green of the testing Denver Country club course, 3 and 2.

RECORDS BROKEN IN CENTRAL MEET

Ken Carpenter And Ed Burke Lead Olympic Qualifiers At Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, June 27.—(AP)—Kenneth Carpenter, of the University of Southern California, and Edward Burke, Marquette university freshman, led a field of 36 athletes into the United States Olympic finals by bettering Olympic marks in the discus and high jump in the central Olympic track and field semi-finals today.

Sam Allen of Oklahoma Baptist university, who equalled the Olympic 100 meter hurdles time in qualifying last night, failed to repeat in the finals and bowed to Fritz Pollard, son of the former negro football star at Brown university.

Other laurels went to Ralph Metcalfe, Marquette university sprinter who won the 100 and 200 meters and put in his bid for a berth on his second Olympic team, and Glenn Cunningham, the veteran Kansas distance star.

While placing fourth in the 800 meters, Cunningham won the 1,500 meters in 3 minutes, 53.2 seconds, after coming from behind and taking the lead from Archie San Romani, of Emporia, (Kas) Teachers.

Carpenter, who bettered the world record with a discus throw of 173 feet a week ago, exceeded the Olympic mark with a toss of 170 feet, 2.8 inches. The Olympic record of 162 feet, 4 7-8 inches was set by John Anderson in 1932.

In taking second with 164 feet, 8.9 inches, Gordon Dunn, of the San Francisco Olympic club, also bettered Anderson's mark.

Burke's high jump of 6 feet, 6 7-16 inches was seven-sixteenths of an inch better than the Olympic mark Harold Osborn made in 1934.

Metcalfe, who has equalled or bettered all standard sprinting records from 40 yards to 220, was clocked in the 100 at 10.5 and the 200 at 21.3.

Glenn Morris, the 24-year-old Denver automobile salesman who competed in his first decathlon last April, broke the world record for the event today.

The sixfoot native of Simla, Colo., who has been training for a year and a half, amassed a total of 7,880 points in the ten difficult track and field events, smashing the mark of 7,824.5 points by Hans H. Sievert of Germany in 1934.

Morris' record total was achieved by his taking first among the field of 15 contestants in the discus, the shot put, typing for first in the high jump, 100, meters, the 400 meters and the 110 meter hurdles and ranking second in the javelin, third in the 1,500 meters, fifth in the broad jump and a tie for eighth in the pole vault.

The new champion dropped out of the pole vault after clearing 3.45 meters or 11 feet, 4 inches, his best vault so far, so as to conserve energy for the windup.

ERNEST SUTTER REACHES COLLEGE TENNIS FINALS

CHICAGO, June 27.—(AP)—Ernest Sutter, the Tulane university ace from Neew Orleans, marched into the final round of the national intercollegiate tennis championships at Northwestern university today with a straight-set victory over Ramsay Potts of North Carolina, 6-4, 6-3, 62.

Sutter , top seeded entry and a strong favorite to take the title, meets Vernon John of Southern California for the singles title Sunday. John, seeded second, eliminated Ben Dey of Stanford in a semi-final match yesterday.

MANSFIELD, Ohio—(AP)—Burton Preston, Sr., world traveler and lecturer who died recently, stipulated in his will that his $200,000 estate should go to his two grandchildren "provided they do not use alcoholic beverages or narcotics" until they are 28.

BASHARA MEETS ELITCH AT STADIUM TUESDAY

OLD FAVORITE TO RETURN AGAINST TOUGH GRAPPLER

Nick Brings Back All His Tricks In Main Event At Local Arena

Crown Prince Nick Elitch, the reigning favorite of the royal Imps of Satan who go about the earth wreaking mischief in the wrestling wars, will be back in Monoe Tuesday night.

Always a colorful showman, always entertaining with his artful, impish tricks, Crown Prince Elitch will need all of his strategems in his battle Tuesday night. His opponent will be the formidable Ellis Bashara, former Oklahoma university football star.

A man with chest and shoulders so large and powerful that his legs appear too small for his body, a wrestler who darts in and out on the nimble legs, who scampers about the ring with impish alacrity, a grappler who appears to have no neck and whose skull is so proportioned that it is a special advantage in twisting out of leg scissors, a matman possessed of great energy and who knows all of the tricks of the trade as they are practiced in this country and abroad —that is a picture of his royal excellency, Nick Elitch, native of Greece.

Prince Nick's opponent for the Tuesday night battle is a stockily built wrestler, a man with a great, bulging chest, powerful arms, and legs built in proportion to his body. Bashara is about as tough as any wrestler who ever appeared here, and holds the stadium record of starting two riots within one fall.

Prince Nick was mobbed by the fans here some months ago, after Nick had literally choked Ernest Kelly, the stadium favorite, into submission in a spirited battle. After that battle, however, because Elitch always gave the fans a show, he became a favorite of the fans. Nick always gave a good account of himself, no matter how ponderous or mean his opponent happened to be.

Elitch weighs 210 pounds. Bashara weighs 220.

There will be three former football players on the complete program. In addition to Bashara, both Everett Kibbons, 220 pounds, and Ed "Strangler" White, 220 pounds, who will appear in the semi-final bout, formerly were college football stars. Kibbons played with Oklahoma A. and M. and White played with the University of Alabama.

Kibbons, a native native of Tulsa, was the national intercollegiate heavy weight champion before turning professional. He won the title in 1931, after winning the lightheavyweight title in 1930. His success in professional ranks has been as phenomenal as his success among the simon pures.

Kibbons uses a number of spectacular holds in his matches, including flying tackles, flying mares and airplane spins. He was a sensation during a South American tour last fall, and has been packing in the fans in performances in the southwest since returning to this country.

"Strangler" White is a scientific grappler, rarely resorting to the rough stuff. However, he can swap punches with the best of them and has no scruples against this type of milling when it becomes necessary.

Referee "Butch" Martin will referee both the semi-final and the main event matches, unless Bashara still is angered with Martin because of a decision Martin made against him in a match three weeks ago.

Three Champions Defeated In Women's Swimming Meet

Miss Mary Hoerger, Erna Kompa And Katherine Rawls Are Dethroned

NEW YORK, June 27.—(AP)—Three champions, among them 12-year-old Mary Hoerger, the tiniest and youngest mermaid of them all, fell in a wave of upsets that shook the women's national outdoor swimming championships at Oriental pool, Manhattan beach, today.

Only one of four defending titleholders, Mrs. Lenore Kight Wingard of Homestead, Pa., survived the tolling count over the champions. The Homestead star retained her 440-yard free-style championship with ease.

The little Hoerger girl, who stunned the swimming world last year by whipping one of diving's greatest fields, was dethroned by Claudia Eckert, 1935 indoor low board champion from Chicago, who scored her winning points in two beautifully executed dives—the running front somersault, layout position, and a backward one and a half duck.

Miss Eckert's total was 132.63 as against 129.49 for the 80-pound Miami girl. Janice Lifson of New York, second to Miss Hoerger by a fraction of a point last year, was third with 128.37 points.

Mrs. Eleanor Holm Jarrett of New York, a veteran who thinks hard training is a lot of hokum, came back to regain her title in the 220-yard back stroke, defeating the Kompa sisters from New York, Elizabeth and Erna, with yards to spare in the record time of 2:51.8, or 4.8 seconds faster than her own American record.

The result dethroned Erna Kompa, third today, as champion.

Iris Cummings, 15-year-old Los Angelees high school girl, who almost missed the championships because her club mates thought she wasn't good enough, turned in the day's biggest upset when she won the 220-yard breast stroke, defeating Katherine Rawls, Miami star, and defending title-holder, by inches, in a driving finish. Miss Cummings' time was 4:17.2.

TWO ROOKIES ON ALL-STAR TEAMS

DiMaggio And Stu Martin Selected By Fans; Dizzy Dean Leads Poll

BOSTON, June 27.—(AP)—The National and American league all-star teams will take the field here July 7 with two of the most spectacular rookies in many years on opposing teams.

Joe DiMaggio, brilliant Yankee outfielder, and Stuart Martin, Card's infielder, each in his first year in the major's made the grade in a nationwide poll of baseball fans conducted by newspapers to decide 16 of the 21 players to represent each league in the mid-season classic.

Joe McCarthy of the Yankees and Charley Grimm of the Cubs were named rival managers, and each will select the other five players.

The material from which they may choose still includes such stars as Al Simmons, Joe Cronin, Mel Harder, Joe Vosmik, Frankie Frisch, Paul Waner, Pepper Martin, and eleven other participants in last year's fixture, all of whom failed to gain places in the balloting this year.

"Dizzy" Dean led all players with 41,900 votes with Charlie Gehringer a close second with 41,385, Gabby Hartnett third with 41,385, and Bob Grove fourth with 40,640.

The National league squad:

Outfielders—Joe Medwick, Cards; Mel Ott and Joe Moore, Giants; Wally Berger, Bees, Frank Demaree, Cubs.

Infielders—Bill Herman, Cubs; Arky Vaughan, Pirates; Bill Terry, Giants; Stuart Martin, Cards; Pinky Whitney, Phillies.

Pitchers—Dizzy Dean, Cards; Carl Hubbell, Giants; Van Mungo, Dodgers, Lon Warneke, Cubs.

Catchers—Gabby Hartnett, Cubs; Ernie Lombardi, Reds.

The American league squad:

Outfielders—Joe Di Maggio, and George Selkirk, Yankees, Earl Averill, Indians; Ray Radcliff, White Sox; Ben Chapman, Senators.

Infielders—Charley Gehringer, Tigers; Luke Appling, White Sox; Lou Gehrig, Yankees; Jimmy Foxx, Red Sox; Pinky Higgins, Athletics.

Pitchers—Lefty Grove, Red Sox; Vernon Gomez and Monte Pearson, Yankees, Lynwood Rowe, Tigers.

Catchers—Mickey Cochrane, Tigers; Bill Dickey, Yankees; Rolly Hemsley, Browns.

MISS MILEY AGAIN WINS TRANS-MISSISSIPPI TITLE

DENVER, June 27.—(AP)—Dexterious shots in tight places earned for Marion Miley, of Lexington, Ky., the Trans-Mississippi Women's golf title here today.

She beat her close friend and tournament roommate, 19-year-old Beatrice Barrett of Minneapolis, on the 34th green of the testing Denver Country club course, 3 and 2.

RECORDS BROKEN IN CENTRAL MEET

Ken Carpenter And Ed Burke Lead Olympic Qualifiers At Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, June 27.—(AP)—Kenneth Carpenter, of the University of Southern California, and Edward Burke, Marquette university freshman, led a field of 36 athletes into the United States Olympic finals by bettering Olympic marks in the discus and high jump in the central Olympic track and field semi-finals today.

Sam Allen of Oklahoma Baptist university, who equalled the Olympic 100 meter hurdles time in qualifying last night, failed to repeat in the finals and bowed to Fritz Pollard, son of the former negro football star at Brown university.

Other laurels went to Ralph Metcalfe, Marquette university sprinter who won the 100 and 200 meters and put in his bid for a berth on his second Olympic team, and Glenn Cunningham, the veteran Kansas distance star.

While placing fourth in the 800 meters, Cunningham won the 1,500 meters in 3 minutes, 53.2 seconds, after coming from behind and taking the lead from Archie San Romani, of Emporia, (Kas) Teachers.

Carpenter, who bettered the world record with a discus throw of 173 feet a week ago, exceeded the Olympic mark with a toss of 170 feet, 2.8 inches. The Olympic record of 162 feet, 4 7-8 inches was set by John Anderson in 1932.

In taking second with 164 feet, 8.9 inches, Gordon Dunn, of the San Francisco Olympic club, also bettered Anderson's mark.

Burke's high jump of 6 feet, 6 7-16 inches was seven-sixteenths of an inch better than the Olympic mark Harold Osborn made in 1934.

Metcalfe, who has equalled or bettered all standard sprinting records from 40 yards to 220, was clocked in the 100 at 10.5 and the 200 at 21.3.

Glenn Morris, the 24-year-old Denver automobile salesman who competed in his first decathlon last April, broke the world record for the event today.

The sixfoot native of Simla, Colo., who has been training for a year and a half, amassed a total of 7,880 points in the ten difficult track and field events, smashing the mark of 7,824.5 points by Hans H. Sievert of Germany in 1934.

Morris' record total was achieved by his taking first among the field of 15 contestants in the discus, the shot put, typing for first in the high jump, 100, meters, the 400 meters and the 110 meter hurdles and ranking second in the javelin, third in the 1,500 meters, fifth in the broad jump and a tie for eighth in the pole vault.

The new champion dropped out of the pole vault after clearing 3.45 meters or 11 feet, 4 inches, his best vault so far, so as to conserve energy for the windup.

ERNEST SUTTER REACHES COLLEGE TENNIS FINALS

CHICAGO, June 27.—(AP)—Ernest Sutter, the Tulane university ace from Neew Orleans, marched into the final round of the national intercollegiate tennis championships at Northwestern university today with a straightset victory over Ramsay Potts of North Carolina, 6-4, 6-3, 62.

Sutter, top seeded entry and a strong favorite to take the title, meets Vernon John of Southern California for the singles title Sunday. John, seeded second, eliminated Ben Dey of Stanford in a semi-final match yesterday.

MANSFIELD, Ohio —(AP) — Burton Preston, Sr., world traveler and lecturer who died recently, stipulated in his will that his $200,000 estate should go to his two grandchildren "provided they do not use alcoholic beverages or narcotics" until they are 28.

INDIANS POUND RED SOX

CLEVELAND, June 27.—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians pounded four Boston pitchers for a total of 21 hits to defeat the Red Sox 14 to 5 today.

Outfielder Roy Weatherly, rookie from the New Orleans Pelicans, made his bow as a Cleveland Indian by knocking out two triples and a single and batting in four runs. Hal Trosky hit his 19th home run of the season in the fifth inning.

Johny Allen, scoring his first victory over a first division club, struck out ten men. Wesley Ferrell, former Indian, was replaced in the fourth inning.

TIGERS WALLOP A'S

DETROIT, June 27—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers landed on Gordon (Dusty) Rhodes for six runs in the seventh inning today to defeat Philadelphia 8 to 4 in the second game of the series and tie with Washington and Cleveland for third place in the league standings.

Rhodes and Gumpert, who pitched the eighth for the Athletics, were ponded for 17 hits, including a home run by Al Simmons in the second inning, and three safeties each by Charlie Gehringer, Billy Rogell and Marvin Owen.

Home runs by Puccinelli with Wally Moses on base in the first, and by Bob Johnson, first up in the fourth, aided in giving Rhodes a three-run lead which he was unable to hold.

NATS, CHISOX DIVIDE

CHICAGO, June 27.—(AP)—Washington and the Chicago White Sox broke even in a doubleheader today when the Senators won the first game, 2 to 1, and lost the nightcap, 7 to 3.

Some 9,000 fans saw Earl Whitehill hold the Sox to six hits to win the opener from Johnny Whitehead, who gave up just seven. The Senators, however, bunched three of their blows in the first inning to score their only runs of the game.

The Sox started Italo Chelini, rookie lefthander, in the second game with the result that he yielded only eight scattered hits, one of which was a home run by Joe Kuhel. The Sox meanwhile pounded Jimmy Deshong for eleven hits in four innings. One of the hits was Larry Rosenthal's first big league home run. Sid Cohen pitched the last four innings and limited the Chicago team to but three hits.

GEHRIG SETS HOT PACE IN AMERICAN

Larruping Lou Boosts Mark To .402; Stu Martin Leads National

NEW YORK, June 27.—(AP)—The batting pace Lou Gehrig, the Yankee's clubbing first baseman, is setting in the big leagues, is so hot that not league can keep up with him.

While most of the others at or near the top in the two major circuits were slipping Gehrig continued his slugging during the past week to climb over the .400 mark, the only batsman in that select set in the big time.

The "iron-man" veteran batted at a near .500 clip for the week which ended Friday to boost his mark from one of the current leaders in either .395 to .402.

At the same time, Stu Martin, the St. Louis Cardinal rookie sensation, retained the National league lead, but slipped considerably during the week, getting but nine hits in 28 trips to the plate.

The five leading hitters in each league are:

Steels, Motors Assume Leadership

TELEPHONE AND OTHER LEADERS CONTINUE DROOP

Many Traders Absent From Boardrooms On Holidays; Close Irregular

By Victor Eubank
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, June 27.—Steels steadied in today's stock market, while American Telephone and a number of other leaders continued to droop.

Many traders were absent from the board rooms on extended week-end holidays and the two-hour turnover amounted to approximately 350,000 shares. The close was irregular.

Business news was still on the constructive side. The pleasing flow of favorable dividends and earnings displayed few signs of abating.

The financial sector took another look at the foreign situation as the French franc moved up sharply in terms of the dollar to its best level since last March.

Politics, although holding much of Wall street's attention, apparently still was without appreciable market influence.

Bonds were slightly mixed, while commodities improved.

Among stocks about unchanged to ahead as much as a point or so were U. S. Steel, Republic Steel, Bethlehem, Gulf States Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Deere, Warner Bros., Montgomery Ward, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Schenley, American Crystal Sugar, Motor Products, Monasnto Chemical, Anaconda, Consolidated Edison, North American Douglas Aircraft, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central and Union Pacific.

In addition to the major communications company issue, which was off 2 at its worst, wavering issues included Westinghouse, American Can, Du-Pont, U. S. Smelting, Kennecott, Cerro de Pasco and Remington Rand.

The recent slide of American Telephone was said to have reflected yesterday's public service commission order for a sharp reduction of dates by the company's principal New York subsidiary. While the lower charges are supposed to go into effect Aug. 1, it was thought the reduction might be held up if the company decided to take the matter to the courts. The stock came back somewhat in the final few minutes of dealings.

The comparative stability of merchandise stocks was coincident with estimates that New York department store sales for the first half of June, without the benefit of soldiers' bonus spending, showed an upturn of 9.1 per cent over the same 1935 period.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

NEW YORK, June 27.—(AP)—Stocks irregular; telephone declines as steels steady. Bonds firm; Polish issues steadier. Curb depressed; scattered specialties buck trend.

Foreign exchanges strong; French francs highest since March. Cotton steady; local and trade buying. Sugar closed. Coffee closed.

CHICAGO—Wheat lower; big receipts southwest. Corn irregular; dry weather menacing. Cattle nominally steady. Hogs nominally steady.

COTTON

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, June 27.—(AP)—Cotton advanced around 25 cents a bale today in an extremey thin market with buying orders barely outweighing the selling.

Activity was limited to new crop months as October gained 4 points to 11.66 and December and January both advanced 25 points to 11.63.

There was but one trade reported in July at a price of 12.32. The market took its opening cue from good cables and opening prices showed small advances from Friday's final prices.

Speculative interest took little part in the trading and routine buying by the trade made up most of the activity.

Overnight weather developments showed little change from yesterday's map and the market was allowed to jog along quietly.

The trading range for the day did not exceed five points.

INDIANS POUND RED SOX

CLEVELAND, June 27.—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians pounded four Boston pitchers for a total of 21 hits to defeat the Red Sox 14 to 5 today.

Outfielder Roy Weatherly, rookie from the New Orleans Pelicans, made his bow as a Cleveland Indian by knocking out two triples and a single and batting in four runs. Hal Trosky hit his 19th home run of the season in the fifth inning.

Johny Allen, scoring his first victory over a first division club, struck out ten men. Wesley Ferrell, former Indian, was replaced in the fourth inning.

TIGERS WALLOP A'S

DETROIT, June 27.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers landed on Gordon (Dusty) Rhodes for six runs in the seventh inning today to defeat Philadelphia 8 to 4 in the second game of the series and tie with Washington and Cleveland for third place in the league standings.

Rhodes and Gumpert, who pitched the eighth for the Athletics, were ponded for 17 hits, including a home run by Al Simmons in the second inning, and three safeties each by Charlie Gehringer, Billy Rogell and Marvin Owen.

Home runs by Puccinelli with Wally Moses on base in the first, and by Bob Johnson, first up in the fourth, aided in giving Rhodes a three-run lead which he was unable to hold.

NATS, CHISOX DIVIDE

CHICAGO, June 27.—(AP)—Washington and the Chicago White Sox broke even in a doubleheader today when the Senators won the first game, 2 to 1, and lost the nightcap, 7 to 3.

Some 9,000 fans saw Earl Whitehill hold the Sox to six hits to win the opener from Johnny Whitehead, who gave up just seven. The Senators, however, bunched three of their blows in the first inning to score their only runs of the game.

The Sox started Italo Chelini, rookie lefthander, in the second game with the result that he yielded only eight scattered hits, one of which was a home run by Joe Kuhel. The Sox meanwhile pounded Jimmy Deshong for eleven hits in four innings. One of the hits was Larry Rosenthal's first big league home run. Sid Cohen pitched the last four innings and limited the Chicago team to but three hits.

GEHRIG SETS HOT PACE IN AMERICAN

Larruping Lou Boosts Mark To .402; Stu Martin Leads National

NEW YORK, June 27.—(AP)—The batting pace Lou Gehrig, the Yankee's clubbing first baseman, is setting in the big leagues, is so hot that not league can keep up with him.

While most of the others at or near the top in the two major circuits were slipping Gehrig continued his slugging during the past week to climb over the .400 mark, the only batsman in that select set in the big time.

The "iron-man" veteran batted at a near .500 clip for the week which ended Friday to boost his mark from one of the current leaders in either .395 to .402.

At the same time, Stu Martin, the St. Louis Cardinal rookie sensation, retained the National league lead, but slipped considerably during the week, getting but nine hits in 28 trips to the plate.

The five leading hitters in each league are:

Steels, Motors Assume Leadership

TELEPHONE AND OTHER LEADERS CONTINUE DROOP

Many Traders Absent From Boardrooms On Holidays; Close Irregular

By Victor Eubank
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, June 27.—Steels steadied in today's stock market, while American Telephone and a number of other leaders continued to droop.

Many traders were absent from the board rooms on extended week-end holidays and the two-hour turnover amounted to approximately 350,000 shares. The close was irregular.

Business news was still on the constructive side. The pleasing flow of favorable dividends and earnings displayed few signs of abating.

The financial sector took another look at the foreign situation as the French franc moved up sharply in terms of the dollar to its best level since last March.

Politics, although holding much of Wall street's attention, apparently still was without appreciable market influence.

Bonds were slightly mixed, while commodities improved.

Among stocks about unchanged to ahead as much as a point or so were U. S. Steel, Republic Steel, Bethlehem, Gulf States Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Deere, Warner Bros., Montgomery Ward, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Schenley, American Crystal Sugar, Motor Products, Monasnto Chemical, Anaconda, Consolidated Edison, North American Douglas Aircraft, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central and Union Pacific.

In addition to the major communications company issue, which was off 2 at its worst, wavering issues included Westinghouse, American Can, DuPont, U. S. Smelting, Kennecott, Cerro de Pasco and Remington Rand.

The recent slide of American Telephone was said to have reflected yesterday's public service commission order for a sharp reduction of dates by the company's principal New York subsidiary. While the lower charges are supposed to go into effect Aug. 1, it was thought the reduction might be held up if the company decided to take the matter to the courts. The stock came back somewhat in the final few minutes of dealings.

The comparative stability of merchandise stocks was coincident with estimates that New York department store sales for the first half of June, without the benefit of soldiers' bonus spending, showed an upturn of 9.1 per cent over the same 1935 period.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

NEW YORK, June 27.—(AP)—Stocks irregular; telephone declines as steels steady. Bonds firm; Polish issues steadier. Curb depressed; scattered specialties buck trend.

Foreign exchanges strong; French francs highest since March. Cotton steady; local and trade buying. Sugar closed. Coffee closed.

COTTON

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, June 27.—(AP)—Cotton advanced around 25 cents a bale today in an extremey thin market with buying orders barely outweighing the selling.

Activity was limited to new crop months as October gained 4 points to 11.66 and December and January both advanced 25 points to 11.63.

There was but one trade reported in July at a price of 12.32. The market took its opening cue from good cables and opening prices showed small advances from Friday's final prices.

Speculative interest took little part in the trading and routine buying by the trade made up most of the activity.

Overnight weather developments showed little change from yesterday's map and the market was allowed to jog along quietly.

The trading range for the day did not exceed five points.

NORTH DAKOTA IN WORST DROUTH IN STATE'S HISTORY

Only Five Of 53 Counties To Harvest Normal Wheat Crop

By Cyril W. Plattes
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

JAMESTOWN, N. D., June 27.—(AP)—The worst drouth in the history of Stutsman county has transformed once fertile prairies into a dismal landscape.

As far as the eye could see today were blackened and yellow fields, many without rain for a year. Wheat, burned and brittle, was heading four to eight inches from the sun-seared soil—if at all.

Cattle wandered among the parched crops and along roads, foraging for such sparse vegetation as they could find. A lengthening cavalcade of trucks, bearing abnormal loads of livestock from the ravaged region, rumbled through this community at the gateway to an area of blight that stretched northwestward over three-fourths of the state.

"I've been here 27 years and have never seen anything like it," said C. P. Conaway, secretary of the North Dakota Grain Dealers association.

"It's developing into a catastrophe. The farther you go west the more serious it becomes. The only bright spots, outside of a few scattered areas which have had rain, are south and north of Grand Forks and along the Red river valley at some points.

John Dinwoodie, chairman of the state agriculture conservation committee, sketched the magnitude of the North Dakota drouth.

Of the 53 counties in the state, only five—Pembina, Walsh, Grand Forks, Traill and Cass—can harvest a normal wheat crop he said. The remainder will get little or no cash crop.

Tragic reports are received daily by County Agent Roy J. Jordre—one from Oscar E. Johnson.

"The last rain in our vicinity was in July, 1934," said Johnson. "I turned my cows loose in the fields. My neighbors have done the same. Grasshoppers are feeding on what's left. I don't expect to harvest a kernel of anything."

Leslie Sachow asserted. "We don't expect to take our threshing rig out of the sheds this year."

Showers mottled parts of the farm belt yesterday but failed to break the arid siege. Temperatures over 100 degrees were recorded at many points on the western plains. Two heat deaths were listed at Milwaukee. There was no sign of general relief.

BICYCLE STOLEN

Theft of his bicycle yesterday afternoon from DeSiard street in front of the Capitol theater was reported to police by Johnnie Falletta, 1600 Breard street.

On the basis of a 17-cent gallon, the average Ohio motorist pays $72.25 a year for gasoline.

DEATHS

MRS. AGGIE HALL

Funeral services for Mrs. Aggie Hall, aged widow of William Nelson Hall, formerly of Monroe, who died Friday night at her home in Detroit, Mich., will be held here tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. A short service will be held at Peter's funeral chapel with Rev. Ernest Holloway, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Monroe, in charge, and interment will follow in the Riverview burial park.

Mrs. Hall came to Monroe from Detroit with her husband, a retired lawyer, in 1927. Mr. Hall "fell in love with the Ouachita river," it was said, and built a home in a bend of the river south of the city. He died within almost a year, however, on September 7, 1928, and was buried in Riverview park.

At the death of her husband, Mrs. Hall, who was not well known here, but who had made several friends during her short stay in Monroe, returned to Detroit. She had also lived at Merkel, Texas, where her husband was once city marshal and a Texas judge.

She is survived by one brother, Will Sells, and a sister, Millie Houser, both of Detroit, and a sister living in California. She has no relatives living in Louisiana, but is being returned here to be buried beside her husband. She was a member of the Order of the Eastern Star.

SWIFT RITES

Funeral services for Mrs. Angie Bell Swift, 63 years old, of Columbia, who died suddenly Friday afternoon at the home in Monroe of her daughter, Mrs. R. F. McCook, were held yesterday afternoon at the Methodist church in Columbia. Rev. W. C. Scott, assisted by Rev. Morris, pastor of the Columbia Methodist church, pastor of the First Methodist church of this city, officiated. Burial took place in the Columbia cemetery.

Mrs. Swift had resided in Columbia throughout her life and for a number of years owned and operated the Swift hotel there. A member of the Methodist church, she had been in ill health for some time prior to her death.

Besides her daughter, who resides at 2703 Hawes street, Mrs. Swift is survived by a son, Joe Wright Swift of Monroe; a sister, Mrs. S. P. Walker of Columbia; and a half-sister, Mrs. J. B. Fluitt of Columbia.

MRS. J. W. HAMBY

OAK GROVE, La., June 27.—(Special)—Funeral services for Mrs. J. W. Hamby, who died suddenly at her home near here Tuesday night, were held Wednesday afternoon at the Oak Grove cemetery.

She is survived by her husband, three sons: Earnest, Zemenne, John Henry Hamby; three daughters, Virginia Katterich, Margarette Hoskins, Vera Raymond, all of Oak Grove; four brothers: J. C. Griffin of Oak Grove, C. F. and J. W. Griffin of Somerville, Texas; J. P. Griffin of Dallas, Texas.

JOSEPH M. FELTUS, JR.

Joseph Moreland Feltus, Jr., 23 years old, of Natchez, Miss., nephew of Mrs. Bert Coverdale of Monroe and first cousin of Mrs. Harold Breard of Monroe and Mrs. Dick Dean of West Monroe, died yesterday in a New Orleans hospital, according to word received here by Mrs. Coverdale.

Mr. Feltus, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Moreland Feltus, Sr., was said to have died while undergoing an operation. Further details were not known here late last night.

JOHNSON FUNERAL

Funeral services for Mrs. J. H. Johnson, 46, of Sherrouse addition, who died Friday afternoon at a local hospital, were held yesterday afternoon at Hasley cemetery, near West Monroe, where burial followed, Rev. Ratcliff, Baptist minister of Winnsboro, officiated.

Mrs. Johnson is survived by her husband; four sons, Alcus, J. P., Louis and Cecil Johnson, all of Monroe; and three daughters, Ruth Johnson, Mrs. Ella Mae Williams and Mrs. Lizzie Sturvant, all of Monroe.

BIRTHS

HILLY, La., June 27.—(Special)—Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Calloway announce the birth of a ten-pound son on Friday. The maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Batson of Simsboro and the paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Calloway of Hilly.

GAS FIRE DESTROYS COUPE ON DESIARD

A fire which firemen reported was caused by gasoline in two containers becoming ignited, last night destroyed a 1930 coupe at DeSiard and North Twenty-third streets. The coupe was owned by William Conley, negro, of 2410 DeSiard street, who was said to have been hauling the gasoline when an explosion threw the flaming liquid about the car.

Late in the afternoon firemen extinguished a grass fire in the 800 block of South Second street, and during the morning extinguished a grass fire in the 3800 block of DeSiard street. Both fires were reported caused by burning trash.

At 8:45 o'clock last night firemen finished the difficult job of extinguishing the largest riverbank trash fire they have combatted in years. The fire, located at the head of Mulberry street, broke out Thursday night. Two or three companies of firemen were on duty there continuously since that time, up until last night.

A turret nozzle having a one-inch bore and mounted on a small fire truck, with the pumps of a larger truck pumping water through the nozzle from a city main, directed a stream of water at 200 pounds pressure into the heavily banked trash, cutting it outwards exposing it so that the embers which had smoldered far inside the trash bank could be extinguished.

TRAIN KILLS MAN WHEN FOOT HANGS IN RAIL

MERIDIAN, Miss., June 27.—(AP)—Catching his foot in the rails ahead of an approaching railroad train, Earl Higginbotham, 21, of Meehan, Miss., was unable to release himself and suffered injuries which caused his death today in a Meridian hospital.

Both of his legs were severed at the knees and he suffered in addition a head injury.

Reports said Higginbotham was walking down the right-of-way when the train rounded a curve and whistled for him to get off the track. In turning his foot became caught and the train ran over him.

NORTH DAKOTA IN WORST DROUTH IN STATE'S HISTORY

Only Five Of 53 Counties To Harvest Normal Wheat Crop

By Cyril W. Plattes
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

JAMESTOWN, N. D., June 27.—(AP)—The worst drouth in the history of Stutsman county has transformed once fertile prairies into a dismal landscape.

As far as the eye could see today were blackened and yellow fields, many without rain for a year. Wheat, burned and brittle, was heading four to eight inches from the sun-seared soil—if at all.

Cattle wandered among the parched crops and along roads, foraging for such sparse vegetation as they could find. A lengthening cavalcade of trucks, bearing abnormal loads of livestock from the ravaged region, rumbled through this community at the gateway to an area of blight that stretched northwestward over three-fourths of the state.

"I've been here 27 years and have never seen anything like it," said C. P. Conaway, secretary of the North Dakota Grain Dealers association.

"It's developing into a catastrophe. The farther you go west the more serious it becomes. The only bright spots, outside of a few scattered areas which have had rain, are south and north of Grand Forks and along the Red river valley at some points.

John Dinwoodie, chairman of the state agriculture conservation committee, sketched the magnitude of the North Dakota drouth.

Of the 53 counties in the state, only five—Pembina, Walsh, Grand Forks, Traill and Cass—can harvest a normal wheat crop he said. The remainder will get little or no cash crop.

Tragic reports are received daily by County Agent Roy J. Jordre—one from Oscar E. Johnson.

"The last rain in our vicinity was in July, 1934," said Johnson. "I turned my cows loose in the fields. My neighbors have done the same. Grasshoppers are feeding on what's left. I don't expect to harvest a kernel of anything."

Leslie Sachow asserted. "We don't expect to take our threshing rig out of the sheds this year."

Showers mottled parts of the farm belt yesterday but failed to break the arid siege. Temperatures over 100 degrees were recorded at many points on the western plains. Two heat deaths were listed at Milwaukee. There was no sign of general relief.

BICYCLE STOLEN

Theft of his bicycle yesterday afternoon from DeSiard street in front of the Capitol theater was reported to police by Johnnie Falletta, 1600 Breard street.

On the basis of a 17-cent gallon, the average Ohio motorist pays $72.25 a year for gasoline.

DEATHS

MRS. AGGIE HALL

Funeral services for Mrs. Aggie Hall, aged widow of William Nelson Hall, formerly of Monroe, who died Friday night at her home in Detroit, Mich., will be held here tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. A short service will be held at Peter's funeral chapel with Rev. Ernest Holloway, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Monroe, in charge, and interment will follow in the Riverview burial park.

Mrs. Hall came to Monroe from Detroit with her husband, a retired lawyer, in 1927. Mr. Hall "fell in love with the Ouachita river," it was said, and built a home in a bend of the river south of the city. He died within almost a year, however, on September 7, 1928, and was buried in Riverview park.

At the death of her husband, Mrs. Hall, who was not well known here, but who had made several friends during her short stay in Monroe, returned to Detroit. She had also lived at Merkel, Texas, where her husband was once city marshal and a Texas judge.

She is survived by one brother, Will Sells, and a sister, Millie Houser, both of Detroit, and a sister living in California. She has no relatives living in Louisiana, but is being returned here to be buried beside her husband. She was a member of the Order of the Eastern Star.

SWIFT RITES

Funeral services for Mrs. Angie Bell Swift, 63 years old, of Columbia, who died suddenly Friday afternoon at the home in Monroe of her daughter, Mrs. R. F. McCook, were held yesterday afternoon at the Methodist church in Columbia. Rev. W. C. Scott, assisted by Rev. Morris, pastor of the Columbia Methodist church, pastor of the First Methodist church of this city, officiated. Burial took place in the Columbia cemetery.

Mrs. Swift had resided in Columbia throughout her life and for a number of years owned and operated the Swift hotel there. A member of the Methodist church, she had been in ill health for some time prior to her death.

Besides her daughter, who resides at 2703 Hawes street, Mrs. Swift is survived by a son, Joe Wright Swift of Monroe; a sister, Mrs. S. P. Walker of Columbia; and a half-sister, Mrs. J. B. Fluitt of Columbia.

MRS. J. W. HAMBY

OAK GROVE, La., June 27.—(Special)—Funeral services for Mrs. J. W. Hamby, who died suddenly at her home near here Tuesday night, were held Wednesday afternoon at the Oak Grove cemetery.

She is survived by her husband, three sons: Earnest, Zemenne, John Henry Hamby; three daughters, Virginia Katterich, Margarette Hoskins, Vera Raymond, all of Oak Grove; four brothers: J. C. Griffin of Oak Grove, C. F. and J. W. Griffin of Somerville, Texas; J. P. Griffin of Dallas, Texas.

JOSEPH M. FELTUS, JR.

Joseph Moreland Feltus, Jr., 23 years old, of Natchez, Miss., nephew of Mrs. Bert Coverdale of Monroe and first cousin of Mrs. Harold Breard of Monroe and Mrs. Dick Dean of West Monroe, died yesterday in a New Orleans hospital, according to word received here by Mrs. Coverdale.

Mr. Feltus, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Moreland Feltus, Sr., was said to have died while undergoing an operation. Further details were not known here late last night.

JOHNSON FUNERAL

Funeral services for Mrs. J. H. Johnson, 46, of Sherrouse addition, who died Friday afternoon at a local hospital, were held yesterday afternoon at Hasley cemetery, near West Monroe, where burial followed, Rev. Ratcliff, Baptist minister of Winnsboro, officiated.

Mrs. Johnson is survived by her husband; four sons, Alcus, J. P., Louis and Cecil Johnson, all of Monroe; and three daughters, Ruth Johnson, Mrs. Ella Mae Williams and Mrs. Lizzie Sturvant, all of Monroe.

GAS FIRE DESTROYS COUPE ON DESIARD

A fire which firemen reported was caused by gasoline in two containers becoming ignited, last night destroyed a 1930 coupe at DeSiard and North Twenty-third streets. The coupe was owned by William Conley, negro, of 2410 DeSiard street, who was said to have been hauling the gasoline when an explosion threw the flaming liquid about the car.

Late in the afternoon firemen extinguished a grass fire in the 800 block of South Second street, and during the morning extinguished a grass fire in the 3800 block of DeSiard street. Both fires were reported caused by burning trash.

At 8:45 o'clock last night firemen finished the difficult job of extinguishing the largest riverbank trash fire they have combatted in years. The fire, located at the head of Mulberry street, broke out Thursday night. Two or three companies of firemen were on duty there continuously since that time, up until last night.

A turret nozzle having a one-inch bore and mounted on a small fire truck, with the pumps of a larger truck pumping water through the nozzle from a city main, directed a stream of water at 200 pounds pressure into the heavily banked trash, cutting it outwards exposing it so that the embers which had smoldered far inside the trash bank could be extinguished.

TRAIN KILLS MAN WHEN FOOT HANGS IN RAIL

MERIDIAN, Miss., June 27.—(AP)—Catching his foot in the rails ahead of an approaching railroad train, Earl Higginbotham, 21, of Meehan, Miss., was unable to release himself and suffered injuries which caused his death today in a Meridian hospital.

Both of his legs were severed at the knees and he suffered in addition a head injury.

Reports said Higginbotham was walking down the right-of-way when the train rounded a curve and whistled for him to get off the track.

In turning his foot became caught and the train ran over him.

LAND NEVER CHANGES!

When panics, depressions and inflation come other investments shrink but a farm still contains just as many acres as it ever did and will produce just as many of life's necessities.

We have a wide variety of farms for sale throughout the states of Alabama, Louisiana and Mississippi and feel sure that we have the farm you have been looking for!

The following are typical:

Richland Parish, 80 Acres.
Farm No. 15635—Located 8 miles southwest of Delhi on public road, 2½ miles from United States highway No. 80 in white community with school bus accessible. Improvements include 2 dwellings, barn and outbuildings. Price: $1,600.00.

Caldwell Parish, 160 Acres.
Farm No. 37537—Located 7 miles southeast of Kelly on public road. White farming section served by R. F. D. and school bus route. Land in good state of cultivation. Fences in good condition. Improvements include dwelling, barn, garage and 2 outhouses. Price: $1,225.00.

These farms can be purchased with only 20% down, balance payable yearly.

Numerous Local Residents Off On Their Annual Vacations

Society Scatters As Mid-Summer Arrives

Mrs. Potts Aboard Corinthia Bound For Europe While Others Seek Mountain Retreats

By Eve Bradford

Mid-summer! Those who remain at home continue their tranquil pace beyond the city's cacophony where gypsy winds fiddle blithe tunes in the reeds along the river's edge, nearby lakes and in the quietude of gardens.

As summer deepens, the shadows grow longer, fruit ripens in the noonday sun, the drowsy sounds of insect life reach crescendo and a deeper flush of roseate bloom envelops the earth.

Summer, like the Pied Piper of Hamlin, is luring everyone away from the city. July rolls around and restlessness is manifested on every hand. The moot question at present is, "Where are you going on your vacation?" Monroe vacationists are being lured to stern and rock bound coasts where the breaking waves dash high—to the rugged Atlantic shores—to the rolling prairies—to the coast washed shores of the gulf where the listless sails of fishing smacks lazily seek sheltered coves. Many seek the shaded inland roads and the winding forest streams or the Rockies, rivaling the Alps in grandeur.

Still others are motoring along paved highways to far away cities.

Mrs. C. H. Dunaway, just home from Quebec, is quite content to sit quietly by for the rest of the summer with memories of a glorious trip to keep her company. One jewel of memory in particular is her visit to the wayside shrine of Saint Anne de Beaupre, built three centuries ago by Breton sailors who were saved from shipwreck. Along the highway to Montreal, Mrs. Dunaway found much beauty in the ancient countryside in which the shades of gallant French pioneers still linger. The cathedrals, the centuries-old buildings, the thatched barns, outdoor ovens, old stone houses, windmills, dog teams, the countless peaks and valleys, lakes and streams and the miles of forest stretching north and east to Hudson Bay and the Labrador, will forever dwell in memory.

Flora Potts is now aboard the Corinthia bound for the North Cape, Iceland and Russia. A tour of the continent and then home on board the Queen Mary late in September will follow.

The C. C. Boardmans will close their hospitable home later in the week and turn their faces toward the dells of Wisconsin, the crystal clear lakes and the cool little summer resorts dotting the landscape wherever you look.

The E. T. Lamkins and interesting little family will soon be off for the gulf coast with minds almost made up to spend the month of August in Colorado with the T. O. Bancrofts, who are planning to leave early in July.

Mrs. David Garrett and sons will escape from the July heat by leaving next week for the gulf coast, where they will settle down at the Tivoli.

Two young adventurers, Jack Selig, Jr., and Joe Marx, Jr., suffering from a severe attack of wanderlust, will pack their duds and leave on the fourth of July for the east. They crammed sufficient mileage into their itinerary to keep them hugging the highway for a month but they plan to be gone just three weeks.

Jo Dixon and her sons are already cooling off in Colorado Springs awaiting the arrival of Mrs. A. L. Smith next week. There is a possibility that Crary Smith and sons will join them later.

Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Faulk, Mary Flournoy and her three children are viewing America's grandest mountains and biggest oceans, the mightiest forests and the sheer, black magic of enchantment of Yellowstone park on their western motor trip. Their tour leads them almost to Tacoma, gateway to the Orient.

The Victor Sacketts are headed today toward the Great Lakes where they will spend the month of July where the cool breezes blow. Manton, tucked away in one corner of northern Michigan is their destination.

The most beautiful sight in the whole world is a lovely young mother with her baby. We thought so at least when we saw Winnie Helen Hilliard, home for her visit with her infant daughter. And such a baby. She is everything her grandmother said she was and just a little bit more. Winnie Helen is one of those modern young mothers who has read all the books and is rearing her young daughter strictly by rule and according to the very best authorities. We felt quite sure the treatment received in a downtown store the other day was not found in the book. Everyone made a grab for the infant and everyone insisted upon making that funny gurgling sound infants seem to expect from grownups.

In the Dr. Henry Guerriero home there is an infant who comes as near being a perfect specimen of childhood as we have ever seen. All day he laughs and gurgles and kicks his heels and brightens the lives of Henry and Virginia. And what child wouldn't be happy to have such a beautiful young mother bending over his cradle?

Eleanor Lockette Dixon's little girl grows lovelier with the passing days. Every day she gets her sun bath in the rear gardens of the P. M. Atkins home where she and her mother are making their home this summer.

Two young ladies who feel quite grown up since making a trip to Illinois by themselves are Clarice and Lee Slagle. For the past month they have been from under the shelter of their mother's wing. They will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hayes in Corydon, Ky., before returning home.

Katie Mae Thornhill, suffering from a severe case of poison ivy, stays behind closed doors these summer days. It must be a hardship for one as energetic and as in love with life and people to remain quietly at home. The vine, in question, entwined around a tree trunk in the Thornhill garden, appeared perfectly harmless until uprooted.

Tonight Mr. and Mrs. Herman Masur celebrate their silver wedding anniversary in the midst of friends on the roof of the Virginia hotel. There will, no doubt, be a perfect jam as this splendid couple are beloved by everyone and are famed for their lavishness of entertainment. The perfect hosts always, their anniversary tonight will be another link in the silver chain that has bound them together for twenty-five years.

Two people who evidently quaffed deep of Ouachita river water are Kate O'Neill and Charlotte Breard Hamilton. They have come back to Monroe to make their home after wandering far. Kate has been filling a man-sized job in New York City for a number of years, but always there was the yearning to come back south. When Charlotte married Dr. Hamilton she went east to live. For the past few years they have lived in New Orleans but yesterday they both arrived in Monroe where, God willing, they will spend the rest of their lives. The parental doors were thrown wide and there's much cause for merry-making at the Breard home where Charlotte and "Scottie" will live until they settle down in their own home.

Legion Auxiliary

The L. B. Faulk unit No. 13, American Legion auxiliary, met Thursday evening at the Legion home with the president, Mrs. W. H. Huckaby, presiding. The minutes of the past meeting were read by the secretary, Miss May Faulk, after which reports of the various committees were given as follows: Child welfare, Mrs. C. L. Mengis; memorials and community service, Mrs. Charles Mitchell.

June being Fidac month on the American Legion auxiliary calendar of activities, Mrs. H. B. McClendon gave an interesting paper on "Understanding Fidac," in which she said:

"What is this Fidac? Fidac is the only world organization of the allied veterans in existence. The name Fidac is the short form for the long title of the organization.

"Not many years ago only a few understood the meaning of Fidac, but today the entire American Legion auxiliary realizes Fidac's importance and from throughout the organization requests are coming for more and more information on the constructive work of this great interallied federation of war veterans.

"The membership of Fidac is more than 8,000,000, composed of World war veterans of eleven countries that were allied in the war. The Fidac auxiliary is composed of women's auxiliary organizations in the United States, Belgium, France, Great Britain, Greece, Italy, Poland, Portugal, Roumania, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia. The American Legion and the American Legion auxiliary are the two Fidac organizations of the United States, and all of their members are automatically members of Fidac or its auxiliary, their dues paid through the national organizations.

"Fidac forms a peace and foreign relations committee for the American Legion auxiliary. Auxiliary members are working constantly to carry out Fidac's purpose, expressed as follows: 'The principal object of Fidac is to maintain, foster and develop that spirit of comradeship which manifested itself on the battlefields of the World war and to use that comradeship in the cause of peace.'

"One of our most cherished possessions is friendship, and this friendship we extend to Fidac friends across the water. Many firm friendships have been formed in mutual adversity. The hardships and struggles of the war established firm friendships among men who could not even speak each others' languages. The uncertainty and trials of world conditions today should draw the peoples of different nations together in a common effort to solve present problems in a spirit of understanding and friendship.

"The seventeenth congress of Fidac and the eleventh congress of the Fidac auxiliary will be held in Warsaw, Poland, in September, and therefore this year we are studying Poland in our Fidac program."

The program was concluded with musical selections composed by famous Polish-Americans, rendered by Mrs. C. L. Mengis.

Nominations for officers and delegates and alternates to the department convention was next in order and the report of the nominating committee was as follows:

President, Mrs. C. L. Mengis; first vice-president, Mrs. Harry Stein; second vice-president, Mrs. H. B. McClendon; secretary and treasurer, Miss May Faulk; chaplain, Mrs. J. T. Bryant; historian, Mrs. Oscar Johnson; sergeant-at-arms, Mrs. Russel Simms; color bearer, Mrs. C. Abboud; three members of the executive committee-at-large, Mrs. Francis Blazier, Mrs. F. Hammond and Mrs. R. L. Wood.

Delegates to department convention: Mrs. W. H. Huckaby, Mrs. C. L. Mengis, Mrs. Oscar Johnson, Mrs. H. B. McClendon, Miss May Faulk.

Summer Ideas

Summer is here and children are vacationing with a whole summer to play. How about a home-made marionette show? Organize the small girls in the neighborhood or community into a sewing club and they'll be delighted to dress the dolls. Boys enjoy constructing the stage settings and properties, and perhaps they would aid in carving the doll heads.

Select plays for presentation and determine the type of furniture and costuming to fit them. Perhaps you can create several short skits that appeal to children, or dramatize some of their favorite stories.

One high school class produced an interesting marionette show, which even the children could do nicely. Each member of the class constructed a different character. The show was a success. The seven scenes presented such characters as Napoleon Bonaparte and his wife, Josephine, Joan of Arc, Cleopatra, Marc Antony and others.

Here are the directions for Joan of Arc. First gather these materials together: a bar of soap, rags, cotton, several pairs of old hose, string, a small can of lacquer, a little paint, and a needle and thread. A child can carve Joan's head and neck from a bar of soap or soft wood. Next cover the head with a thin coat of lacquer. When dry color the features of the doll's face and paint the hair the color desired to make the doll as realistic as possible. Make the body, legs and arms from old stockings and stuff them with rags and cotton. This doll is 12 inches tall, but it may be 15 inches high for a stage that is three feet high, four feet wide and three feet deep.

Strings are attached to these strange little figures according to the nature of their actions. The strings can be attached behind the knees, ankles, at the elbows and wrists, at the neck, and to the back of the marionette's body.

Someone has suggested a simple marionette made from a yard of rope. Cut off enough rope to make the arms and double the rest to form the body and legs. Complete the figure by giving it form with molding clay which will harden later.

One woman with two children organized a puppet show last summer during their spare time. The children took apart a marionette that had been purchased, and patterned their dolls after it. This show was such a success that they made "pin money" all last winter presenting it at childrens' parties.

Recognition Given

The club women of the Louisiana Federation of Women's clubs will note with pleasure the recognition which was accorded Louisiana at the council meeting of the general federation, held in Miami recently.

Louisiana was one of four states to receive an award of $20 for excellence of their art reports. Other states were Indiana, Kansas and Maryland. Mrs. D. H. Christian, chairman of the art department of the L. F. W. C. and chairman of the art division of the Shreveport fair, deserves much praise for her efforts in bringing her work up to a high standard.

In the address of the president, Mrs. Roberta Campbell Lawson, she mentions the fact that Louisiana is particularly poetry-minded, having 52 entrants in the state poetry contest last fall. Mrs. Patrick J. White as chairman of the poetry division has accomplished this meritorious work.

In the official organ of the general federation, special mention is made of the program building contest sponsored by the department of press and publicity for Louisiana. Mrs. Addison Thompson, chairman, requests club chairmen of publicity and district chairmen to read as many of the following books during the vacation days as possible: "The Modern Newspaper," by Nancy Barr Mavity; "News Handbook for Press Committees," by Louise F. Shields; "Newspaper Writing and Editing," by Willard Grosvenor Bleyer; "News Writing," by M. L. Spencer; "Practical Exercises in News Writing and Editing," by O. W. Miller; "Publicity for Social Work," by Mary S. Routzahn and Evart G. Routzahn; "Writing for Print," by H. F. Harrington.

An interesting contest sponsored by the New York Herald Tribune will be presented to the Louisiana Federation of Women's clubs in annual session at Shreveport in November by the department of press and publicity.

Most Bad Breath Begins With The Teeth!

WHY let bad breath interfere with happiness? It's so easy to be safe when you realize that the most common cause is . . . improperly cleaned teeth!

Authorities say decaying food deposits, in hidden crevices between the teeth, are the source of most unpleasant mouth odors—and of much tooth decay.

Ordinary cleaning methods, which merely polish exposed surfaces, fail to remove these deposits. Use Colgate Dental Cream. Its special penetrating foam gets into every tiny crevice, emulsifies and washes away the food and acid deposits that cause bad breath. At the same time, Colgate's soft, safe polishing agent cleans and brightens enamel.

So brush your teeth, gums and tongue with Colgate's at least twice daily—and have cleaner, brighter teeth and a sweeter, purer breath. Get a tube today!

Society Scatters As Mid-Summer Arrives

Mrs. Potts Aboard Corinthia Bound For Europe While Others Seek Mountain Retreats

By Eve Bradford

Mid-summer! Those who remain at home continue their tranquil pace beyond the city's cacophony where gypsy winds fiddle blithe tunes in the reeds along the river's edge, nearby lakes and in the quietude of gardens.

As summer deepens, the shadows grow longer, fruit ripens in the noonday sun, the drowsy sounds of insect life reach crescendo and a deeper flush of roseate bloom envelops the earth.

Summer, like the Pied Piper of Hamlin, is luring everyone away from the city. July rolls around and restlessness is manifested on every hand. The moot question at present is, "Where are you going on your vacation?" Monroe vacationists are being lured to stern and rock bound coasts where the breaking waves dash high—to the rugged Atlantic shores—to the rolling prairies—to the coast washed shores of the gulf where the listless sails of fishing smacks lazily seek sheltered coves. Many seek the shaded inland roads and the winding forest streams or the Rockies, rivaling the Alps in grandeur.

Still others are motoring along paved highways to far away cities.

Mrs. C. H. Dunaway, just home from Quebec, is quite content to sit quietly by for the rest of the summer with memories of a glorious trip to keep her company. One jewel of memory in particular is her visit to the wayside shrine of Saint Anne de Beaupre, built three centuries ago by Breton sailors who were saved from shipwreck. Along the highway to Montreal, Mrs. Dunaway found much beauty in the ancient countryside in which the shades of gallant French pioneers still linger. The cathedrals, the centuries-old buildings, the thatched barns, outdoor ovens, old stone houses, windmills, dog teams, the countless peaks and valleys, lakes and streams and the miles of forest stretching north and east to Hudson Bay and the Labrador, will forever dwell in memory.

Flora Potts is now aboard the Corinthia bound for the North Cape, Iceland and Russia. A tour of the continent and then home on board the Queen Mary late in September will follow.

The C. C. Boardmans will close their hospitable home later in the week and turn their faces toward the dells of Wisconsin, the crystal clear lakes and the cool little summer resorts dotting the landscape wherever you look.

The E. T. Lamkins and interesting little family will soon be off for the gulf coast with minds almost made up to spend the month of August in Colorado with the T. O. Bancrofts, who are planning to leave early in July.

Mrs. David Garrett and sons will escape from the July heat by leaving next week for the gulf coast, where they will settle down at the Tivoli.

Two young adventurers, Jack Selig, Jr., and Joe Marx, Jr., suffering from a severe attack of wanderlust, will pack their duds and leave on the fourth of July for the east. They crammed sufficient mileage into their itinerary to keep them hugging the highway for a month but they plan to be gone just three weeks.

Jo Dixon and her sons are already cooling off in Colorado Springs awaiting the arrival of Mrs. A. L. Smith next week. There is a possibility that Crary Smith and sons will join them later.

Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Faulk, Mary Flournoy and her three children are viewing America's grandest mountains and biggest oceans, the mightiest forests and the sheer, black magic of enchantment of Yellowstone park on their western motor trip. Their tour leads them almost to Tacoma, gateway to the Orient.

The Victor Sacketts are headed today toward the Great Lakes where they will spend the month of July where the cool breezes blow. Manton, tucked away in one corner of northern Michigan is their destination.

The most beautiful sight in the whole world is a lovely young mother with her baby. We thought so at least when we saw Winnie Helen Hilliard, home for her visit with her infant daughter. And such a baby. She is everything her grandmother said she was and just a little bit more. Winnie Helen is one of those modern young mothers who has read all the books and is rearing her young daughter strictly by rule and according to the very best authorities. We felt quite sure the treatment received in a downtown store the other day was not found in the book. Everyone made a grab for the infant and everyone insisted upon making that funny gurgling sound infants seem to expect from grownups.

In the Dr. Henry Guerriero home there is an infant who comes as near being a perfect specimen of childhood as we have ever seen. All day he laughs and gurgles and kicks his heels and brightens the lives of Henry and Virginia. And what child wouldn't be happy to have such a beautiful young mother bending over his cradle?

Eleanor Lockette Dixon's little girl grows lovelier with the passing days. Every day she gets her sun bath in the rear gardens of the P. M. Atkins home where she and her mother are making their home this summer.

Two young ladies who feel quite grown up since making a trip to Illinois by themselves are Clarice and Lee Slagle. For the past month they have been from under the shelter of their mother's wing. They will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hayes in Corydon, Ky., before returning home.

Katie Mae Thornhill, suffering from a severe case of poison ivy, stays behind closed doors these summer days. It must be a hardship for one as energetic and as in love with life and people to remain quietly at home. The vine, in question, entwined around a tree trunk in the Thornhill garden, appeared perfectly harmless until uprooted.

Tonight Mr. and Mrs. Herman Masur celebrate their silver wedding anniversary in the midst of friends on the roof of the Virginia hotel. There will, no doubt, be a perfect jam as this splendid couple are beloved by everyone and are famed for their lavishness of entertainment. The perfect hosts always, their anniversary tonight will be another link in the silver chain that has bound them together for twenty-five years.

Two people who evidently quaffed deep of Ouachita river water are Kate O'Neill and Charlotte Breard Hamilton. They have come back to Monroe to make their home after wandering far. Kate has been filling a man-sized job in New York City for a number of years, but always there was the yearning to come back south. When Charlotte married Dr. Hamilton she went east to live. For the past few years they have lived in New Orleans but yesterday they both arrived in Monroe where, God willing, they will spend the rest of their lives. The parental doors were thrown wide and there's much cause for merry-making at the Breard home where Charlotte and "Scottie" will live until they settle down in their own home.

Legion Auxiliary

The L. B. Faulk unit No. 13, American Legion auxiliary, met Thursday evening at the Legion home with the president, Mrs. W. H. Huckaby, presiding. The minutes of the past meeting were read by the secretary, Miss May Faulk, after which reports of the various committees were given as follows: Child welfare, Mrs. C. L. Mengis; memorials and community service, Mrs. Charles Mitchell.

June being Fidac month on the American Legion auxiliary calendar of activities, Mrs. H. B. McClendon gave an interesting paper on "Understanding Fidac," in which she said:

"What is this Fidac? Fidac is the only world organization of the allied veterans in existence. The name Fidac is the short form for the long title of the organization.

"Not many years ago only a few understood the meaning of Fidac, but today the entire American Legion auxiliary realizes Fidac's importance and from throughout the organization requests are coming for more and more information on the constructive work of this great interallied federation of war veterans.

Recognition Given

The club women of the Louisiana Federation of Women's clubs will note with pleasure the recognition which was accorded Louisiana at the council meeting of the general federation, held in Miami recently.

Louisiana was one of four states to receive an award of $20 for excellence of their art reports. Other states were Indiana, Kansas and Maryland. Mrs. D. H. Mrs. Smith Takes Over Presidency Of Local Women's Group

Successful Year's Work Is Completed

Business And Professional Club Will Carry On Work During Hot Summer Months

There was a lot of excitement fifteen years ago when several proud Monroe mammas gave birth to that lusty infant, the Business and Professional Women's club. Today, as you know, that infant has become a serious-minded, sedate young lady with a crusading instinct. It also has its own quarters, a beautiful clubhouse, presided over by a gracious hostess, Mrs. Charles McCord.

With another successful year's work just completed and new officers elected to guide the club's destiny through months ahead, Mrs. Nicholas Slator, second vice-president of Louisiana Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs and a former president of the local club, officiated during the installation ceremony and impressed upon the minds of club members the need for cooperating with the new officers.

Mrs. Slator, in addressing each new officer personally, had the following to say:

"Again has come the time for the installation of officers. To you elected the club has spoken. You have been chosen to pilot the club for the coming year. To you we look for guidance—in you we have placed our trust—from you we expect the best. You are opening a new door and may you bear in mind:

'To every man there openeth a way and a way and a way
And the high soul climbs the high way
And the low soul gropes the low
And in between on the misty flats
The rest drift to and fro
But to every man there openeth
A high way and a low
And every man decideth
Which way his soul shall go.'"

In addressing the new president, Mrs. George Wesley Smith, the speaker said:

"You have been honored by having entrusted to you the highest office it is within the power of this club to give. With the honor goes responsibility. In your hand rests the very life of this club. You must therefore be wise in your guidance—fair and impartial at all times—casting aside all prejudices—looking to the good of the majority. The membership looks to you to set the standards high. You must have faith, for only with great faith can an ideal be realized. This gavel is the symbol of the office and I adminish you to be careful in the use of it."

The vice-president, Miss Eleanor Faulk, was addressed as follows:

"You, too, have been chosen for an important office. You, too, must have tolerance, justice, faith, loyalty and must base your standards on high ideals, all the qualifications of the president, for during her absence you will take her place and become the leader. You are a staff for her to lean upon and she has a right to expect you to carry out her program. The key represents your office and symbolizes the unlocking of the door of opportunity for all business and professional women."

Miss Mae McIntosh, secretary, was addressed by the speaker as follows:

"You, too, must lift the standards high to meet the standards of the national federation. It is your duty to keep a record of all activities and business transacted, an accurate list of the personnel; and perform such other duties as your superior officers may direct. Yours is a confining office, for it is expedient that you attend all meetings of the club, as well as all executive board meetings. The symbol of your office is a book in which are kept the minutes which will serve as a guide for future activities and historical accomplishments. Besides the same qualifications of the other officers you must have sympathy, understanding and alertness, seeing that all correspondence is tactful and representative of the standards of the federation. This pen also represents your office and signifies that you are ever ready and willing to do your part in promoting the ideals of the federation."

To the treasurer, Miss Alice Baur, the following remarks were addressed:

"Like the other officers of this club you must possess the qualifications of a leader, carrying the torch of wisdom, scroll of learning, wand of harmony with true club spirit. You will promptly send to the state treasurer all dues belonging to the federation. You will be ready at all times to report the financial condition of the club to officers and members. This bank book represents office, pledging you to honesty and integrity as well as accuracy."

In the bright lexicon of life of the Business and Professional Women there is no such thing as summer playtime. Through the changing season they keep on spinning and planning for the future.

Mrs. George Wesley Smith, the new president of the Monroe club, presided over the recent business meeting. Her address "Personal Research" was one of the highlights of the June meeting.

Following a song number, "Through The Night," rendered in beautiful voice by Mrs. Ben Stern, the installation of officers took place with Mrs. R. N. Slator officiating. They were installed as follows:

President, Mrs. Geo. Wesley Smith; first vice president, Miss Eleanor L. Faulk; second vice president, Miss Florence Powers; secretary, Miss Mae McIntosh (re-elected); Treasurer, Miss Alice Baur.

At the conclusion of the installation service, Miss Eleanor Faulk presented Miss Mary O'Kelly, retiring president, with a past-president's emblem pin.

Mrs. C. McCord, assisted by Mrs. Lillian Jackson, Miss Florence Powers, Miss Mamie Ober and Blanche Colvin, served delicious sandwiches, sweet confections and iced frappe during the social hour to: Mary O'Kelly, Acele Smith, Effie Allen, Eleanor Faulk, Johnie S. Elbert, Llewella Hayes, Mae McIntosh, Lola Lanius, Hazel Wakefield, Lena Griffis, Lillie Arant, Bessie Sterne, Kate Clark, May Read, Laura Slator, Margie Hartman, Goldie Copes, Nora Downs, Dora Anish, Alice Baur, Mary Hester, Birdie Mae Mulherne.

Library Committee Seeks To Provide Free Books For All

Opportunity Asked For Every Citizen

Miss Essae M. Culver Points Out Big Values Obtained From Public Institutions

Books free to all would open the way to learning to thousands unable to attend colleges and universities The Louisiana Library commission is seeking to extend this opportunity for education through books to every person in the state, according to Miss Essae M. Culver, the commissioner's executive secretary.

Men who could not attend college, or even complete high school, but who have grasped the opportunity that books offered, have been among the leaders of the world. Long hours in the public library gave Thomas Edison the educational foundation for his great inventions. Henry Ford studied in the Detroit public library in order to gain the knowledge that led to the founding of a new industry. Maps and charts from a public library provided Charles A. Lingbergh with much of the information necessary to his flight across the Atlantic. Arthur E. Morgan, George Westinghouse and the Wright brothers are other great men who found an education in the public library.

The same opportunity to make the most of their ability through education that these men had is being sought for every child and adult in Louisiana by the Library commission. State aid in buying more books, in establishing enough parish and regional libraries so that no one in the state need be denied their use, would provide this opportunity, library authoritiese point out.

The experiencese of those who have had the use of a public library show that it is of immense practical value. One librarian tells of a young man who was unable to succeed because he lacked self-confidence. He secured a complete course in salesmanship from his library, and then received two promotions in a single year.

A young boy told his librarian that he did not know what he would do if it were not for the books on radio which he found in his public library. With knowledge gained from these books, he was able to carry on a business in repairing and rebuilding radios which sometimes brought him as much as $25 a week.

In no other way can education be provided so thoroughly and so economically as by means of a public library, leaders in adult education believe. A hundred library books can supply complete courses in several different subjects to thousands of persons. And in no other way is there less wastes of time and money, for a student in the library gets from his reading only so much as he puts into it. The value received is in proportion to his desire to learn.

State aid in establishing an adequate library service would open the way to education to every person in Louisiana.

Mrs. Smith Speaks

Mrs. George Wesley Smith, a prominent figure in the civic, political and artistic life of this city, delivered a glowing address to members of the Monroe Business and Professional Women's club last Tuesday night, when she was installed as the new president for the coming year.

With "Woman Marches On" for her theme, she spoke as follows:

"I wish I could paint you a true picture of the influence of womanhood on the great men of all the ages, dating back to the King of men, that lowly man of Nazareth, whose life must have been influenced to a wonderful degree by his mother, Mary.

"You are all familiar with the Bible story of Jacob and Rachel: How Jacob served seven years for Rachel's hand, and then, due to the trickery of her father, Leah, was given to him instead, and how Jacob served seven more years without pay before he finally received Rachel for his wife, and how he was inspired to noble deeds the rest of his life as leader of th Jewish people, by his love for Rachel "Down through the ages, women have influenced the lives of such men as Washington, Jefferson, Coolidge, Wilson, Lindbergh and hundreds of others.

"Florence Nightingale, that wonderful woman of her time; Jane Adams, the world's most famous welfare worker; the great Madam Schuman-Heink; Ann Morrow Lindbergh; our president's charming mother and his gifted wife; Ruth Bryan Owens, United States minister to Denmark, have all earned their names in the hall of fame.

"Twenty years ago the public would have said 'Woman Emerges.' Ten years ago it would have been 'Woman Progresses,' but today it is as it always was, 'Woman Marches On,' and it dates back to the individual accomplishments of many, many centuries.

"Nellie Taylor Ross of Wyoming was the first woman to govern a state. At the convention at Cleveland last week it was said time was when women attending a national convention were more ornamental than useful, but that has all been changed. The fair sex is taking hold of party work with a zest.

Alice Roosevelt Longworth attend the convention as a journalist and a delegates. Her convention companion for years, Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms, arrived from New Mexico as chairman of her state delegation. That was the first time a woman has held the post.

"Dolly Gann said: 'Women can do any thing they want to. If they want to elect a woman president of the United States, all they got to do is get busy and elect her.'

"Florence P. Kahn, congressman from California says: 'Women are to be the deciding factor in the presidential race this fall; and of all the groups, youngsters, farmers and all, the women is the greatest.'

"The late Louis Howe said he could foresee a woman president and for fifteen years before President Franklin Delano Roosevelt even thought of running, Louis Howe said he would make him president of the United States, and he did.

"So with woman's influence marching on and on, with over sixty-five thousand women in the Business and Professional Women's club asking God to put into action our better impulses, straightforward and unafraid, we will see woman's influence going stronger and mightier in higher places in the world."

Lindsey-Harris

Of interest to a wide group of friends is the marriage of Mrs. Maryl Myrick Harris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Miles, of Girard, La., to Mr. George Ernest Lindsey, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Lindsey, of Bernice, with Rev. E. E. Huntsberry, of the Baptist church of West Monroe, performing the ceremony at a beautiful garden wedding solemnized Wednesday afternoon, June 24, at 4:20 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents.

The following article appeared in the Richland Beacon-News:

"A path enclosed by vines led the way to a rose arbor, colorful against its verdant background, where the ceremony was performed. The bride, entering upon the arm of her brother, Mr. W. B. Myrick, was lovely in a floor-length blue lace. A matching jacket had bishop sleeves and Queen Anne collar. She wore a small hat of blue straw and carried an arm bouquet of pink radiance roses and lilies of the valley.

"Mrs. Arthur Scott, of Winnfield, aunt of the groom, accompanied Mrs. Samuel Guess of Vicksburg, Miss., who sang beautifully 'My Heart At Thy Sweet Voice,' from Sampson and Delilah, and 'Ah! Sweet Mystery of Life,' and played softly 'To a Wild Rose' during the ceremony

"Mrs. E. H. Myrick, the matron of honor, was most becomingly gowned in pink point d'esprit with blue crushed velvet girdle and natural flower-trimmed leghorn hat. Her arm bouquet was of mixed garden flowers. The two dainty flower girls, Miss Katherine Glenn Myrick, niece of the bride, and Miss Carol Emerson, of Monroe, niece of the groom, wore pink greenaway frocks of net and carried old-fashioned bouquets.

"Mr. Richard Baskerville, of Ruston, was Mr. Lindsey's best man, and Mr. John Raines Myrick, of Girard, and Dr. A. J. Emerson, of Monroe, were ushers.

"Mrs. Miles, mother of the bride, wore a soft pearl gray carded crepe, a lavender hat, and corsage of lavender with pink roses. The groom's mother, Mrs. Lindsey, was gowned in floral chiffon with picture hat and a shoulder corsage of asters and roses.

"Immediately following the ceremony Mrs. John Raines Myrick, dressed becomingly in green embroidered mousseline de soir, assisted by Miss Vassar Singletary, Miss Rosalind Lindsey, Miss Alice Cooper and Mrs. Arthur Emerson, served refreshments to the assembled guests. The bride's table, covered with a beautiful Venetian cloth, held a two-tiered wedding cake embossed with rosebuds, and surrounded by garden flowers.

"Mrs. Lindsey was graduated from Rayville high school, and later attended Louisiana Polytechnic institute in Ruston, and Louisiana State university in Baton Rouge. For the past two years she has been a member of the school faculty at Archibald.

"Mr. Lindsey is associated with his father in extensive business and planting interests in Bernice.

The bride and groom left for a tour of Texas and will visit the centennial before returning to their home in Bernice."

Engagement

Of interest to friends in Monroe is the announcement of the engagement of Miss Kathleen Fava of Baton Rouge to Lieut. Q. Q. Rankin of the United States army. Miss Fava is a great favorite in this city, where she has visited on several occasions in the home of her aunt, Mrs. J. C. Leath on South Second street.

The following article appeared in the social section of the Baton Rouge State Times of June 18:

"In the late afternoon yesterday was the announcement tea given for Miss Kathleen Fava by her mother, Mrs. Frank J. Fava, at their home on Lakeland drive. And Miss Fava is another bride-elect of the summer, for yesterday her engagement was announced by her parents to Lieut. William Q. Q. Rankin, U. S. army, of March field, Cal., a former Louisiana State university student and Kappa Sigma member who is well known here. He is the son of Mrs. Josie C. Rankin of Gulfport, Miss., and of the late Mr. J. Watts Rankin.

"Miss Fava attended Bolton high school, where she was graduated. She attended Louisiana college at Pineville, her first year of college, and then came to L. S. U., where she was graduated in 1934. She is a member of the Chi Omega social fraternity, and Beta Gamma Sigma honorary commerce fraternity, and a dancing club.

Mr. Rankin attended the Colorado School of Mines and also L. S. U., where he was graduated in 1933. He is a member of the geological and mining society of American universities. He was also graduated from Randolph and Kelly fields, in San Antonio, Texas, and received his commission in the U. S. army air corps in March, 1936."

Miss Anna Ella Douglas of Dallas, Texas, is a guest in the home of Miss Lelia Dean Frazier of the west side.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Miles of Nashville, Tenn., en route to Shreveport for a visit with relatives, spent several days in the home of Mr. and Mrs H. B. Miles of West Monroe.

Henry-Richman

A wedding of interest to friends and relatives was that of Miss Vella Richman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Richman of Clarks, La., and Mr. Rufus Henry of Monroe.

The ceremony was performed on the 27th of June at the Gordon Avenue Methodist parsonage with the pastor, Rev. S. S. Holliday, officiating in the presence of a few intimate friends and relatives.

The bride wore a lovely blue model with white accessories.

Mrs. Henry is a graduate of North East Center of L. S. U., and Mr. Henry is connected with the Brown Paper Mill Co., of West Monroe.

After a short honeymoon the happy couple will be at home to their friends at 1119 Mississippi street.

Library Committee Seeks To Provide Free Books For All

Opportunity Asked For Every Citizen

Miss Essae M. Culver Points Out Big Values Obtained From Public Institutions

Books free to all would open the way to learning to thousands unable to attend colleges and universities The Louisiana Library commission is seeking to extend this opportunity for education through books to every person in the state, according to Miss Essae M. Culver, the commissioner's executive secretary.

Men who could not attend college, or even complete high school, but who have grasped the opportunity that books offered, have been among the leaders of the world. Long hours in the public library gave Thomas Edison the educational foundation for his great inventions. Henry Ford studied in the Detroit public library in order to gain the knowledge that led to the founding of a new industry. Maps and charts from a public library provided Charles A. Lingbergh with much of the information necessary to his flight across the Atlantic. Arthur E. Morgan, George Westinghouse and the Wright brothers are other great men who found an education in the public library.

The same opportunity to make the most of their ability through education that these men had is being sought for every child and adult in Louisiana by the Library commission. State aid in buying more books, in establishing enough parish and regional libraries so that no one in the state need be denied their use, would provide this opportunity, library authoritiese point out.

The experiencese of those who have had the use of a public library show that it is of immense practical value. One librarian tells of a young man who was unable to succeed because he lacked self-confidence. He secured a complete course in salesmanship from his library, and then received two promotions in a single year.

A young boy told his librarian that he did not know what he would do if it were not for the books on radio which he found in his public library. With knowledge gained from these books, he was able to carry on a business in repairing and rebuilding radios which sometimes brought him as much as $25 a week.

In no other way can education be provided so thoroughly and so economically as by means of a public library, leaders in adult education believe. A hundred library books can supply complete courses in several different subjects to thousands of persons. And in no other way is there less wastes of time and money, for a student in the library gets from his reading only so much as he puts into it. The value received is in proportion to his desire to learn.

State aid in establishing an adequate library service would open the way to education to every person in Louisiana.

PATTERNS 2703 AND 2687

Real sporting can't be done without the right costume, so Anne Adams has planned two delightful frocks, one of the spectator type which is sure to draw attention to the sidelines, and another—a smart sunster! Simple and charming, with low V-neck and action pleats, Pattern 2703 springs a surprise when its back is turned! See, it's a wrap-around that slyly buttons down the back, which just about converts us to making up a half dozen dresses from this one pattern. Ideal in pique. For Pattern 2687, choose a gay linen or dotted percale and see if everyone doesn't admire your jaunty version of the shirtwaist frock! Of clever yoke-sleeve design, you'll find this model unusually easy to make.

Pattern 2703 is available in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 takes 3 5-8 yards 36-inch fabric. Price 15c.

Pattern 2687 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 takes 3 3-8 yards of 36 inch fabric. Price 15c. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included with each pattern.

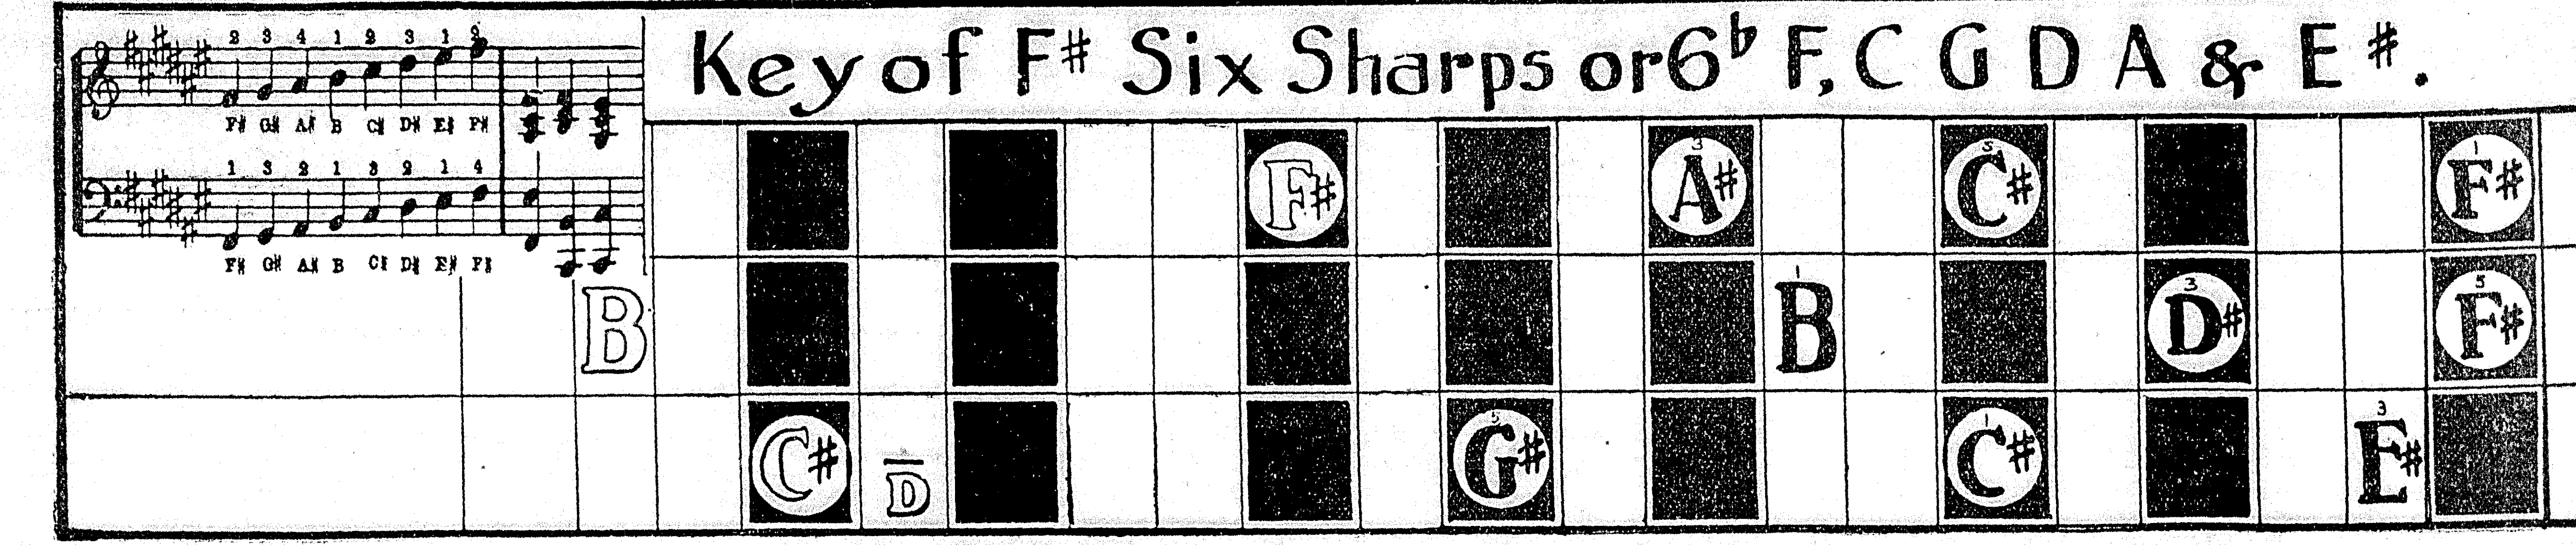
HOME COURSE IN PIANO PLAYING—LESSON NO. 13



Copyright, 1927, by W. Scott Grove, Scranton, Pa.

GROVE'S MUSIC SIMPLIFIER is fully protected by copyrights in the United States, Canada, Great Britain, the countries of Continental Europe and their colonies.

When you have learned this chord your ear should be enough to direct you how to combine it for accompaniments. This is true of the chords of any other key, as well as of the present, the key of F Sharp Major.

INSTRUCTION—Place chart upon the keyboard of piano or organ so that the little overlined letter D corresponds to the D of the keyboard and you will find the three fundamental chords indicated for you. (The overlined D, which marks position only, is not to be played.) You will find that in every lesson you have studied the upper major chord is composed of the first, third and fifth tones of the scale, or do, mi and sol, with another do in the bass; the second is composed of do, fa and la, with a la in the bass; the third reads sol, ti, re. Here you have every tone in the octave. When you are playing accompaniments each chord you strike should (in general) contain the note of the melody that is sounded with the chord. You can study this out from the chart, but few persons should need more instructions on this point than the ear itself can give. The ear should also tell when to employ the minor chords.

If you will play this chord over and over until you know it perfectly, remembering the letters as well as the keys, you should have no difficulty in playing simple accompaniments to songs sung in F Sharp Major. Patience and practice combined will bring wonderful results in any endeavor, and these two qualities are the firm foundation in the mastery of a musical education.

Every triad in black letter is marked 1, 3, 5. Always read it so, no matter in what vertical order the notes may be written. Note that the small letter D with a dash above it must not be played.

NEXT LESSON—D Sharp Minor.

BUILD HEALTH SURELY WITH BUTTER-KRUST BREADS

95% of all bread fed to patients of 12 leading hospitals in New York City is white bread.

White bread is fed to patients because of its concentrated food value and easy digestibility, Miss Kobe, dietitian of the Broad Street Hospital, declared. The well balanced diet can be built around bread.

Bread is good for young and old. No one food, not even milk, can supply the body with all the materials needed for growth and vitality. But each of our chief foods . . . breads, milk, meat, poultry products, fresh fruit and vegetables . . . taken in suitable combinations, accomplish this result.

White bread is rich in protein and carbohydrates which the body needs and it is so completely digestible that nearly all of these two important contents are assimilated.

Gasoline

An Announcement of Importance to Motorists . . .

—back to STANDARD

JULY 1st

For twelve years we've shopped the petroleum field to give to the dealer and the consuming public the best obtainable petroleum products for motoring transportation. We have felt it advisable from time to time to change in order to keep one step ahead of competition in the matter of quality petroleum merchandise which would prove profitable both to the dealer and the consumer.

We take great pride now in announcing that Central Oil & Supply Corporation has been officially appointed by the

as distributors of their SPARTAN gasoline, Essolube and Esso motor oil, industrial oil, and all Standard Petroleum products in the Monroe area.

The decision to handle these superior products exclusively was made only after long consideration and in keeping with our expressed desire to sell the best and give the best service.

STANDARD Oil Products need no introduction to our customers as we have previously handled their line for 10 years.

You will find STANDARD Spartan gasoline better than any non-premium gasoline you have ever used, yet it sells at regular gasoline price. You can buy your first tank full of Spartan on our say-so. It will give you the sweetest-feeling motor you have ever sat behind.

A Word About STANDARD'S SPARTAN Gasoline

Spartan comes from one single source of supply—that means you get the same high quality product from day to day and month to month. It is produced in one of the world's largest refineries located in Louisiana. Standard's Spartan gasoline is a quality, regular priced gasoline. It has a high anti-knock rating, unsurpassed by any non-premium gasoline on the market. It has a special lubricating solvent, which keeps valves clean and prevents sticking.
Buy Standard's Spartan with confidence.

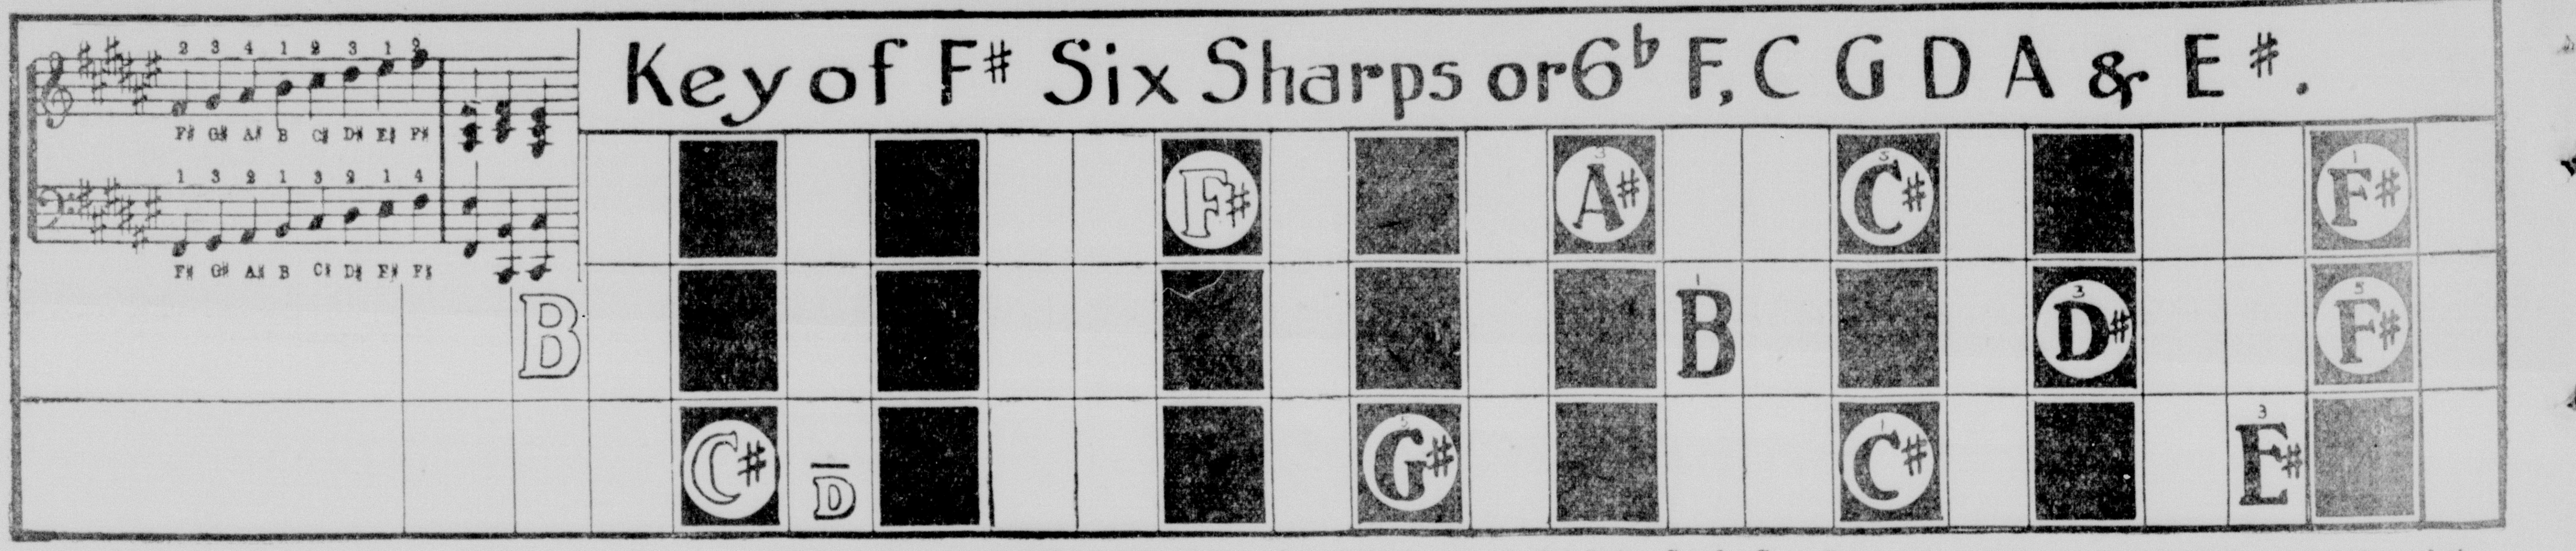
Numerous Social Events Mark Week In Northeast Louisiana

HOME COURSE IN PIANO PLAYING—LESSON NO. 13



Copyright, 1927, by W. Scott Grove, Scranton, Pa.

GROVE'S MUSIC SIMPLIFIER is fully protected by copyrights in the United States, Canada, Great Britain, the countries of Continental Europe and their colonies.

When you have learned this chord your ear should be enough to direct you how to combine it for accompaniments. This is true of the chords of any other key, as well as of the present, the key of F Sharp Major.

INSTRUCTION—Place chart upon the keyboard of piano or organ so that the little overlined letter D corresponds to the D of the keyboard and you will find the three fundamental chords indicated for you. (The overlined D, which marks position only, is not to be played.) You will find that in every lesson you have studied the upper major chord is composed of the first, third and fifth tones of the scale, or do, mi and sol, with another do in the bass; the second is composed of do, fa and la, with a la in the bass; the third reads sol, ti, re. Here you have every tone in the octave. When you are playing accompaniments each chord you strike should (in general) contain the note of the melody that is sounded with the chord. You can study this out from the chart, but few persons should need more instructions on this point than the ear itself can give. The ear should also tell when to employ the minor chords.

If you will play this chord over and over until you know it perfectly, remembering the letters as well as the keys, you should have no difficulty in playing simple accompaniments to songs sung in F Sharp Major. Patience and practice combined will bring wonderful results in any endeavor, and these two qualities are the firm foundation in the mastery of a musical education.

Every triad in black letter is marked 1, 3, 5. Always read it so, no matter in what vertical order the notes may be written. Note that the small letter D with a dash above it must not be played.

NEXT LESSON—D Sharp Minor.

BUILD HEALTH SURELY WITH BUTTER-KRUST BREADS

95% of all bread fed to patients of 12 leading hospitals in New York City is white bread.

White bread is fed to patients because of its concentrated food value and easy digestibility, Miss Kobe, dietitian of the Broad Street Hospital, declared. The well balanced diet can be built around bread.

Bread is good for young and old. No one food, not even milk, can supply the body with all the materials needed for growth and vitality. But each of our chief foods . . . breads, milk, meat, poultry products, fresh fruit and vegetables . . . taken in suitable combinations, accomplish this result.

White bread is rich in protein and carbohydrates which the body needs and it is so completely digestible that nearly all of these two important contents are assimilated.

An Announcement of Importance to Motorists . . .

—back to STANDARD

JULY 1st

For twelve years we've shopped the petroleum field to give to the dealer and the consuming public the best obtainable petroleum products for motoring transportation. We have felt it advisable from time to time to change in order to keep one step ahead of competition in the matter of quality petroleum merchandise which would prove profitable both to the dealer and the consumer.

We take great pride now in announcing that Central Oil & Supply Corporation has been officially appointed by the

as distributors of their SPARTAN gasoline, Essolube and Esso motor oil, industrial oil, and all Standard Petroleum products in the Monroe area.

The decision to handle these superior products exclusively was made only after long consideration and in keeping with our expressed desire to sell the best and give the best service.

STANDARD Oil Products need no introduction to our customers as we have previously handled their line for 10 years.

You will find STANDARD Spartan gasoline better than any non-premium gasoline you have ever used, yet it sells at regular gasoline price. You can buy your first tank full of Spartan on our say-so. It will give you the sweetest-feeling motor you have ever sat behind.

RENOVATING
"Don't Get Wet"
The old landmark of a house of Laura Lee Bell and Short Pencil Bell at 101 Breard Street is now being renovated and when finished, then comes the House Warming. Everyone invited, including Century Plant customers on the wrong side of my ledger. Preacher to open the ball with prayer; race hoss men and women, chicken fighters, newsboys that wipe their noses on their shirt sleeves—all of my friends and acquaintances of whatever description are welcome.
When a fellow is celebrating his 101 birthday by getting married he can't help but feel mellow, let the bars down and let the whole world know that to be satisfied and have a good appetite is just about the whole works. All you have to do is bring your dog and wear a green necktie.
The reason I did not join the K. K. Klan is because I am one of the best looking men in town and did not want to promenade the streets with a pillow case over my head, so the ladies could not look me over.
All ministers of the Gospel, their wives, doctors, nurses and all whose vocation in life is to help keep the spark of hope and love alive in the breast of unfortunate humanity are more than welcome at our house warming.
See me about up-to-the-minute ideas as to ventilating and air conditioning buildings, sheet metal awnings that never rot out, canopies for kitchen stoves, nickel-plated sink and sideboard trimmings. Roof materials for sale and applied. Galvanized iron water tanks delivered anywhere. Cortright metal shingles last a lifetime. Any and all sheet metal work—auto radiator, body and fender repairs. Cortright metal shingles, built-uproofing, Barrett's specification and others.
Short Pencil's home-pathic; home guard, built up roofs. Drive north then south on Walnut Street; cast your glimmers on my "Short Pencil Bell" electric sign. Hi! Some pep, some pride, I'll say at 101 years young.
Yours truly,
J. G. (Short Pencil) BELL.

GUARDS RESCUED AND DISARMED IN KENT RIOT

Rushing company guards from the besieged Black and Decker Tool company in Kent, Ohio, Police Chief St. Clair West is shown left speeding fugitives into the city jail, where they were protected from an enraged crowd of strikers. Forty-one guards were removed from the plant, after a bullet and gas battle in which nearly a score were wounded. The clash climaxed the strike of machinists for wage adjustments. The guards were well armed, as is proved by the armful of shotguns and gas guns which Patrolman W. C. Barr is holding in the picture at right.

CHAPTER VII

At Camilla's exclamation of Rosita's name, Phil looked puzzled, and Bob gave a long, low whistle.

"Rosita, of course!" he said. "It all fits in, But why in the world should Rosita come for Marcia?"

"That would be interesting to find out," Camilla said. "Let's get a taxicab and go to Zeni's."

They did. Rosita was not there.

"Her night off," someone explained.

"Where does she live?" Bob asked.

"That, monsieur, nobody knows," the man answered, with a careless shrug which indicated that one did not reveal addresses. Bob's hand went into his pocket. The man hesitated, then murmured an address on the Left Bank. He took the bill, bowed, and walked away.

"Wrong address, I'll bet," Phil murmured. "But come on."

They did. The cab drew up in front of an old, low house, and a tottering old lady with frizzled gray curls opened the door.

"Rosita?" she repeated. "Oh, yes, Rosita! She lives here, but she is not here tonight. She is away for the day and night."

"Could you tell us where she is?" Bob asked.

"That I cannot say. She left no address. I'm so sorry."

"Mind if we stick around until she comes back?" Phil asked.

"But I said that she will not be home tonight!"

"Yes, we heard you, but it so happens that I think she will." His chin was stubborn and his gray eyes were narrowed.

"Surely, then. Stay as long as you please."

She opened the door and led them into a dusty, airless room. In half an hour, Phil stood up.

"I'm afraid she wins. What about getting the gendarmes?"

"A good idea," Bob agreed. "I don't trust Rosita."

Marcia, in the meantime, had been surprised when Rosita's dark face with its lacquered wings of hair had suddenly appeared in front of her.

"Miss Cunningham, I should so like to see you," she said. "It is about Mr. Haskell."

"I'm sorry—that matter concerns you and Mr. Haskell, only." She tried to pass.

"Oh, no, no! Mr. Haskell is in trouble. He needs you. Please—"

"In trouble. Where?"

"The jail. It seems that there was a fight and bail was needed and—I came for you when I heard."

There had been so many times when Marcia had come to Bob's aid that instinctively she listened to Rosita. More than once he had found that he did not have money enough to meet a check.

Now, a little hesitantly, she turned and followed Rosita. The French girl summoned a cab and they started through the twilight.

"Robert is so careless," the French girl said.

Marcia did not answer.

"And such a warm heart," she continued. "He loves you, I think. Yes, I think he loves you very much. But he loves others. He would forget."

"Why should he forget?" Marcia asked then.

Rosita shrugged her black-clad shoulders. "Oh—if something should happen to make him very displeased with you. You love him, I think."

To this assertion Marcia turned a quiet, disinterested face.

"This is it." Rosita paid the driver and started to a gray door.

"This? The jail?" But perhaps it was. Marcia remembered that she never had seen the French jails.

They entered a long room. Dim music came from somewhere and there were small tables with shaded lights. The ceilings were high and the rooms smelled musty.

"The jail?" Marcia asked, fearful suddenly.

"Oh, but we are not going to the jail. We are going to wait here for Robert. Come!"

"No, thank you—"

"I think it would be wise. Still, if you are afraid—" She turned to the doorman. "Andre, the lady is leaving." The man bowed and opened the door.

Seeing the street so near, Marcia changed her mind. After all, she could leave any minute. She sat down and ordered a pot of tea with cream.

When a tall young man came to the table she was not surprised. She had half-expected to find Pierre somewhere near Rosita. She spoke coolly. The memory of his mouth on her own repelled any friendliness that might have started because half a dozen young people were in Paris in the late, warm spring. She disliked his hair, his eyes, his hands, all of him, anyway, she reminded herself. Ugh!

When he had sat down, he smiled.

"You might like to see a little memento of our first meeting."

"A memento?"

The silly fool might have saved a flower from her corsage, or something, thinking it would enchant her. "What about Robert Haskell?" she asked.

"Mr. Haskell? Oh, he is probably having tea somewhere. Somewhere, wondering where you are."

"The French jails serve tea? How very considerate. And maybe they have little cakes and sandwiches, too." Her anger was mounting. She had let herself be duped by Rosita. Rosita, reading character, had known that Bob would be the type of man to get himself into trouble, innocently enough, and had used it as an ace card.

"This will interest you." Pierre put a photograph before her.

White with anger, Marcia gazed at it. There was no mistaking the two people in it. She was the girl and the man whose arms held her was Pierre.

"That picture without this is no good." Pierre talked on in a slippery voice that gave the impression of having been rubbed in oil. "And this one, which I shall show presently to Mademoiselle has need of the first one to establish the young lady's identity. See!"

He placed a second photograph on the table. The two people were the same. You could tell the girl by her clothes, and her hair and her profile. The man was implanting a kiss on her mouth.

"You—you . . ." She would have torn the pictures in two, but remembered, in time, that Pierre had the negatives.

"The likeness is splendid, don't you think?" Rosita murmured.

"What do you want?" Marcia asked.

"Fifty thousand francs," they answered together.

"And if I won't—"

"Every newspaper in America—in your New York—will have these pictures. Every one will know that you and Pierre were—sweethearts."

"You—" Her words choked in her throat.

"Well?" A soft, sliding word.

Marcia stood up and walked to the door. The doorman bowed and opened it. She stepped into the street.

From behind her came a low voice. "You have until tomorrow night at 7, Mademoiselle. And then—"

Marcia did not go home. She went alone to a little restaurant to drink more tea and think. It was preposterous. That snickering gigolo had made himself obnoxious and was seeking a reward. She would have him arrested. At once.

She went to police headquarters and eventually found an officer who would listen to her.

"But you are in the picture, you and this man?" he asked.

She nodded.

"And he kissed you?"

"Yes, he did, but—"

"Then he has the evidence. How do I know that you aren't lying—" The officer intended to go more directly to the heart of the matter, but Marcia did not know that. She got up and hurried from the room. She had to consult somebody. Anybody. Bob wouldn't know what to do. Bob, indirectly, had got her into this. Got her into it merely by being the irresponsible person he was. But Phil—

She would go to him.

"Hurry, driver," she pleaded. "I'll triple the fare!"

BASEBALL BATS TO BE MANUFACTURED

JONESVILLE, La., June 27.—(Special)—According to A. M. Webber, manager and owner of the A. M. Webber Stave company of Jonesville, he has just closed a deal with the Louisiana Wood Work company to furnish the latter firm with a mill site adjoining his properties on the bank of Little river, for the immediate erection of manufacturing plant which will make baseball bats to be shipped in carload quanities.

J. C. Elgin, who has been in Jonesville for the past week in the interests of his company, stated that the plant is not to be confused with the fly-by night "plants that manufacture only blanks," as his company contemplates the erection of a modern wood working plant that will turn out the finished product from the raw timber.

Mr. Elgin, who will have charge of the erection and the operation of the plant, said also that the plant when completed will furnish a payroll including both bill and woods crews of approximately $1,000 a week and that the bulk of the timber used would be "bitter pecan," which heretofore has been of little value to lumber users. There is much of this timber in this section and, according to Mr. Webber, who has been instrumental in getting the company to locate in Jonesville, timber holdings of the A. M. Webber Stave company are being transferred to the new company in sufficient quantities to afford several years cutting to the new plant. Work on the new mill will start immediately and operation is expected to start within the next few weeks.

NINE OIL WELLS ARE COMPLETED

Six Of Gushers In South Louisiana And Rest In Rodessa District

NEW ORLEANS, June 27.—(AP)—The state conservation department announced here today that nine new oil wells were completed in Louisiana during the week ended Friday. Six of the gushers were in south Louisiana and the remaining in Caddo parish's Rodessa field.

A total of 25 drilling permits was issued by the department. The number of permits, most of which were for operations in north Louisiana, was a sharp increase as compared with the previous three weeks.

The field, location, name of producing company and the initial daily production of each follow in order:

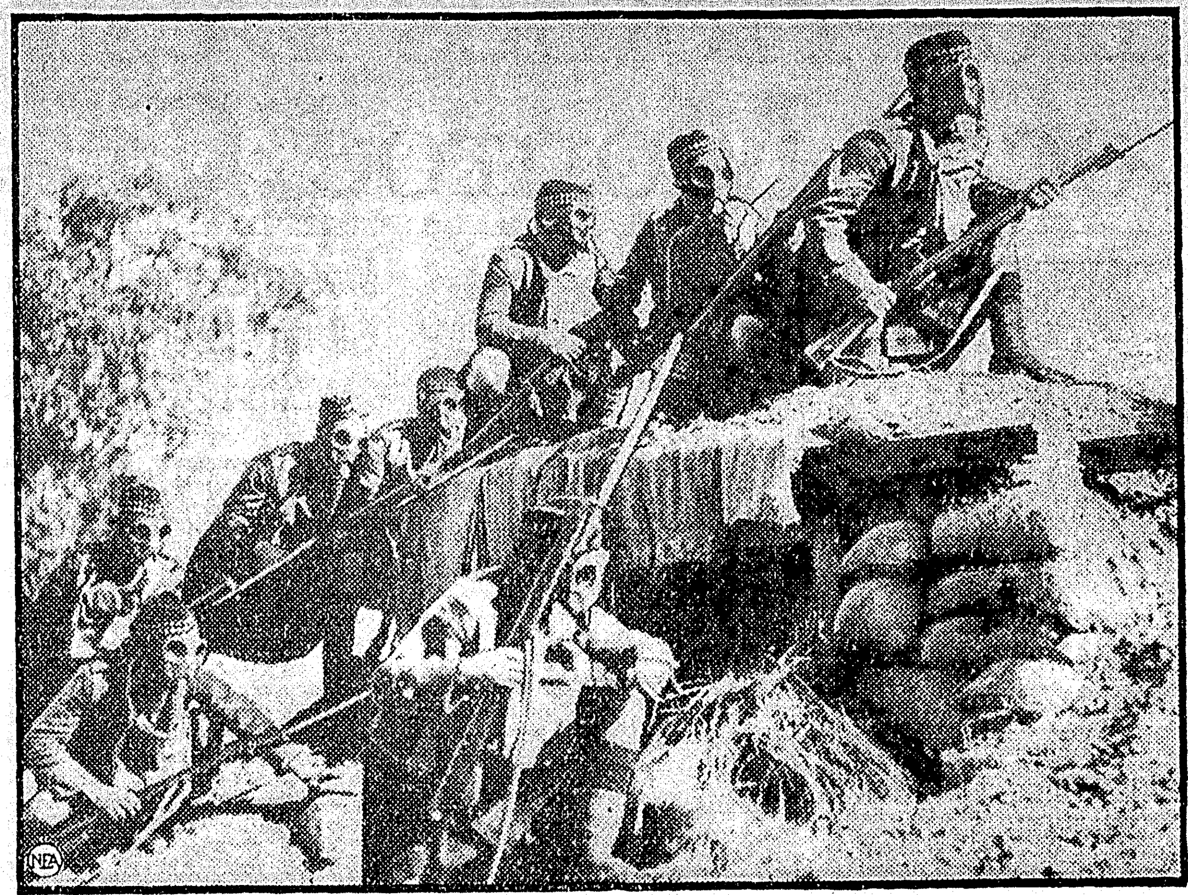
Basile in Acadia parish, Continental Oil company, 584.28 barrels; Caillou Island in Terrebonne parish, Texas company, 1,606 barrels; English bayou in Calcasieu parish, R. Dobbs, et al, 500 barrels; Iberia in Iberia parish, William Helis, 480.60 barrels; Jeanerette in St. Mary parish, Herton Oil company, two wells, 770.40 and 417.30 barrels, respectively; Rodessa, R. W. Norton, 504 barrels; Rodessa, United Gas Public Service, 384 barrels.

The department's minerals division announced that the daily crude oil estimated production in the Louisiana gulf coast region for the week ended June 20 was 145,637 barrels. This compared with 145,637 barrels the previous week.

The following permits for drilling were issued:

Premier Investment in Bossier parish, seven permits; W. D. Ambrose in Caddo parish, two; Calatex Oil and Gas company, in Caddo, one; H. Meyers in Caddo, one; R. W. Norton in Caddo, three; H. W. Snowden in Caddo, one; Standard Oil company of Louisiana and Gulf Refining company (jointly) two; G. W. Zeigin, in Caldwell, one; Standard Oil and Gas company in Cameron parish (renewal) one; Sutton Oil company, Inc., in Cameron parish, one; Jefferson Lake Oil company in Iberia parish, one; Interstate Natural Gas company in Ouachita parish, one; Federal Petroleum company in Union parish, two, and J. P. Evans, in Webster parish, one.

IT'S GRIM GAME AS AUSTRALIA ARMS



Proof that the shadow of war has spread to farthest corners of the world, even "down under" in Australia, is this grim scene, taken during maneuvers at Seymour, Victoria. In all branches of the armed forces there is a bustle of activity as Australia rushes to completion her $100,000,000 defense program, for which a fear of Japanese aggression is believed responsible. With skull-like gas masks contrasting grotesquely with their kilts and gay, plaid-lined service caps, members of the Victorian Scottish regiment are shown gripping their bayoneted rifles, awaiting the order to attack.

∴ CHURCHES ∴

METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH
Stone Avenue and South Third Street
I. L. Yeager, Pastor

Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. Morning worship at 11 o'clock. Christian Endeavor at 6:45 p.m., Mrs. M. B. Hearne, leader. Evening service at 7:45. Woman's Missionary auxiliary meeting at the church Tuesday afternoon at 2:30, Mrs. John Zufall, president. Choir practice Tuesday evening at 7:45. Midweek prayer service Thursday evening at 7:45, Mrs. Leora Johnston, leader of meeting.

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH
Corner Oak and St. John Streets
Rev. Crayton S. Brooks, Pastor

Church school at 9:45 a.m. Members urged to be present and visitors invited. There will be preaching and communion at 11 a.m. Dr. Brooks will be in the pulpit with a great inspiring message. He will be back from Oklahoma, where he held a two-week revival. Christian Endeavor at 6:45 p.m. Preaching service at 8 p.m., with Dr. Brooks bringing the message.

M'CLENDON BAPTIST CHURCH
Old Natchitoches Road
W. E. James, Pastor

During the past two weeks, the church has been undergoing a great revival. Rev. A. H. Johnson, pastor of the Immanuel Baptist church of West Monroe, has been bringing the messages, which have been of inestimable help to the church as a whole and to the saving of souls. Saturday evening being the last of Rev. Johnson's series of services, the pastor will close the meeting with three services Sunday. Following the Sunday school hour, which begins at 10 a.m., with O. E. Pettit, superintendent, the pastor's subject will be "The Mystery of the Church." Every member is earnestly invited to attend, as this will be entirely in line with the messages that have gone before in the meeting. At the Immanuel Baptist church, the pastor will bring a message just prior to conferring the ordinance of baptism on the candidates, and the subject of the message will be "Why Baptiseth Thou?" This message should be of interest to every one, and the public is invited to attend this hour of study and worship, which will begin at 3 p.m. Then following the B. T. U., which begins at 7 p.m.; the pastor will bring the last message of the meeting, and the last of his pastorate over the McClendon Baptist church, and the subject of the message will be "The Last Supper." Following the evening service, the Lord's supper will be observed. Everyone is requested to attend the services of the day.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH
St. John and Grammont Streets
L. T. Hastings, Pastor
D. C. Black, Director of Education and Music

The revival services under the direction of the pastor and Mr. Black during the past week have been well attended and the interest has been quite encouraging. Let us gird ourselves for the next week of the meeting and give the very best we have. The purpose of these services primarily is to "Deepen the Spiritual Life of the Church." At the morning hour the pastor will speak on "A Great Gospel for Great Sinners," based on the text, I Tim. 1:15-17. Special music by the large chorus choir under Mr. Black's direction, with Mrs. G. C. Cornett at the piano. At the evening hour, the pastor will bring a message on "Cords and Cart-ropes," based on the text, "Woe unto them that draw iniquity with cords of vanity, and sin as it were with a cart-rope." Isaiah 5:18. Mr. Evans George, director of the B. T. U., desires a full attendance at 6:30 p.m. Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. Next week at the evening services, the pastor will bring messages on "Ancient Prophecies Now Fulfilling Before Our Very Eyes." These messages are calculated to strengthen our faith in God's guiding hand through all this present maze of uncertainty. The public is cordially invited to all services, which are held in the large cool auditorium.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
Grammont at Catalpa
Ernest Holloway, Pastor

At the Sunday school hour, Mrs. Cochrane, a home missionary, will speak. The classes will adjourn to the auditorium that she may be heard. She comes in the interest of the program of the assembly. Will you hear her? Among the characters of the Bible, David is most interesting. His lot was not always pleasant. Constantly harassed by enemies without and within, he reached the end of his pilgrimage one of the choicest of men. He never lost his bearing; and the greater his tribulations, the more marked his poise. 1 Samuel 30:6 reveals the principle upon which he builded. Scripture is explicit. This is the statement: "And David strengthened himself in Jehovah, his God." To it we shall turn our thoughts this Sabbath morning. And at the evening hour, since Genesis is the book we are studying, Isaac is our character study. He is a lesser type, not outstanding and marked as Abraham, Jacob and Joseph. He had a part to play in the Divine plan. From his record, much has been preserved which will profit us of this era. The door of our church is open to you. Will you worship with us this Lord's day?

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST
Corner Auburn Avenue and North Second Street

Sunday services 11 a.m., Sunday school 9:30 a.m., Wednesday evening testimony meetings 8 o'clock. Reading room, 1108 Ouachita National Bank building, open daily, except Sunday and holidays, 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. The public is welcome to all services and the use of the reading room. "Christian Science" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, June 28, 1936. Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Then said Jesus to those Jews which believed on him, If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed; And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." (John 8). The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The principle of divine metaphysics is God; the practice of divine metaphysics is the utilization of the power of truth over error; its rules demonstrate its Science." (p. 111).

GORDON AVENUE METHODIST CHURCH
S. S. Holladay, Pastor

Church school 9:45 a.m., R. H. Gozo, general superintendent. Classes for all. Morning worship at 11 o'clock. Young people's services, both intermediate and senior leagues, at 7:15 p.m. Night service at 8 o'clock. Prayer meeting and choir practice Wednesday night at 8 o'clock. We were gratified with the attendance at prayer meeting this week and urge you to put forth an extra effort to attend divine services during these hot days.

CENTRAL BAPTIST CHURCH
3400 Lee Avenue
D. D. Cantrell, Pastor

Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. Sunday's lesson will be a review of the past quarter's work. B. T. U. at 7 p.m. The session will last only 45 minutes. Our plan is to make all services briefer as an attendance stimulant. At the morning service, the Lord's Supper will be commemorated. All church members are expected to be present. The pastor will speak Sunday night on "The Reward of the Fellow Who Does What He Can." This service will be dedicated especially to young people. After a two week's series of successful revival services, adding 30 members to the church, we anticipate an increase in attendance and interest. The public is invited to worship with us.

GRACE CHURCH
Fourth and Glenmar Streets
Edward Farren Hayward, Rector

Services for the third Sunday after Trinity are as follows: The Holy Eucharist will be celebrated at 7:30 a.m. Children's service and church school at 9:30 a.m. Morning service and sermon at 11 o'clock. Monday, June 29, is St. Peter's day. He was an apostle and a martyr. The Holy Eucharist will be celebrated at 7:30 a.m. The third Sunday after Trinity gives us the beautiful parable of the lost sheep and reveals the keen interest felt by God and the holy angels in the children of men. When the Good Shepherd finds the sheep that was lost and brings it home rejoicing, the joy fills the courts of heaven. The self-righteous 90 and 9, respectable Christians who do not want God and make excuses for not accepting His invitations and offers of friendship and aid, who need no repentance, are self satisfied, bring no joy to heaven. Knowlledge of God and self-knowledge will cure self-righteousness and produce humility. St. Peter knew this. The epistle is his. The church is open daily from 7:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Come in, rest and pray.

FIRST METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH
W. C. Scott, Pastor

Services are held at 11 a.m. and 8 p.m. on Sundays. The pastor will occupy the pulpit at both services Sunday. At the morning hour, the subject will be "Refreshing Springs." Evening services are being held at 8 p.m. during the summer months. Come and worship with us. Church school begins promptly at 9:30 a.m., in the children's division, and 9:45 a.m., in all other departments. Epworth league meets at 7 p.m. in the church annex each Sunday. The Woman's Missionary society will not have a regular meeting on Tuesday, but all members are urged to attend a zone meeting to be held in Mer Rouge on that date at 2:30 p.m.

Gly-Cas Gave Her Complete Recovery; All Else Failed

Mrs. Atkins Endured Terrific Headaches For Years, Had Indigestion Until She Was Afraid To Eat; Gly-Cas' Action Amazes.

If there are any men or women of Monroe and vicinity who still have any doubt whatever of the merit of this new Gly-Cas they should talk with Mrs. G. C. Atkins, 404 South Third street, Monroe, a highly respected housewife of this community.

MRS. G. C. ATKINS

Read what she said recently lauding the action of this new vegetable medical discovery in a statement reaching the Phoenix Drug Co., 348 DeSiard street, this city:

"Gly-Cas wasted no time in eliminating the poisons from my system and putting me on the road to complete recovery," said Mrs. Atkins, "For a long time I had suffered terrifically with severe headaches, neuralgia and attacks of indigestion. I was really afraid to eat knowing the discomfort and misery it would be sure to cause me afterwards. For my meals always were followed by these awful attacks. I became very high strung, nervous and found it difficult to get any rest at night. As time went on I grew worse, seemed to lose what little energy I had and felt so miserable I lost all interest in everything it seemed. As seemingly everything failed in my case I became discouraged and it was not until I was persuaded to try this new Gly-Cas that I found how wonderful a really good medicine could be."

"The cost of Gly-Cas was so little and I had so much to gain through its use I felt as if I had everything to gain and nothing to lose," continued Mrs. Atkins, "From the very first this new Gly-Cas showed me wonderful results. Those dreadful headaches have been relieved now, stomach again functioning properly and even those awful neuralgia pains have been taken from my body. Little did I realize any medicine could give such amazing results and I think every sufferer should learn of this new remedy for it is the first medicine I have ever found that did not disappoint me with its results."

Gly-Cas is sold by Phoenix Drug Co., 348 DeSiard street, Monroe, and by leading druggists in surrounding towns. (Adv.)

These Beautiful New Monroe Homes Designed And Constructed by Local Monroe Craftsmen

WORK IS STARTED ON 2 NEW HOMES

Contracts To Be Let Soon For Building Other Residences Here

Construction of only two residences, at modest costs, was started here during the past week, but increasing preparations were underway for the building of additional homes.

L. D. Davis, contractor, began construction of a one-story five-room frame residence for Earl Harvey at the corner of Harrison street and Smith avenue, in Sherrouse addition. The home will cost approximately $2,100.

Ellis and Coleman, contractors, began construction of a two-story garage apartment building for R. L. Prophit at the corner of North Fourth and K streets. The building will cost $1,600.

Contracts for building several private plan jobs and several architects' plan jobs are expected to be let within the next several days. One or more FHA jobs also are expected to be let soon. Bids had been received yesterday for the construction of one substantial residence project, but the successful bidder and the contract price had not been announced.

While a number of war veterans have indicated that they intend to purchase a residence lot with their bonus money and build a home later, there are some who already own a lot and who intend to build a home, and others who have sufficient bonus money due them to finance the contemplated projects of buying both a home and lot on the time-payment plan.

Still other veterans, who have experience with tools, plan to purchase building materials and build, themselves, a several-room house, with the intention of adding other rooms later.

ESTATE RENOVATED UNDER FHA PROGRAM

CLEVELAND, Ohio.—A private estate, consisting of 34 single and two-family houses, is being completely modernized by the owner. The renovations are being financed under the modernization credit plan of the federal housing administration, local financial institutions having extended $42,000 for the work. The maximum modernization loan for any one residential property is $2,000, but each of the 34 houses is a separate property.

EXPERT FORSEES BUILDING UPTURN

Indications That Construction Will Be Doubled In Detroit Area

DETROIT, Mich.—Present indications are that residential building in Detroit will double during 1936, according to Mason P. Rumney, president of the Builders' and Traders' exchange here.

"One influence," he said, "cannot be avoided in a discussion of building activity, namely, the work of the federal housing administration, which has undoubtedly made an impress which will be permanent on the residence finance set-up. Undoubtedly, the long-term amortizing mortgage has now found its rightful place.

"We have made a study of the entire housing situation, which brought out facts that were never known before. Detroit is today facing one of the most acute housing situations it has ever known. The vacancy in housing units today is approximately 2 3-4 per cent, the lowest it has been in many years.

"The building industry is the one industry that will bring back prosperity, and we should do everything possible to encourage the building of homes, as real estate is the basis of all wealth."

LOW COST HOME TO SHOW POSSIBILITY OF GARDEN BEAUTY

In the federal housing administration's technical bulletin No. 4 on principles of planning small homes, house D is another four-room, two-story dwelling similar in accommodations to house C, but with a different arrangement, especially adapted to a lot where the rear yard offers possibilities of development. All the main rooms have garden exposures, and since the back door is on the side there is nothing to break up this development.

More and more the possibilities of the back yard as a living area are being realized, and with the front yard robbed of all peace and quiet by the cacophonous blare of the latest automobile horns, the sanctuary offered by the back yard is a welcome relief.

The front of house D is devoted to those elements that are purely utilitarian: The utility room, the bathroom, and the stairs. Where a cellar is contemplated, the dining area takes the favored position overlooking the garden, and the more prosaic kitchen moves to the front.

The illustration shows the addition of a garage, which is connected to the back door by a covered porch. The garage opens toward the street, requiring a minimum of driveway and adding an additional screen to protect the privacy of the back yard garden area.

The price quoted in the booklet—$1,750 to $2,150—embraces the simplest form of construction, finish and equipment consistent with a sound investment for decent living and does not include the garage. Luxuries may be added to suit the tastes and pocketbook of the individual builder. Too many additions are unwise, if a point is reached in these additions where cost would exceed the resale value, in this case the investment would be unsound.

TWENTY LOW-PRICED HOMES TO BE BUILT

BINGHAMPTON, N. Y.—Convinced that low-priced homes are practical, after a study of the principles of planning small homes as outlined in a recent bulletin of the federal housing administration, Miss M. A. McManus, of this city, is planning to erect 20 houses in a semi-built-up development she owns, to sell for prices ranging from $1,200 to $1,800 complete.

PITTSBURGH'S SPENDING

Home building in Pittsburgh, while showing a substantial improvement over 1935, has not skyrocketed upward as it has in some cities, notably Detroit, Los Angeles, and Philadelphia, but Pittsburgh, it seems, spends its money for other luxuries. The Pittsburgh Press reports that the Allegheny County automobile dealers sold more cars during May than any previous month in history. Not even the lush months of 1929 could match May, 1936. Exactly 7,067 automobiles were sold in the Pittsburgh district by dealers during May. In the same month a year ago they sold just 3,340. This is a gain of 111 per cent. Cincinnati gained 71 per cent over the same period; Philadelphia, 52 per cent; Cleveland, 45 per cent; and Detroit, 38 per cent.

Modernization Of Bath Needs Little Effort To Achieve

There is no room in the house which can be changed from drabness to beauty and charm, and from prosaic utility to inviting usefulness with such ease, satisfaction, and at such a reasonable cost as the bathroom.

With the major part of their efforts during the last three years concentrated on modernization work, plumbing contractors have perfected the technique of bathroom rejuvenation, and work of this type is eligible under the modernization credit plan of the federal housing administration.

Replacement work has been speeded up, and the entire job can be accomplished with little or no inconvenience to family routine. Improved piping materials and fixtures especially adapted for modernization work, as well as more efficient methods of installation, all aid in speeding up the work and reducing the cost.

It is not necessary for the home owner to deal separately with different tradesmen, whose work is involved in bathroom modernization work. Most plumbing dealers and contractors will gladly assume full responsibility for the complete job, including new wall and floor material.

The entire cost of the handsome and colorful new bathroom may then be financed on the monthly payment plan of the modernization credit plan of the federal housing administration.

BIG FRESHMAN CLASS EXPECTED

Scholarships Awarded To 126 To Date By Louisiana Tech

RUSTON, La., June 27.—(Special)—Prospects for a "bumper" crop of freshmen at Louisiana Tech this fall already have become apparent, with the announcement that scholarships have been awarded to date to 126 high school graduates. Since the scholarships will be available until September, the total is expected to soar far above the number of any previous year.

The awards, exempting students from the payment of registration and laboratory fees, are granted annually to a graduate of each state-approved high school in Louisiana ranking in the upper one-fourth of his graduating class. The scholarships are extended through the sophomore, junior and senior years if the recipient maintains a B average.

RENOVATING

"Don't Get Wet"

The old landmark of a house of Laura Lee Bell and Short Pencil Bell at 101 Breard Street is now being renovated and when finished, then comes the House Warming. Everyone invited, including Century Plant customers on the wrong side of my ledger. Preacher to open the ball with prayer; race hoss men and women, chicken fighters, newsboys that wipe their noses on their shirt sleeves—all of my friends and acquaintances of whatever description are welcome.

When a fellow is celebrating his 101 birthday by getting married he can't help but feel mellow, let the bars down and let the whole world know that to be satisfied and have a good appetite is just about the whole works. All you have to do is bring your dog and wear a green necktie.

The reason I did not join the K. K. Klan is because I am one of the best looking men in town and did not want to promenade the streets with a pillow case over my head, so the ladies could not look me over.

All ministers of the Gospel, their wives, doctors, nurses and all whose vocation in life is to help keep the spark of hope and love alive in the breast of unfortunate humanity are more than welcome at our house warming.

See me about up-to-the-minute ideas as to ventilating and air conditioning buildings, sheet metal awnings that never rot out, canopies for kitchen stoves, nickel-plated sink and sideboard trimmings. Roof materials for sale and applied. Galvanized iron water tanks delivered anywhere. Cortright metal shingles last a lifetime. Any and all sheet metal work—auto radiator, body and fender repairs. Cortright metal shingles, built-uproofing, Barrett's specification and others.

Short Pencil's home-pathic; home guard, built up roofs. Drive north then south on Walnut Street; cast your glimmers on my "Short Pencil Bell" electric sign. Hi! Some pep, some pride, I'll say at 101 years young.

Yours truly,
J. G. (Short Pencil) BELL.

GUARDS RESCUED AND DISARMED IN KENT RIOT

Rushing company guards from the besieged Black and Decker Tool company in Kent, Ohio, Police Chief St. Clair West is shown left speeding fugitives into the city jail, where they were protected from an enraged crowd of strikers. Forty-one guards were removed from the plant, after a bullet and gas battle in which nearly a score were wounded. The clash climaxed the strike of machinists for wage adjustments. The guards were well armed, as is proved by the armful of shotguns and gas guns which Patrolman W. C. Barr is holding in the picture at [illegible]

CHAPTER VII

At Camilla's exclamation of Rosita's name, Phil looked puzzled, and Bob gave a long, low whistle.

"Rosita, of course!" he said. "It all fits in, But why in the world should Rosita come for Marcia?"

"That would be interesting to find out," Camilla said. "Let's get a taxicab and go to Zeni's."

They did. Rosita was not there.

"Her night off," someone explained.

"Where does she live?" Bob asked.

"That, monsieur, nobody knows," the man answered, with a careless shrug which indicated that one did not reveal addresses. Bob's hand went into his pocket. The man hesitated, then murmured an address on the Left Bank. He took the bill, bowed, and walked away.

"Wrong address, I'll bet," Phil murmured. "But come on."

They did. The cab drew up in front of an old, low house, and a tottering old lady with frizzled gray curls opened the door.

"Rosita?" she repeated. "Oh, yes, Rosita! She lives here, but she is not here tonight. She is away for the day and night."

"Could you tell us where she is?" Bob asked.

"That I cannot say. She left no address. I'm so sorry."

"Mind if we stick around until she comes back," Phil asked.

"But I said that she will not be home tonight!"

"Yes, we heard you, but it so happens that I think she will." His chin was stubborn and his gray eyes were narrowed.

"Surely, then. Stay as long as you please."

She opened the door and led them into a dusty, airless room. In half an hour, Phil stood up.

"I'm afraid she wins. What about getting the gendarmes?"

"A good idea," Bob agreed. "I don't trust Rosita."

Marcia, in the meantime, had been surprised when Rosita's dark face with its lacquered wings of hair had suddenly appeared in front of her.

"Miss Cunningham, I should so like to see you," she said. "It is about Mr. Haskell."

"I'm sorry—that matter concerns you and Mr. Haskell, only." She tried to pass.

"Oh, no, no! Mr. Haskell is in trouble. He needs you. Please—"

"In trouble. Where?"

"The jail. It seems that there was a fight and bail was needed and—I came for you when I heard."

There had been so many times when Marcia had come to Bob's aid that instinctively she listened to Rosita. More than once he had found that he did not have money enough to meet a check.

Now, a little hesitantly, she turned and followed Rosita. The French girl summoned a cab and they started through the twilight.

"Robert is so careless," the French girl said.

Marcia did not answer.

"And such a warm heart," she continued. "He loves you. I think. Yes, I think he loves you very much. But he loves others. He would forget."

"Why should he forget?" Marcia asked then.

Rosita shrugged her black-clad shoulders. "Oh—if something should happen to make him very displeased with you. You love him, I think."

To this assertion Marcia turned a quiet, disinterested face.

"This is it." Rosita paid the driver and started to a gray door.

"This? The jail?" But perhaps it was. Marcia remembered that she never had seen the French jails.

They entered a long room. Dim music came from somewhere and there were small tables with shaded lights. The ceilings were high and the rooms smelled musty.

"The jail?" Marcia asked, fearful suddenly.

"Oh, but we are not going to the jail. We are going to wait here for Robert. Come!"

"No, thank you—"

"I think it would be wise. Still, if you are afraid—" She turned to the doorman. "Andre, the lady is leaving." The man bowed and opened the door.

Seeing the street so near, Marcia changed her mind. After all, she could leave any minute. She sat down and ordered a pot of tea with cream.

When a tall young man came to the table she was not surprised. She had half-expected to find Pierre somewhere near Rosita. She spoke coolly. The memory of his mouth on her own repelled any friendliness that might have started because half a dozen young people were in Paris in the late, warm spring. She disliked his hair, his eyes, his hands, all of him, anyway, she reminded herself. Ugh!

When he had sat down, he smiled.

"You might like to see a little memento of our first meeting."

"A memento?"

The silly fool might have saved a flower from her corsage, or something, thinking it would enchant her. "What about Robert Haskell?" she asked.

"Mr. Haskell? Oh, he is probably having tea somewhere. Somewhere, wondering where you are."

"The French jails serve tea? How very considerate. And maybe they have little cakes and sandwiches, too." Her anger was mounting. She had let herself be duped by Rosita. Rosita, reading character, had known that Bob would be the type of man to get himself into trouble, innocently enough, and had used it as an ace card.

"This will interest you." Pierre put a photograph before her.

White with anger, Marcia gazed at it. There was no mistaking the two people in it. She was the girl and the man whose arms held her was Pierre.

"That picture without this is no good." Pierre talked on in a slippery voice that gave the impression of having been rubbed in oil. "And this one, which I shall show presently to Mademoiselle has need of the first one to establish the young lady's identity. See!"

He placed a second photograph on the table. The two people were the same. You could tell the girl by her clothes, and her hair and her profile. The man was implanting a kiss on her mouth.

"You—you . . ." She would have torn the pictures in two, but remembered, in time, that Pierre had the negatives.

"The likeness is splendid, don't you think?" Rosita murmured.

"What do you want?" Marcia asked.

"Fifty thousand francs," they answered together.

"And if I won't—"

"Every newspaper in America—in your New York—will have these pictures. Every one will know that you and Pierre were—sweethearts."

"You—" Her words choked in her throat.

"Well?" A soft, sliding word.

Marcia stood up and walked to the door. The doorman bowed and opened it. She stepped into the street.

From behind her came a low voice. "You have until tomorrow night at 7, Mademoiselle. And then—"

Marcia did not go home. She went alone to a little restaurant to drink more tea and think. It was preposterous. That snickering gigolo had made himself obnoxious and was seeking a reward. She would have him arrested. At once.

She went to police headquarters and eventually found an officer who would listen to her.

"But you are in the picture, you and this man?" he asked.

She nodded.

"And he kissed you?"

"Yes, he did, but—"

"Then he has the evidence. How do I know that you aren't lying—" The officer intended to go more directly to the heart of the matter, but Marcia did not know that. She got up and hurried from the room. She had to consult somebody. Anybody. Bob wouldn't know what to do. Bob, indirectly, had got her into this. Got her into it merely by being the irresponsible person he was. But Phil—

She would go to him.

BASEBALL BATS TO BE MANUFACTURED

JONESVILLE, La., June 27.—(Special)—According to A. M. Webber, manager and owner of the A. M. Webber Stave company of Jonesville, he has just closed a deal with the Louisiana Wood Work company to furnish the latter firm with a mill site adjoining his properties on the bank of Little river, for the immediate erection of manufacturing plant which will make baseball bats to be shipped in carload quanities.

J. C. Elgin, who has been in Jonesville for the past week in the interests of his company, stated that the plant is not to be confused with the fly-by night "plants that manufacture only blanks," as his company contemplates the erection of a modern wood working plant that will turn out the finished product from the raw timber.

Mr. Elgin, who will have charge of the erection and the operation of the plant, said also that the plant when completed will furnish a payroll including both bill and woods crews of approximately $1,000 a week and that the bulk of the timber used would be "bitter pecan," which heretofore has been of little value to lumber users. There is much of this timber in this section and, according to Mr. Webber, who has been instrumental in getting the company to locate in Jonesville, timber holdings of the A. M. Webber Stave company are being transferred to the new company in sufficient quantities to afford several years cutting to the new plant. Work on the new mill will start immediately and operation is expected to start within the next few weeks.

These Beautiful New Monroe Homes Designed And Constructed by Local Monroe Craftsmen

GEORGIAN STYLED HOME CHOICE OF FHA FOR $2,500

Booklet Shows Six-Room House Planned For Low-Cost Production

In the federal housing administration's Technical Bulletin No. 4, on Principles of Planning Small Homes, House E illustrates a solution for a family requiring a house with three bedrooms. It is almost a cube for economy's sake, but the simple, dignified treatment of the exterior in the semiformal town type of colonial found in many New England and New York towns and villages enhances this cubic design. The low-pitched roof, with the gable ends treated as pediments, with simple, stock half-circle windows, is economical and logical; it provides air space over the second floor that can be ventilated and wastes little cubage.

The plan provides all the space and equipment necessary for comfortable living in as small an area as possible, with the economies of construction constantly in mind. Simple framing, spans that take stock lengths of lumber, concentrated plumbing, simple stairs, a careful avoidance of unnecessary corners, both inside and out, and regularly spaced openings all make the building operation a simple one.

The use of platform construction instead of the customary foundation walls and cellar, suggested in the descriptive specifications for houses in the bulletin, is interesting and a distinct departure from usual methods. Its use is made possible by modern heating systems that operate satisfactorily with the heating unit on the first floor, which eliminates the need of cellar or even an air space under the first floor. This house can be built on such a platform or on walls with or without a cellar.

MORTGAGES SHOW NEW RECORD FOR BUYING OF HOMES

FHA Administrator's Prediction Is Substantiated By Statistics

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Mortgages selected for appraisal by various insuring offices throughout the country average more than $1,500,000 a day for each workday, according to reports reaching the Federal Housing administration, substantiating the predictions of Housing Administrator Stewart McDonald that 1936 would be a banner year for home building.

A further evidence of the trend of the home building and buying field is shown in the fact that during the first nine days of June mortgages accepted for insurance by the Housing administration totaled $14,285,387. This figure includes money insured for both new construction, buying of new homes and the refinancing of existing mortgages.

Through June 9 the total business transacted through the Federal Housing administration, including repairs, refinancing and new construction, was over $850,000,000, indicating that the billion-dollar mark will probably be passed in August. Large-scale housing mortgages accepted for insurance now total $33,452,158.

All of this money represents private capital. Funds are advanced by private financial institutions, and the mortgages are insured against loss by the Housing administration.

MORTGAGE PLAN'S SAFETY PRAISED

Underwriters Cites Rarity Of Defaults In Federal Housing Program

NEWARK, N. J.—The soundness of the Federal Housing administration's single-mortgage system is indicated by a report to the state director here. According to the chief underwriter for New Jersey:

"It is a matter of pride to the mortgage risk department that to date there have been but six cases defaulted in monthly payments, which represents one-twentieth of 1 per cent of the number of cases on which insurance has been passed on loans granted.

"Statistics of the mortgage companies of this country show that 5 per cent of their mortgages have gone to foreclosure annually. All of this is indeed proof that the system in use by the Federal Housing administration is proving its efficiency and perfection.

"Originally 20 cases were in default. This number has been reduced to six through the efforts of the mortgage risk department. None of these are more than three months behind, and we do not feel that any of them will be finally lost.

"It has been particularly noticeable," he stated "that we are having a decreasing amount of trouble with new construction, inasmuch as the contractors have followed our suggestion and have brought their construction up to what we consider a standard type.

"Specifically, framing is better; contractors have begun to use deeper beams, which make a much more rigid house. Brick work used for veneer has been done in accordance with our instructions and gives a much more satisfactory and durable job. Formerly too little mortar was being used and, consequently, wasn't being tied into the frame."

FHA INSPECTION SAVES BUILDER $900

RENO, Nev.—The architectural inspection service of the local federal housing administration office was instrumental in saving $900 for a prospective home builder here.

One particular application was studied by the architectural section, and the cost of construction was estimated to be $6,300. The applicant said the lowest bid he could obtain was $7,000. The architectural section investigated the matter, discussed it with numerous contractors, which resulted in a new low bid amounting to $6,100.

New Type Shower Head Proves To Be Money Saver

A money-saving modernization idea is the installation of the water-saving type of showerhead recently developed by a number of manufacturers of plumbing goods.

The new showerhead is a midget only about two inches in diameter. It uses from 25 to 50 per cent less water than the old-fashioned large-diameter heads. The decreased consumption of water results in a corresponding decrease in the cost of fuel for heating the water.

Another important feature of the new head is that it is practically nonclogging.

The many advantages of the new type of showerhead, practically its economy features, recommend it for installation in hotels, clubs, ap ments, schools, and gyms, as wel the private residence.

Plumbing installations may be nanced under the terms of the M ernization Credit Plan of the Fed Housing administration.

NINE OIL WELLS ARE COMPLETED

Six Of Gushers In South Louisiana And Rest In Rodessa District

NEW ORLEANS, June 27.—(AP)—The state conservation department announced here today that nine new oil wells were completed in Louisiana during the week ended Friday. Six of the gushers were in south Louisiana and the remaining in Caddo parish's Rodessa field.

A total of 25 drilling permits was issued by the department. The number of permits, most of which were for operations in north Louisiana, was a sharp increase as compared with the previous three weeks.

The field, location, name of producing company and the initial daily production of each follow in order:

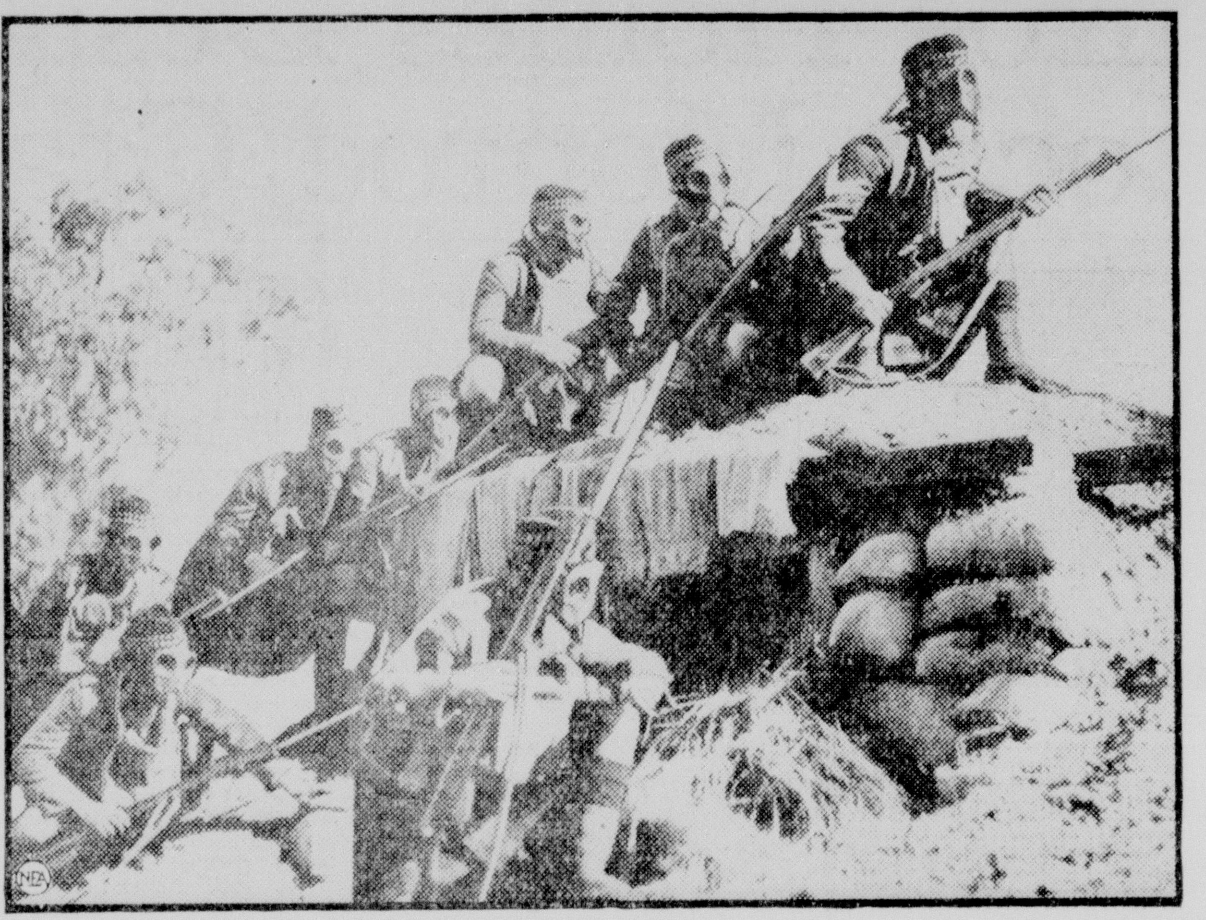
Basile in Acadia parish, Continental Oil company, 584.28 barrels; Caillou Island in Terrebonne parish, Texas company, 1,606 barrels; English bayou in Calcasieu parish, R. Dobbs, et al, 500 barrels; Iberia in Iberia parish, William Helis, 480.60 barrels; Jeanerette in St. Mary parish, Herton Oil company, two wells, 770.40 and 417.30 barrels, respectively; Rodessa, R. W. Norton, 504 barrels; Rodessa, United Gas Public Service, 384 barrels.

The department's minerals division announced that the daily crude oil estimated production in the Louisiana gulf coast region for the week ended June 20 was 145,637 barrels. This compared with 145,637 barrels the previous week.

The following permits for drilling were issued:

Premier Investment in Bossier parish, seven permits; W. D. Ambrose in Caddo parish, two; Calatex Oil and Gas company, in Caddo, one; H. Meyers in Caddo, one; R. W. Norton in Caddo, three; H. W. Snowden in Caddo, one; Standard Oil company of Louisiana and Gulf Refining company (jointly) two; G. W. Zeigin, in Caldwell, one; Standard Oil and Gas company in Cameron parish (renewal) one; Sutton Oil company, Inc., in Cameron parish, one; Jefferson Lake Oil company in Iberia parish, one; Interstate Natural Gas company in Ouachita parish, one; Federal Petroleum company in Union parish, two, and J. P. Evans, in Webster parish, one.

IT'S GRIM GAME AS AUSTRALIA ARMS



Proof that the shadow of war has spread to farthest corners of the world, even "down under" in Australia, is this grim scene, taken during maneuvers at Seymour, Victoria. In all branches of the armed forces there is a bustle of activity as Australia rushes to completion her $100,000,000 defense program, for which a fear of Japanese aggression is believed responsible. With skull-like gas masks contrasting grotesquely with their kilts and gay, plaid-lined service caps, members of the Victorian Scottish regiment are shown gripping their bayoneted rifles, awaiting the order to attack.

CHURCHES

METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH
Stone Avenue and South Third Street
I. L. Yeager, Pastor

Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. Morning worship at 11 o'clock. Christian Endeavor at 6:45 p.m., Mrs. M. B. Hearne, leader. Evening service at 7:45. Woman's Missionary auxiliary meeting at the church Tuesday afternoon at 2:30, Mrs. John Zufall, president. Choir practice Tuesday evening at 7:45. Midweek prayer service Thursday evening at 7:45, Mrs. Leora Johnston, leader of meeting.

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH
Corner Oak and St. John Streets
Rev. Crayton S. Brooks, Pastor

Church school at 9:45 a.m. Members urged to be present and visitors invited. There will be preaching and communion at 11 a.m. Dr. Brooks will be in the pulpit with a great inspiring message. He will be back from Oklahoma, where he held a two-week revival. Christian Endeavor at 6:45 p.m. Preaching service at 8 p.m., with Dr. Brooks bringing the message.

M'CLENDON BAPTIST CHURCH
Old Natchitoches Road
W. E. James, Pastor

During the past two weeks, the church has been undergoing a great revival. Rev. A. H. Johnson, pastor of the Immanuel Baptist church of West Monroe, has been bringing the messages, which have been of inestimable help to the church as a whole and to the saving of souls. Saturday evening being the last of Rev. Johnson's series of services, the pastor will close the meeting with three services Sunday. Following the Sunday school hour, which begins at 10 a.m., with O. E. Pettit, superintendent, the pastor's subject will be "The Mystery of the Church." Every member is earnestly invited to attend, as this will be entirely in line with the messages that have gone before in the meeting. At the Immanuel Baptist church, the pastor will bring a message just prior to conferring the ordinance of baptism on the candidates, and the subject of the message will be "Why Baptiseth Thou?" This message should be of interest to every one, and the public is invited to attend this hour of study and worship, which will begin at 3 p.m. Then following the B. T. U., which begins at 7 p.m.; the pastor will bring the last message of the meeting, and the last of his pastorate over the McClendon Baptist church, and the subject of the message will be "The Last Supper." Following the evening service, the Lord's supper will be observed. Everyone is requested to attend the services of the day.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH
St. John and Grammont Streets
L. T. Hastings, Pastor
D. C. Black, Director of Education and Music

The revival services under the direction of the pastor and Mr. Black during the past week have been well attended and the interest has been quite encouraging. Let us gird ourselves for the next week of the meeting and give the very best we have. The purpose of these services primarily is to "Deepen the Spiritual Life of the Church." At the morning hour the pastor will speak on "A Great Gospel for Great Sinners," based on the text, I Tim. 1:15-17. Special music by the large chorus choir under Mr. Black's direction, with Mrs. G. C. Cornett at the piano. At the evening hour, the pastor will bring a message on "Cords and Cart-ropes," based on the text, "Woe unto them that draw iniquity with cords of vanity, and sin as it were with a cart-rope." Isaiah 5:18. Mr. Evans George, director of the B. T. U., desires a full attendance at 6:30 p.m. Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. Next week at the evening services, the pastor will bring messages on "Ancient Prophecies Now Fulfilling Before Our Very Eyes." These messages are calculated to strengthen our faith in God's guiding hand through all this present maze of uncertainty. The public is cordially invited to all services, which are held in the large cool auditorium.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
Grammont at Catalpa
Ernest Holloway, Pastor

At the Sunday school hour, Mrs. Cochrane, a home missionary, will speak. The classes will adjourn to the auditorium that she may be heard. She comes in the interest of the program of the assembly. Will you hear her? Among the characters of the Bible, David is most interesting. His lot was not always pleasant. Constantly harassed by enemies without and within, he reached the end of his pilgrimage one of the choicest of men. He never lost his bearing; and the greater his tribulations, the more marked his poise. 1 Samuel 30:6 reveals the principle upon which he builded. Scripture is explicit. This is the statement: "And David strengthened himself in Jehovah, his God." To it we shall turn our thoughts this Sabbath morning. And at the evening hour, since Genesis is the book we are studying, Isaac is our character study. He is a lesser type, not outstanding and marked as Abraham, Jacob and Joseph. He had a part to play in the Divine plan. From his record, much has been preserved which will profit us of this era. The door of our church is open to you. Will you worship with us this Lord's day?

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST
Corner Auburn Avenue and North Second Street

Sunday services 11 a.m., Sunday school 9:30 a.m., Wednesday evening testimony meetings 8 o'clock. Reading room, 1108 Ouachita National Bank building, open daily, except Sunday and holidays, 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. The public is welcome to all services and the use of the reading room. "Christian Science" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, June 28, 1936. Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Then said Jesus to those Jews which believed on him, If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed; And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." (John 8). The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The principle of divine metaphysics is God; the practice of divine metaphysics is the utilization of the power of truth over error; its rules demonstrate its Science." (p. 111).

GORDON AVENUE METHODIST CHURCH
S. S. Holladay, Pastor

Church school 9:45 a.m., R. H. Gozo, general superintendent. Classes for all. Morning worship at 11 o'clock. Young people's services, both intermediate and senior leagues, at 7:15 p.m. Night service at 8 o'clock. Prayer meeting and choir practice Wednesday night at 8 o'clock. We were gratified with the attendance at prayer meeting this week and urge you to put forth an extra effort to attend divine services during these hot days.

CENTRAL BAPTIST CHURCH
3400 Lee Avenue
D. D. Cantrell, Pastor

Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. Sunday's lesson will be a review of the past quarter's work. B. T. U. at 7 p.m. The session will last only 45 minutes. Our plan is to make all services briefer as an attendance stimulant. At the morning service, the Lord's Supper will be commemorated. All church members are expected to be present. The pastor will speak Sunday night on "The Reward of the Fellow Who Does What He Can." This service will be dedicated especially to young people. After a two week's series of successful revival services, adding 30 members to the church, we anticipate an increase in attendance and interest. The public is invited to worship with us.

GRACE CHURCH
Fourth and Glenmar Streets
Edward Farren Hayward, Rector

Services for the third Sunday after Trinity are as follows: The Holy Eucharist will be celebrated at 7:30 a.m. Children's service and church school at 9:30 a.m. Morning service and sermon at 11 o'clock. Monday, June 29, is St. Peter's day. He was an apostle and a martyr. The Holy Eucharist will be celebrated at 7:30 a.m. The third Sunday after Trinity gives us the beautiful parable of the lost sheep and reveals the keen interest felt by God and the holy angels in the children of men. When the Good Shepherd finds the sheep that was lost and brings it home rejoicing, the joy fills the courts of heaven. The self-righteous 90 and 9, respectable Christians who do not want God and make excuses for not accepting His invitations and offers of friendship and aid, who need no repentance, are self satisfied, bring no joy to heaven. Knowlledge of God and self-knowledge will cure self-righteousness and produce humility. St. Peter knew this. The epistle is his. The church is open daily from 7:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Come in, rest and pray.

FIRST METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH
W. C. Scott, Pastor

Services are held at 11 a.m. and 8 p.m. on Sundays. The pastor will occupy the pulpit at both services Sunday. At the morning hour, the subject will be "Refreshing Springs." Evening services are being held at 8 p.m. during the summer months. Come and worship with us. Church school begins promptly at 9:30 a.m., in the children's division, and 9:45 a.m., in all other departments. Epworth league meets at 7 p.m. in the church annex each Sunday. The Woman's Missionary society will not have a regular meeting on Tuesday, but all members are urged to attend a zone meeting to be held in Mer Rouge on that date at 2:30 p.m.

Gly-Cas Gave Her Complete Recovery; All Else Failed

Mrs. Atkins Endured Terrific Headaches For Years, Had Indigestion Until She Was Afraid To Eat; Gly-Cas' Action Amazes.

If there are any men or women of Monroe and vicinity who still have any doubt whatever of the merit of this new Gly-Cas they should talk with Mrs. G. C. Atkins, 404 South Third street, Monroe, a highly respected housewife of this community.

MRS. G. C. ATKINS

Read what she said recently lauding the action of this new vegetable medical discovery in a statement reaching the Phoenix Drug Co., 348 DeSiard street, this city:

"Gly-Cas wasted no time in eliminating the poisons from my system and putting me on the road to complete recovery," said Mrs. Atkins. "For a long time I had suffered terrifically with severe headaches, neuralgia and attacks of indigestion. I was really afraid to eat knowing the discomfort and misery it would be sure to cause me afterwards. For my meals always were followed by these awful attacks. I became very high strung, nervous and found it difficult to get any rest at night. As time went on I grew worse, seemed to lose what little energy I had and felt so miserable I lost all interest in everything it seemed. As seemingly everything failed in my case I became discouraged and it was not until I was persuaded to try this new Gly-Cas that I found how wonderful a really good medicine could be."

"The cost of Gly-Cas was so little and I had so much to gain through its use I felt as if I had everything to gain and nothing to lose," continued Mrs. Atkins. "From the very first this new Gly-Cas showed me wonderful results. Those dreadful headaches have been relieved now, stomach again functioning properly and even those awful neuralgia pains have been taken from my body. Little did I realize any medicine could give such amazing results and I think every sufferer should learn of this new remedy for it is the first medicine I have ever found that did not disappoint me with its results."

Gly-Cas is sold by Phoenix Drug Co., 348 DeSiard street, Monroe, and by leading druggists in surrounding towns. (Adv.)

PICNIC HELD BY LIBERTY CLUB

Members Of Monroe Kiwanis Club Guests; More Than 100 Persons Present

Over 100 persons attended the annual celebration of "achievement day," sponsored by the Liberty Community club Friday night. Members of the Monroe Kiwanis club were special guests at a picnic held at the Liberty church 12 miles west of the city.

A feature of the meeting was a discussion of plans for the development of better orchards by Mrs. R. C. Camp, president of the Liberty Home Demonstration club. Demonstration orchards are located on the farms of Arthur Lowery, J. S. Sims and R. C. Camp, and every member of the club has planted some kind of fruit or nut tree on his place. It was announced that every variety of fruit for domestic use possible to be grown in Louisiana is being produced in the neighborhood.

Mrs. J. S. Sims, garden leader of the club, discussed the flower and vegetable show held in Monroe June 6 and 7, sponsored by the Kiwanis club. The Liberty club was awarded first place for having the best booth on exhibit, and fourth place for having the highest number of points.

Fred Williamson, representing the Monroe Kiwanis club, gave a brief talk on the importance of promoting fellowship between rural and town communities. Mr. Williamson pointed out the impossibility of one community trying to exist without the other.

Mary Ella Sims, who won the canning contest sponsored by the Kiwanis club at the Ouachita Valley fair last October, was introduced at the meeting by Mrs. Jewel McQuiller, demonstration agent for Ouachita parish. Miss Sims was awarded a free trip to the annual short course at Louisiana State university next month. According to Mrs. McQuiller, Miss Sims will enter the poultry-judging and canning contests at the short course, though she will not officially represent the parish, it was stated. Elimination contests throughout the parish are now being held, and the five high-scoring girls will compete on July 14 in Monroe to determine who will represent the parish.

The Calhoun 4-H club girls met Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. D. Hale, where club demonstrations in various projects were held. An achievement program was held Saturday night by the Eureka home demonstration club, eight miles north of Calhoun, at the home of Mrs. L. D. Willis. This meeting was similar to the one held at the Liberty church Friday night, Mrs. McQuiller announced.

4-H club members who are interested in going to the annual club encampment near Sicily Island are requested to meet at the Ouachita parish court house Monday morning at 8 o'clock, Mrs. McQuiller stated. Members will be transported to the camp via special bus, and the encampment will continue through Friday, July 3.

INVENTORS CALL SLOTTED WING PLANE SPIN-PROOF

METHODIST CHURCH TO HOLD SCHOOL JULY 6

A church school will be started July 6 at the First Methodist church of West Monroe. With classes conducted daily, except Saturdays and Sundays, it will continue for two weeks. Mrs. J. W. Golson will be the general superintendent.

Department heads will be Miss Aimee Cook, intermediates; Mrs. King Hunt, juniors; and Miss Kate Henry, primaries.

The daily program will consist of Bible instruction, story telling, scrapbook making and handicraft.

The school will be open to children of any denomination from 6 to 14 years old.

MASONIC EMBLEM FOUND AT CALHOUN

A bronze medal issued by the Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons of Louisiana on the centennial anniversary of the organization in 1932, and which would, no doubt, be a treasured souvenir of a Mason or medal collector, was found during the past week by H. E. Mills, father of Congressman-elect Newt V. Mills, two miles west of Calhoun station.

The medal was in a bad state of corosion when found, but Mr. Mills has cleaned it and it was in good shape when he exhibited it at the office of his son on the third floor of the Ouachita National bank building, where it is now on display.

One side of the medal, which was as big as a silver dollar, bore the emblem of the organization and the name of lodge and the occasion for the issuing of the medal, while the other side bore the pictures of P. Francois Dubourg, grand master of the fraternity, in 1812, and of John Stanley Thibaut, who was grand master at the time of the centennial celebration in 1912.

NEWS OF DAY AT CHRYSLER EXHIBIT

Plymouth Manufacturer Presents Unique Program At Texas Exposition

Animated news of the day, and an electric catalog of highspot events for the convenience of visitors, will be important features of the Chrysler corporation exhibit at the Texas centennial exposition in Dallas.

At the Chrysler Motors hall of celebrities, a specially constructed theater seating 250 persons, specially created marionettes will enact, in march-of-time fashion, the roles of personalities in the day's news.

Notables of each day's exposition visitor list will be presented in puppet casts made up from day to day. The hall of celebrities also is equipped for regular showings of sound pictures.

Sue Hastings is director of the marionettes. Formerly associated with Tony Sarg for many years, her current events idea of puppet shows adds a new flavor to the popular repertory of the performing dolls. Miss Hastings won national recognition for her work in this field, when she was named as one of the 24 outstanding women of today in the annual selection by business and professional women of America.

For the convenience of visitors at the Chrysler Motors exhibit, a foot-high translux electric ribbon over one of the main entrances to the display salon will carry a constant, running news report of the exposition's day, listing the principal special events on each day's calendar.

The Chrysler corporation exhibit occupies an entire wing of the huge Transportation building, at the end directly facing the court of honor and the Texas hall of state, which is the central point of the $25,000,000 exposition.

This entire wing of the Transportation building, with three entrances leading from the esplanade of state, is Chrysler Motors hall. Its interior is richly decorated to provide a jewel box setting for the products of all divisions of the company.

In addition to the indoor display, landscaped gardens include space for a shady lawn theater, seating 1,200 persons. This theater is equipped with a concert stage to accommodate orchestras and bands up to 75 pieces. The outdoor theater is formed in the L where Chrysler Motors hall wings off the railroad section of the Transportation building, and it augments the auditorium facilities of the movie-marionette theater known as the hall of celebrities. Total area of the combined space is 48,200 square feet.

A giant air-conditioning system has been installed by Airtemp, Inc., subsidiary of the Chrysler corporation, for the comfort of exposition visitors. The equipment is set up behind walls of glass so the actual process of temperature control may be watched.

The many products of the company are represented by Chrysler, Plymouth and De Soto automobiles; Dodge passenger cars and trucks; marine engines, industrial engines and displays of the automotive parts and accessory division. All the products are arranged in a colorful design conforming with the central decoration scheme of a magnificent jewel box.

The brilliant, striking effect of the jewel box motif is consistently carried out throughout the display salon. The walls are of silver tile from the floor to eye level, and rising above this they are sea-blue mirrors, with panels at each corner, set with silver stars. Giant blue-bonnets rear in clusters from massive inverted pyramid vases of green opaque glass. Gray rubberized tile is used for flooring, with the color shading into blue around the borders.

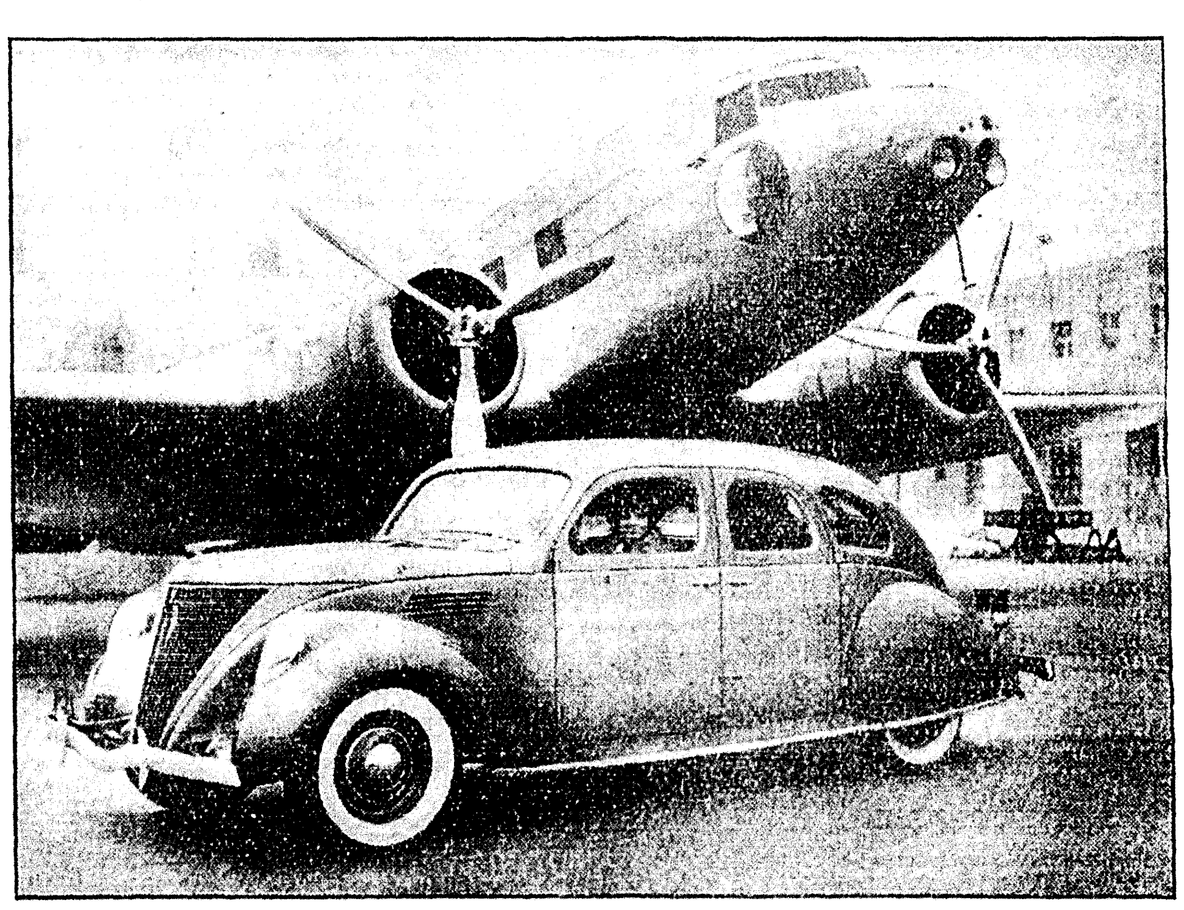
Special lighting is a feature of the jewel box design. Opalescent light troughs glow, but their structure conceals the glare of powerful lamps used for indirect illumination. Pinpoint shafts of light from hidden sources are concentrated on each Chrysler Motors product, causing the automobiles to stand out in sharp relief against the soft, cool depths of the vaulted salon.

Just inside an entrance from the epslanade is a ceiling-high map of the United States, with colored lights marking the location of Plymouth, De Soto, Dodge and Chrysler dealers throughout the country. In front of the map are teletype machines and operators, to demonstrate how a visitor can buy a car at the exposition with his old one back home being taken in trade by means of telegraphed appraisal.

An electric Hammond organ has been installed in the display salon, and regular concerts will be given by Merle Clark, organist from the Michigan theater, Detroit. A luxuriously appointed balcony has been set aside for use as clubrooms for women.

Information booths are located convenient to every door, and comfortable lounges are provided as convenient meetings places for friends at the exposition, and an oases of comfort and rest for tourists and visitors.

LINCOLN-ZEPHYR KIN TO AIR TRANSPORT



The Lincoln-Zephyr, the Ford Motor Company's latest development in aero dynamic body design, was snapped in New Orleans at the great Shushan Airport. This picture shows the similarity between the new automobile body designs and the design of the airplane cabin and fuselage. The new Lincoln-Zephyr appears in perfect harmony alongside of the huge air transport.

DIXIE SANDWICH SHOP COOL PLACE

Variety Of Sandwiches And Lunches Served In Comfortable Surroundings

The good old summertime is pleasant enough when you're comfortable, but sometimes it's hard to find a cool spot to eat. The Dixie Sandwich shop has solved that problem. Since the temperature is high and going higher, it's well to form the habit of dropping by the Dixie for a cool, comfortable place to get a delicious sandwich or lunch, or something to drink.

The Dixie Sandwich shop, which is located at 407 Walnut street, has recently installed a cooling system that really makes the place a deightful setting for a meal. The shop also has been redecorated inside and out, and it now presents a most attractive appearance.

You will find private booths inside the Dixie, or you may drive in and have your order served to you while you sit in your car. The Dixie prides itself on their cold plate lunches, which offer a variet of selections. Or you may prefer the Dixie's specialty, a fried chicken dinner. Or maybe one of those famous Tom's double deck hamburgers will hit the spot. These are proving popular for picnic lunches and the Dixie will have them ready for your picnic if you'll phone in your order. Barbecue sandwiches and other picnic specialties also are available at the Dixie.

This is one of the oldest sandwich shops in Monroe and has established an enviable reputation for the quality of its lunches, sandwiches, etc. The management is ever anxious to maintain the standard they have set in the past and those who haven't patronized the place in the past may be assured of most satisfactory service. There is plenty of parking space for curb service and enough waitresses are employed to assure you of quick service. And best of all, the prices are most reasonable.

Drop by the Dixie Sandwich shop at 407 Walnut for your lunch. Or phone 9211 and they'll have everything ready for you when you want it. Once you've tried eating the Dixie way, you'll become a regular customer.

PERSONAL SERVICE AT STOUGH'S BAR

Fine Stock Of Liquors Available At Popular Monroe Hotel Place

Personal operation of a business makes it popular with the people who patronize it, Harry Stough, owner and operator of Stough's bar, believes. The establishment is located in Hotel Monroe, and is one of the most up to date of any in the city. It has always been Mr. Stough's policy to have the friendliest place in town, and he has tried to make his business such by personally catering to his many customers.

Besides a friendly atmosphere, quality products are always on hand to make the best mixed drinks in town. Experts in this line have been employed by Mr. Stough to serve the large number of customers who frequent his place of business.

Package goods consisting of all the well known brands of wines and liquors are sold at the local establishment, and popular prices prevail on this merchandise. Beer in cans has proved its popularity since Mr. Stough first offered it for sale some months ago, and it still continues to be in great demand. It is the famous Pabst Export which is brewed in Milwaukee.

Attractive fixtures at Stough's have added to the appearance of the place, the bar has 27 feet of space in all. Seats are conveniently placed around the entire bar space.

Mr. Stough extends an invitation to visit his bar at any time where service and quality products are outstanding.

These Beautiful New Monroe Homes Designed And Constructed by Local Monroe Craftsmen

WORK IS STARTED ON 2 NEW HOMES

Contracts To Be Let Soon For Building Other Residences Here

Construction of only two residences, at modest costs, was started here during the past week, but increasing preparations were underway for the building of additional homes.

L. D. Davis, contractor, began construction of a one-story five-room frame residence for Earl Harvey at the corner of Harrison street and Smith avenue, in Sherrouse addition. The home will cost approximately $2,100.

Ellis and Coleman, contractors, began construction of a two-story garage apartment building for R. L. Prophit at the corner of North Fourth and K streets. The building will cost $1,600.

Contracts for building several private plan jobs and several architects' plan jobs are expected to be let within the next several days. One or more FHA jobs also are expected to be let soon. Bids had been received yesterday for the construction of one substantial residence project, but the successful bidder and the contract price had not been announced.

While a number of war veterans have indicated that they intend to purchase a residence lot with their bonus money and build a home later, there are some who already own a lot and who intend to build a home, and others who have sufficient bonus money due them to finance the contemplated projects of buying both a home and lot on the time-payment plan.

Still other veterans, who have experience with tools, plan to purchase building materials and build, themselves, a several-room house, with the intention of adding other rooms later.

ESTATE RENOVATED UNDER FHA PROGRAM

CLEVELAND, Ohio.—A private estate, consisting of 34 single and two-family houses, is being completely modernized by the owner. The renovations are being financed under the modernization credit plan of the federal housing administration, local financial institutions having extended $42,000 for the work. The maximum modernization loan for any one residential property is $2,000, but each of the 34 houses is a separate property.

EXPERT FORSEES BUILDING UPTURN

Indications That Construction Will Be Doubled In Detroit Area

DETROIT, Mich.—Present indications are that residential building in Detroit will double during 1936, according to Mason P. Rumney, president of the Builders' and Traders' exchange here.

"One influence," he said, "cannot be avoided in a discussion of building activity, namely, the work of the federal housing administration, which has undoubtedly made an impress which will be permanent on the residence finance set-up. Undoubtedly, the long-term amortizing mortgage has now found its rightful place.

"We have made a study of the entire housing situation, which brought out facts that were never known before. Detroit is today facing one of the most acute housing situations it has ever known. The vacancy in housing units today is approximately 2 3-4 per cent, the lowest it has been in many years.

"The building industry is the one industry that will bring back prosperity, and we should do everything possible to encourage the building of homes, as real estate is the basis of all wealth."

LOW COST HOME TO SHOW POSSIBILITY OF GARDEN BEAUTY

In the federal housing administration's technical bulletin No. 4 on principles of planning small homes, house D is another four-room, two-story dwelling similar in accommodations to house C, but with a different arrangement, especially adapted to a lot where the rear yard offers possibilities of development. All the main rooms have garden exposures, and since the back door is on the side there is nothing to break up this development.

More and more the possibilities of the back yard as a living area are being realized, and with the front yard robbed of all peace and quiet by the cacophonous blare of the latest automobile horns, the sanctuary offered by the back yard is a welcome relief.

The front of house D is devoted to those elements that are purely utilitarian: The utility room, the bathroom, and the stairs. Where a cellar is contemplated, the dining area takes the favored position overlooking the garden, and the more prosaic kitchen moves to the front.

The illustration shows the addition of a garage, which is connected to the back door by a covered porch. The garage opens toward the street, requiring a minimum of driveway and adding an additional screen to protect the privacy of the back yard garden area.

The price quoted in the booklet—$1,750 to $2,100—embraces the simplest form of construction, finish and equipment consistent with a sound investment for decent living and does not include the garage. Luxuries may be added to suit the tastes and pocketbook of the individual builder. Too many additions are unwise. If a point is reached in these additions where cost would exceed the resale value, in this case the investment would be unsound.

TWENTY LOW-PRICED HOMES TO BE BUILT

BINGHAMPTON, N. Y.—Convinced that low-priced homes are practical, after a study of the principles of planning small homes as outlined in a recent bulletin of the federal housing administration, Miss M. A. McManus, of this city, is planning to erect 20 houses in a semi-built-up development she owns, to sell for prices ranging from $1,200 to $1,800 complete.

PITTSBURGH'S SPENDING

Home building in Pittsburgh, while showing a substantial improvement over 1935, has not skyrocketed upward as it has in some cities, notably Detroit, Los Angeles, and Philadelphia, but Pittsburgh, it seems, spends its money for other luxuries. The Pittsburgh Press reports that the Allegheny County automobile dealers sold more cars during May than any previous month in history. Not even the lush months of 1929 could match May, 1936. Exactly 7,067 automobiles were sold in the Pittsburgh district by dealers during May. In the same month a year ago they sold just 3,340. This is a gain of 111 per cent. Cincinnati gained 71 per cent over the same period; Philadelphia, 52 per cent; Cleveland, 45 per cent; and Detroit, 38 per cent.

Modernization Of Bath Needs Little Effort To Achieve

There is no room in the house which can be changed from drabness to beauty and charm, and from prosaic utility to inviting usefulness with such ease, satisfaction, and at such a reasonable cost as the bathroom.

With the major part of their efforts during the last three years concentrated on modernization work, plumbing contractors have perfected the technique of bathroom rejuvenation, and work of this type is eligible under the modernization credit plan of the federal housing administration.

Replacement work has been speeded up, and the entire job can be accomplished with little or no inconvenience to family routine. Improved piping materials and fixtures especially adapted for modernization work, as well as more efficient methods of installation, all aid in speeding up the work and reducing the cost.

It is not necessary for the home owner to deal separately with different tradesmen whose work is involved in bathroom modernization work. Most plumbing dealers and contractors will gladly assume full responsibility for the complete job, including new wall and floor material.

The entire cost of the handsome and colorful new bathroom may then be financed on the monthly payment plan of the modernization credit plan of the federal housing administration.

Loretta Young, Bob Taylor Star In 'Private Number'

Romance At Paramount Scores Hit

Patsy Kelly And Basil Rathbone Included In Supporting Cast

A NEW screen romantic team has soared to popularity in the combination of Robert Taylor and Loretta Young, according to the cheering comments of the patrons leaving the Paramount theater yesterday where "Private Number," the pair's first co-starring Fox production, had its local premiere.

Taylor and Miss Young certainly seem the perfect love-team. His dark handsomeness and youthful banter are perfect complements for Loretta's wide-eyed beauty and appeal. And to top it off, "Private Number" is the outstanding romantic hit of the year.

The picture opens with Taylor, a young millionaire's son, mistaking Loretta, a maid in the household, for a guest. He refuses to let the amused girl explain.

The romance blossoms into full bloom when Loretta accompanies the family to their summer home in Maine and one moonlit night, while Taylor and Loretta are cruising on the lake, they decide to get married.

As Taylor still has another year of college, Loretta insists that the wedding be kept a secret and Bob goes back to school while she remains as a servant in the household.

Basil Rathbone has ideas about Loretta himself and is furious when he is repulsed. He accidentally discovers that she is going to have a baby and communicates the news to Mrs. Winnfield. Loretta remains silent about her husband but irrepressible Patsy Kelly blurts out that Taylor and Loretta are married.

Rathbone is determined to have his revenge and convinces the Winfields that Loretta is a gold-digger. The heartbroken girl runs from the house and goes into hiding.

Taylor returns from college to find his wife has disappeared. He is bitter against his parents for the manner in which they treated Miss Young but the rascally butler connives a plot that makes it appear that Loretta left deliberately and is only trying to extract money from the Winfields.

The picture moves romantically and dramatically towards a stirring conclusion and the fadeout finds the two youngsters happily together with Taylor proudly gazing upon his son for the first time.

As stated, Taylor and Miss Young are perfectly cast. Patsy Kelly is hilarious as a comical chambermaid and Rathbone's performance is a superb piece of villainy. Marjorie Gateson is also featured.

Roy Del Ruth directed "Private Number" with Raymond Griffith associate producer. Gene Markey and William Conselman wrote the screen story, based on a play by Cleves Kinkead.

W. C. Fields and Rochelle Hudson in a scene from the merry extravaganza of laughs, music and girls, "Poppy," which comes to the Paramount theater Thursday and Friday, with Richard Cromwell, Lynne Overman, Catherine Doucet and Rosalind Keith in the supporting cast.

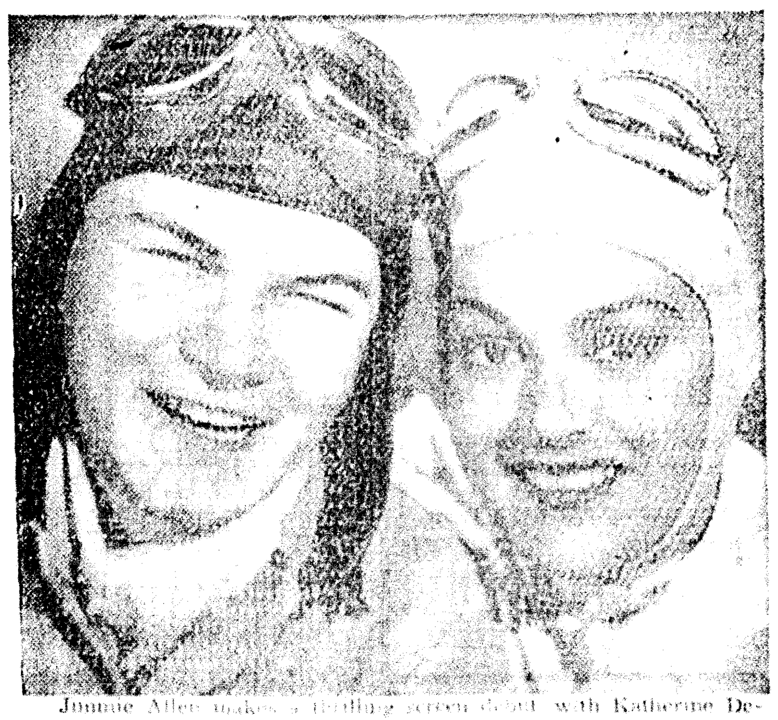
Eugene Pallette and Robert Donat in a hilarious scene from "The Ghost Goes West." Jean Parker plays opposite Robert Donat, sensational star of "The Count of Monte Cristo." The film plays at the Capitol for one day only next Friday.

Sylvia Sidney and Fred MacMurray, who with Henry Fonda are co-starred in the all natural color picture, "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," which plays a return engagement by special request at the Paramount theater Tuesday and Wednesday. Fred Stone, Nigel Bruce, Spanky McFarland, Beulah Bondi and Robert Barrat are others in the big cast.

Here's Robert Taylor and Loretta Young, the screen's perfect sweethearts in the year's romantic thrill, "Private Number," the attraction at the Paramount theater today and Monday. Patsy Kelly, Basil Rathbone, Marjorie Gateson, Joe Lewis, Jane Darwell and John Miljan also are in the fine cast.



Jimmie Allen makes a thrilling screen debut with Katherine DeMille as his leading lady in "The Sky Parade," which opens Tuesday at the Capitol theater for two days. Jimmie Allen, the idol of millions of radio fans, comes to the screen on wings of glory.

Romance seems just around the corner as Marsha Hunt watches Larry Crabbe step into the corral to saddle a "bad" horse. It's a scene in the "Arizona Raiders," which is playing today and Monday at the Capitol theater. It is another Zane Grey thrill-a-minute film.

50 LASALLE 4-H CLUB YOUTHS GO TO CAMP

JENA, La., June 27.—(Special)—Fifty members of the LaSalle parish 4-H clubs will leave on July 6 for Camp Grant Walker, near Pollock, for the annual outing of the clubs of this section. The LaSalle club members will be under the supervision of Miss Minnie Mae Verdel, home demonstration agent, and J. V. Hinton, parish agricultural agent.

REUNION HELD

OLLA, La., June 27.—(Special)—A reunion of the Francis family was held last Sunday at the home of Henry Francis, with fifty-two friends and members of the family present, including Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Keys and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Blake and son, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Francis and children; Mr and Mrs. J. Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Rollo Roark, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Roark, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Nettles, Mr and Mrs. L. H. Manchester, Mr and Mrs. A. C. Cruse and children, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Taylor and son, and Messrs. Fallice Roark, Jr., and J. Roark of Olla; Christine Jackson, Willie Mae Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. B. Monk and son, Mr. and Mrs. Dove Nelson and children, Irma Lee Cockeran, and Ella Cockeran, of Jena, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Mills, Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. Ivey Edwards, and Miss Nancy Price, of Tioga; Clarence Edwards and T. J. Edwards of Vicksburg, Miss.; Guy Edwards of Athens; Jack Francis and children of Winnsboro; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Francis, and Mrs. E. E. Garrison and daughters of Sicily Island.

Karen Morley never wears a hat, except when she is required to, on the screen.

The Capitol theater brings back the picture of pictures for a one day showing next Thursday, "Magnificent Obsession," with Irene Dunne, mistress of every human emotion, as the beloved Helen Hudson, woman of destiny. The cast also includes the new idol of the screen, Robert Taylor, Betty Furness and Charles Butterworth.

WEEKS TO BE IN RAYVILLE

At the present time Anson Weeks is on a limited tour in answer to demands for personal appearances. When he makes his Rayville appearance July 1st he will present Larry Lamont, the Ansonettes, and Frankie Sabuto, all of whom have been prominent features of his nation-wide broadcasts.

Lassen peak, named for an early Scandinavian settler in California, is the only active volcano in the United States.

'Arizona Raiders' At Capitol

Larry Crabbe Heads Cast Of New Western Adventure Picture

LARRY CRABBE rides, shoots and swims his way through a thrill-packed yarn of cattle-thieving and adventure in the Zane Grey film, "The Arizona Raiders," which opens today at the Capitol theater. Crabbe is teamed with Marsha Hunt and aided by a cast of top-notchers, including Raymond Hatton, Johnny Downs, Jane Rhodes and others.

Unique in a number of ways, "Arizona Raiders" presents its thrills in double-barrelled doses. There are two romances; two near-lynchings and two stampedes worked into the plot, each as exciting as the other. In addition a novel twist is given the story by a sequence in which Miss Hunt, as a ranch owner, is forced to "steal" her own herd of horses to save them.

The picture opens with Larry about to be hanged on a false accusation of horse stealing; he makes his escape by inches. Shortly after, Crabbe comes upon Raymond Hatton, about to be hanged by a second posse for a list of minor offenses; he saves the victim and they become riding mates.

Crossing the state line into Arizona, the pair enter a small town and Hatton gets thrown into jail for shooting up a saloon. In jail he meets Downs and promises to help the boy elope with Miss Rhodes. Crabbe frees the pair by stampeding a herd of cattle through the town, so that they shatter most of the buildings, including the jail.

When Crabbe and Hatton set out for the Hunt ranch to carry out Hatton's quixotic plan, Crabbe is brought into contact with the beautiful owner. In a short time he has discovered a plot under way to rob the girl of all her herd.

In the rapid-fire events that follow, Crabbe prevents the theft, engages in a gun-battle with the raiders, wins the girl, and aids in bringing about a successful conclusion to the Downs romance.

CREEK WIDENED TO MAKE SWIMMING POOL AT JENA

JENA, La., June 27.—(Special)—Through the efforts of Town Marshal W. H. Bishop and the LaSalle parish recreational committee, a new swimming pool has been opened for the Jena children. The new pool is located on Hemp's creek near the residence of J. B. Peyton. WPA labor has been used to widen the stream and dam it up to make it suitable for use for this purpose.

TODAY THRU MONDAY
It's excellent! Bob as a boy with too many millions . . . Loretta as his secret sweetheart! It's the year's romantic thrill with the screen's perfect love team.

These Beautiful New Monroe Homes Designed And Constructed by Local Monroe Craftsmen

GEORGIAN STYLED HOME CHOICE OF FHA FOR $2,500

Booklet Shows Six-Room House Planned For Low-Cost Production

In the federal housing administration's Technical Bulletin No. 4, on Principles of Planning Small Homes, House E illustrates a solution for a family requiring a house with three bedrooms. It is almost a cube for economy's sake, but the simple, dignified treatment of the exterior in the semiformal town type of colonial found in many New England and New York towns and villages enhances this cubic design. The low-pitched roof, with the gable ends treated as pediments, with simple, stock half-circle windows, is economical and logical; it provides air space over the second floor that can be ventilated and wastes little cubage.

The plan provides all the space and equipment necessary for comfortable living in as small an area as possible, with the economies of construction constantly in mind. Simple framing, spans that take stock lengths of lumber, concentrated plumbing, simple stairs, a careful avoidance of unnecessary corners, both inside and out, and regularly spaced openings all make the building operation a simple one.

The use of platform construction instead of the customary foundation walls and cellar, suggested in the descriptive specifications for houses in the bulletin, is interesting and a distinct departure from usual methods. Its use is made possible by modern heating systems that operate satisfactorily with the heating unit on the first floor, which eliminates the need of cellar or even an air space under the first floor. This house can be built on such a platform or on walls with or without a cellar.

MORTGAGES SHOW NEW RECORD FOR BUYING OF HOMES

FHA Administrator's Prediction Is Substantiated By Statistics

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Mortgages selected for appraisal by various insuring offices throughout the country average more than $1,500,000 a day for each workday, according to reports reaching the Federal Housing administration, substantiating the predictions of Housing Administrator Stewart McDonald that 1936 would be a banner year for home building.

A further evidence of the trend of the home building and buying field is shown in the fact that during the first nine days of June mortgages accepted for insurance by the Housing administration totaled $14,285,387. This figure includes money insured for both new construction, buying of new homes and the refinancing of existing mortgages.

Through June 9 the total business transacted through the Federal Housing administration, including repairs, refinancing and new construction, was over $850,000,000, indicating that the billion-dollar mark will probably be passed in August. Large-scale housing mortgages accepted for insurance now total $33,452,158.

All of this money represents private capital. Funds are advanced by private financial institutions, and the mortgages are insured against loss by the Housing administration.

MORTGAGE PLAN'S SAFETY PRAISED

Underwriters Cites Rarity Of Defaults In Federal Housing Program

NEWARK, N. J.—The soundness of the Federal Housing administration's single-mortgage system is indicated by a report to the state director here. According to the chief underwriter for New Jersey:

"It is a matter of pride to the mortgage risk department that to date there have been but six cases defaulted in monthly payments, which represents one-twentieth of 1 per cent of the number of cases on which insurance has been passed on loans granted.

"Statistics of the mortgage companies of this country show that 5 per cent of their mortgages have gone to foreclosure annually. All of this is indeed proof that the system in use by the Federal Housing administration is proving its efficiency and perfection.

"Originally 20 cases were in default. This number has been reduced to six through the efforts of the mortgage risk department. None of these are more than three months behind, and we do not feel that any of them will be finally lost.

"It has been particularly noticeable," he stated "that we are having a decreasing amount of trouble with new construction, inasmuch as the contractors have followed our suggestion and have brought their construction up to what we consider a standard type.

"Specifically, framing is better; contractors have begun to use deeper beams, which make a much more rigid house. Brick work used for veneer has been done in accordance with our instructions and gives a much more satisfactory and durable job. Formerly too little mortar was being used and, consequently, wasn't being tied into the frame."

SHELVES SAVE SPACE

In small houses where all the wall space is needed for furniture, book shelves may be built about 4 feet above the floor. This allows the lower part of the wall to be used for furniture and at the same time gives a refuge for your books.

FHA INSPECTION SAVES BUILDER $900

RENO, Nev.—The architectural inspection service of the local federal housing administration office was instrumental in saving $900 for a prospective home builder here.

One particular application was studied by the architectural section, and the cost of construction was estimated to be $6,300. The applicant said the lowest bid he could obtain was $7,000. The architectural section investigated the matter, discussed it with numerous contractors, which resulted in a new low bid amounting to $6,100.

New Type Shower Head Proves To Be Money Saver

A money-saving modernization idea is the installation of the water-saving type of showerhead recently developed by a number of manufacturers of plumbing goods.

The new showerhead is a midget only about two inches in diameter. It uses from 25 to 50 per cent less water than the old-fashioned large-diameter heads. The decreased consumption of water results in a corresponding decrease in the cost of fuel for heating the water.

Another important feature of the new head is that it is practically nonclogging.

The many advantages of the new type of showerhead, practically its economy features, recommend it for installation in hotels, clubs, apartments, schools, and gyms, as well as the private residence.

Plumbing installations may be financed under the terms of the Modernization Credit Plan of the Federal Housing administration.

HOMES NEEDED

Eighty-four vacant homes out of 11,450 is sufficient evidence for Hal Chase, real estate editor of the Chicago Tribune, that a housing shortage is near at hand for Evanston and the north shore district of Chicago. In addition there are but 10 vacant apartments out of 572 units. These facts were revealed in a survey conducted by the Evanston-North Shore Real Estate board.

BICYCLE PARADE PLANNED FRIDAY

First Event Of Kind Held Here Will Be Staged By Recreation Group

A bicycle parade, its first city-wide activity, will be held Friday by the Monroe Recreation department. The procession, which will pass through the business section of the city, will start at the Central Grammar school and end at the Atkinson playground corner of Oak and Hart streets. Ten o'clock in the morning is the hour set for it to begin.

The parade will be led by the band sponsored by the recreation department. The bicycles entered in the procession must be decorated. Prizes will be awarded to the rider whose wheel is considered to be the best decorated and the one whose bicycle is regarded as most uniquely decorated.

Following the parade, contests in bicycle riding and bicycle stunts will be staged at Atkinson playground.

The bicycle parade has been arranged to take the place of the annual fourth of July lantern parade and swimming contest at the municipal natatorium. This had to be abandoned because of the recent closing of the pool to make way for a link of the levee protecting Monroe against floods of Ouachita river.

Children who are to take part in the parade will assemble at the Central Grammar school an hour before the time set for the procession to start.

The six playgrounds of the city were opened Monday by the recreation department; and, according to Miss Lucyle Godwin, superintendent, there has been an average daily attendance of 450 children. The grounds were opened without formality because of the tragic death of Mayor Arnold Bernstein's sister, Mrs. Marcus Kaliski, in an automobile accident earlier in the day.

Activities at the playgrounds consist of baseball, softball, paddle tennis, croquet, sewing, woodwork, bean bag games, sidewalk games and various other forms of diversion.

Uncle Sam To Spend Many Millions Building Levees

NEW ORLEANS, June 27.—(AP)—Uncle Sam is going to spend upwards of $300,000,000 during the next six years to keep his feet from getting wet.

Congress has authorized that much to be appropriated to harness further the giant Mississippi river and its tributaries and remove the threat of floods to lives and property in Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas.

The Overton measure approved by congress is designed to prevent such disasters as the 1927 spring flood which cost a toll of about 300 lives and millions of dollars of damage in property and crop devastation.

Army engineers forecast that completion of the work would afford almost absolute flood protection to one of the richest agricultural sections in the world.

The new Overton plan tossed the whole job into the lap of the United States corps of engineers with certain broad instructions.

These were (1) abandonment of the Boeuf floodway to the west of Macon ridge in eastern Arkansas and immediate construction of a shorter floodway, the Eudora.

(2) Immediate construction of the Morganza floodway in southeastern Louisiana as a parallel relief floodway to the Atchafalaya floodway.

(3) Immediate construction of an additional outlet in southeast Louisiana to take care of the rush water from the parallel Atchafalaya and Morganza floodways.

(4) Improvement to the discharge capacity of the Mississippi and Atchafalaya rivers by strengthening bends in their courses, reinforcing levees and dredging shallow portions.

(5) Alleviation of flood threats to the St. Francis river in northeast Arkansas and the Yazoo in the Mississippi delta, either by construction of reservoirs or levees.

Straightening and correcting the course and flow of the Mississippi and its tributaries is expected to take care of most of the comparatively light annual floodwaters.

The floodway and spillway system is designed for emergency use—to take care of major floods.

The Eudora, Morganza and Atchafalaya floodways will provide auxiliary channels for the surging Mississippi. When the "father of the waters" begins to press dangerously high and violently against its protective levees, these three floodways will be thrown open to distribute the terrific pressure.

The pent-up water, thus set loose, will find its way to the Gulf of Mexico through the Bonnet Carre spillway, recently completed above New Orleans at a cost of $30,000,000, and the Berwick Bay outlet and proposed new outlet west of Berwick at the end of the Atchafalaya and Morganza floodways.

This system is expected to take care of the most serious floods possible. For instance, Lieutenant-Col. W. F. Tompkins, engineer in charge of the second New Orleans district, estimates that the Morganza floodway would be opened of necessity only about once in 10 years and its parallel floodway, the Atchafalaya, once in perhaps a century.

Residents in the paths of floodways are to be reimbursed for inundation of their lands.

The Overton measure authorized appropriation of $272,000,000 for the work as well as usage of all money authorized under the 1928 flood control bill not yet spent. It has been estimated that near $60,000,000 is unspent from the 1928 authorization.

Lieutenant-Colonel Tompkins said major operations await only the completion of technical details.

DR. SCOTT HAMILTON TO MAKE HOME IN MONROE

Dr. Scott Hamilton, who for the past three years has been a member of the staff of Charity hospital in New Orleans, has moved to Monroe where, with his family, he will make his home. He has opened offices in the Bernhardt building, where he will pursue his practice as a specialist in diseases of the bones and joints. Dr. Hamilton is a graduate of Tulane university. After his graduation he went to Minneapolis, where he taught two years in the anatomy department of University of Minnesota. Three years ago he was appointed to the staff of Charity hospital in New Orleans. He is a son-in-law of John M. Breard, vice-president and cashier of the Central Savings Bank and Trust company.

CAMP LASSA BUILDINGS ARE BEING REPAIRED

LAKE FORBING, June 27.—(Special)—Preparatory to the opening of its sixteenth annual camp in July, Camp Lassa, the character building camp of the Louisiana Council of Religious education, at Forbing, La., three miles south of Shreveport, is undergoing repairs and improvements. The big two-story Norman hall dormitory which houses on the first floor the office, guest rooms, dining hall and kitchen and cares for 40 campers on the second floor, is being reroofed. This building is equipped with screen porches, running water, and 14 showers.

"Uncle Van" Carter, the camp director, is enlisting the interest and support of men and women throughout the state, and they have responded with funds sufficient to begin the work, and as it progresses, the expectation is that more funds will be received.

PICNIC HELD BY LIBERTY CLUB

Members Of Monroe Kiwanis Club Guests; More Than 100 Persons Present

Over 100 persons attended the annual celebration of "achievement day," sponsored by the Liberty Community club Friday night. Members of the Monroe Kiwanis club were special guests at a picnic held at the Liberty church 12 miles west of the city.

A feature of the meeting was a discussion of plans for the development of better orchards by Mrs. R. C. Camp, president of the Liberty Home Demonstration club. Demonstration orchards are located on the farms of Arthur Lowery, J. S. Sims and R. C. Camp, and every member of the club has planted some kind of fruit or nut tree on his place. It was announced that every variety of fruit for domestic use possible to be grown in Louisiana is being produced in the neighborhood.

Mrs. J. S. Sims, garden leader of the club, discussed the flower and vegetable show held in Monroe June 6 and 7, sponsored by the Kiwanis club. The Liberty club was awarded first place for having the best booth on exhibit, and fourth place for having the highest number of points.

Fred Williamson, representing the Monroe Kiwanis club, gave a brief talk on the importance of promoting fellowship between rural and town communities. Mr. Williamson pointed out the impossibility of one community trying to exist without the other.

Mary Ella Sims, who won the canning contest sponsored by the Kiwanis club at the Ouachita Valley fair last October, was introduced at the meeting by Mrs. Jewel McQuiller, demonstration agent for Ouachita parish. Miss Sims was awarded a free trip to the annual short course at Louisiana State university next month. According to Mrs. McQuiller, Miss Sims will enter the poultry-judging and canning contests at the short course, though she will not officially represent the parish, it was stated. Elimination contests throughout the parish are now being held, and the five high-scoring girls will compete on July 14 in Monroe to determine who will represent the parish.

The Calhoun 4-H club girls met Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. D. Hale, where club demonstrations in various projects were held. An achievement program was held Saturday night by the Eureka home demonstration club, eight miles north of Calhoun, at the home of Mrs. L. D. Willis. This meeting was similar to the one held at the Liberty church Friday night, Mrs. McQuiller announced.

4-H club members who are interested in going to the annual club encampment near Sicily Island are requested to meet at the Ouachita parish court house Monday morning at 8 o'clock, Mrs. McQuiller stated. Members will be transported to the camp via special bus, and the encampment will continue through Friday, July 3.

MASONIC EMBLEM FOUND AT CALHOUN

A bronze medal issued by the Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons of Louisiana on the centennial anniversary of the organization in 1932, and which would, no doubt, be a treasured souvenir of a Mason or medal collector, was found during the past week by H. E. Mills, father of Congressman-elect Newt V. Mills, two miles west of Calhoun station.

The medal was in a bad state of corosion when found, but Mr. Mills has cleaned it and it was in good shape when he exhibited it at the office of his son on the third floor of the Ouachita National bank building, where it is now on display.

One side of the medal, which was as big as a silver dollar, bore the emblem of the organization and the name of lodge and the occasion for the issuing of the medal, while the other side bore the pictures of P. Francois Dubourg, grand master of the fraternity, in 1812, and of John Stanley Thibaut, who was grand master at the time of the centennial celebration in 1912.

NEWS OF DAY AT CHRYSLER EXHIBIT

Plymouth Manufacturer Presents Unique Program At Texas Exposition

Animated news of the day, and an electric catalog of highspot events for the convenience of visitors, will be important features of the Chrysler corporation exhibit at the Texas centennial exposition in Dallas.

At the Chrysler Motors hall of celebrities, a specially constructed theater seating 250 persons, specially created marionettes will enact, in march-of-time fashion, the roles of personalities in the day's news.

Notables of each day's exposition visitor list will be presented in puppet casts made up from day to day. The hall of celebrities also is equipped for regular showings of sound pictures.

Sue Hastings is director of the marionettes. Formerly associated with Tony Sarg for many years, her current events idea of puppet shows adds a new flavor to the popular repertory of the performing dolls. Miss Hastings won national recognition for her work in this field, when she was named as one of the 24 outstanding women of today in the annual selection by business and professional women of America.

For the convenience of visitors at the Chrysler Motors exhibit, a foot-high translux electric ribbon over one of the main entrances to the display salon will carry a constant, running news report of the exposition's day, listing the principal special events on each day's calendar.

The Chrysler corporation exhibit occupies an entire wing of the huge Transportation building, at the end directly facing the court of honor and the Texas hall of state, which is the central point of the $25,000,000 exposition.

This entire wing of the Transportation building, with three entrances leading from the esplanade of state, is Chrysler Motors hall. Its interior is richly decorated to provide a jewel box setting for the products of all divisions of the company.

In addition to the indoor display, landscaped gardens include space for a shady lawn theater, seating 1,200 persons. This theater is equipped with a concert stage to accommodate orchestras and bands up to 75 pieces. The outdoor theater is formed in the L where Chrysler Motors hall wings off the railroad section of the Transportation building, and it augments the auditorium facilities of the movie-marionette theater known as the hall of celebrities. Total area of the combined space is 48,200 square feet.

A giant air-conditioning system has been installed by Airtemp, Inc., subsidiary of the Chrysler corporation, for the comfort of exposition visitors. The equipment is set up behind walls of glass so the actual process of temperature control may be watched.

The many products of the company are represented by Chrysler, Plymouth and De Soto automobiles; Dodge passenger cars and trucks; marine engines, industrial engines and displays of the automotive parts and accessory division. All the products are arranged in a colorful design conforming with the central decoration scheme of a magnificent jewel box.

The brilliant, striking effect of the jewel box motif is consistently carried out throughout the display salon. The walls are of silver tile from the floor to eye level, and rising above this they are sea-blue mirrors, with panels at each corner, set with silver stars. Giant blue-bonnets rear in clusters from massive inverted pyramid vases of green opaque glass. Gray rubberized tile is used for flooring, with the color shading into blue around the borders.

Special lighting is a feature of the jewel box design. Opalescent light troughs glow, but their structure conceals the glare of powerful lamps used for indirect illumination. Pinpoint shafts of light from hidden sources are concentrated on each Chrysler Motors product, causing the automobiles to stand out in sharp relief against the soft, cool depths of the vaulted salon.

Just inside an entrance from the epslanade is a ceiling-high map of the United States, with colored lights marking the location of Plymouth, De Soto, Dodge and Chrysler dealers throughout the country. In front of the map are teletype machines and operators, to demonstrate how a visitor can buy a car at the exposition with his old one back home being taken in trade by means of telegraphed appraisal.

An electric Hammond organ has been installed in the display salon, and regular concerts will be given by Merle Clark, organist from the Michigan theater, Detroit. A luxuriously appointed balcony has been set aside for use as clubrooms for women.

Information booths are located convenient to every door, and comfortable lounges are provided as convenient meetings places for friends at the exposition, and an oases of comfort and rest for tourists and visitors.

DIXIE SANDWICH SHOP COOL PLACE

Variety Of Sandwiches And Lunches Served In Comfortable Surroundings

The good old summertime is pleasant enough when you're comfortable, but sometimes it's hard to find a cool spot to eat. The Dixie Sandwich shop has solved that problem. Since the temperature is high and going higher, it's well to form the habit of dropping by the Dixie for a cool, comfortable place to get a delicious sandwich or lunch, or something to drink.

The Dixie Sandwich shop, which is located at 407 Walnut street, has recently installed a cooling system that really makes the place a deightful setting for a meal. The shop also has been redecorated inside and out, and it now presents a most attractive appearance.

You will find private booths inside the Dixie, or you may drive in and have your order served to you while you sit in your car. The Dixie prides itself on their cold plate lunches, which offer a variet of selections. Or you may prefer the Dixie's specialty, a fried chicken dinner. Or maybe one of those famous Tom's double deck hamburgers will hit the spot. These are proving popular for picnic lunches and the Dixie will have them ready for your picnic if you'll phone in your order. Barbecue sandwiches and other picnic specialties also are available at the Dixie.

This is one of the oldest sandwich shops in Monroe and has established an enviable reputation for the quality of its lunches, sandwiches, etc. The management is ever anxious to maintain the standard they have set in the past and those who haven't patronized the place in the past may be assured of most satisfactory service. There is plenty of parking space for curb service and enough waitresses are employed to assure you of quick service. And best of all, the prices are most reasonable.

Drop by the Dixie Sandwich shop at 407 Walnut for your lunch. Or phone 9211 and they'll have everything ready for you when you want it. Once you've tried eating the Dixie way, you'll become a regular customer.

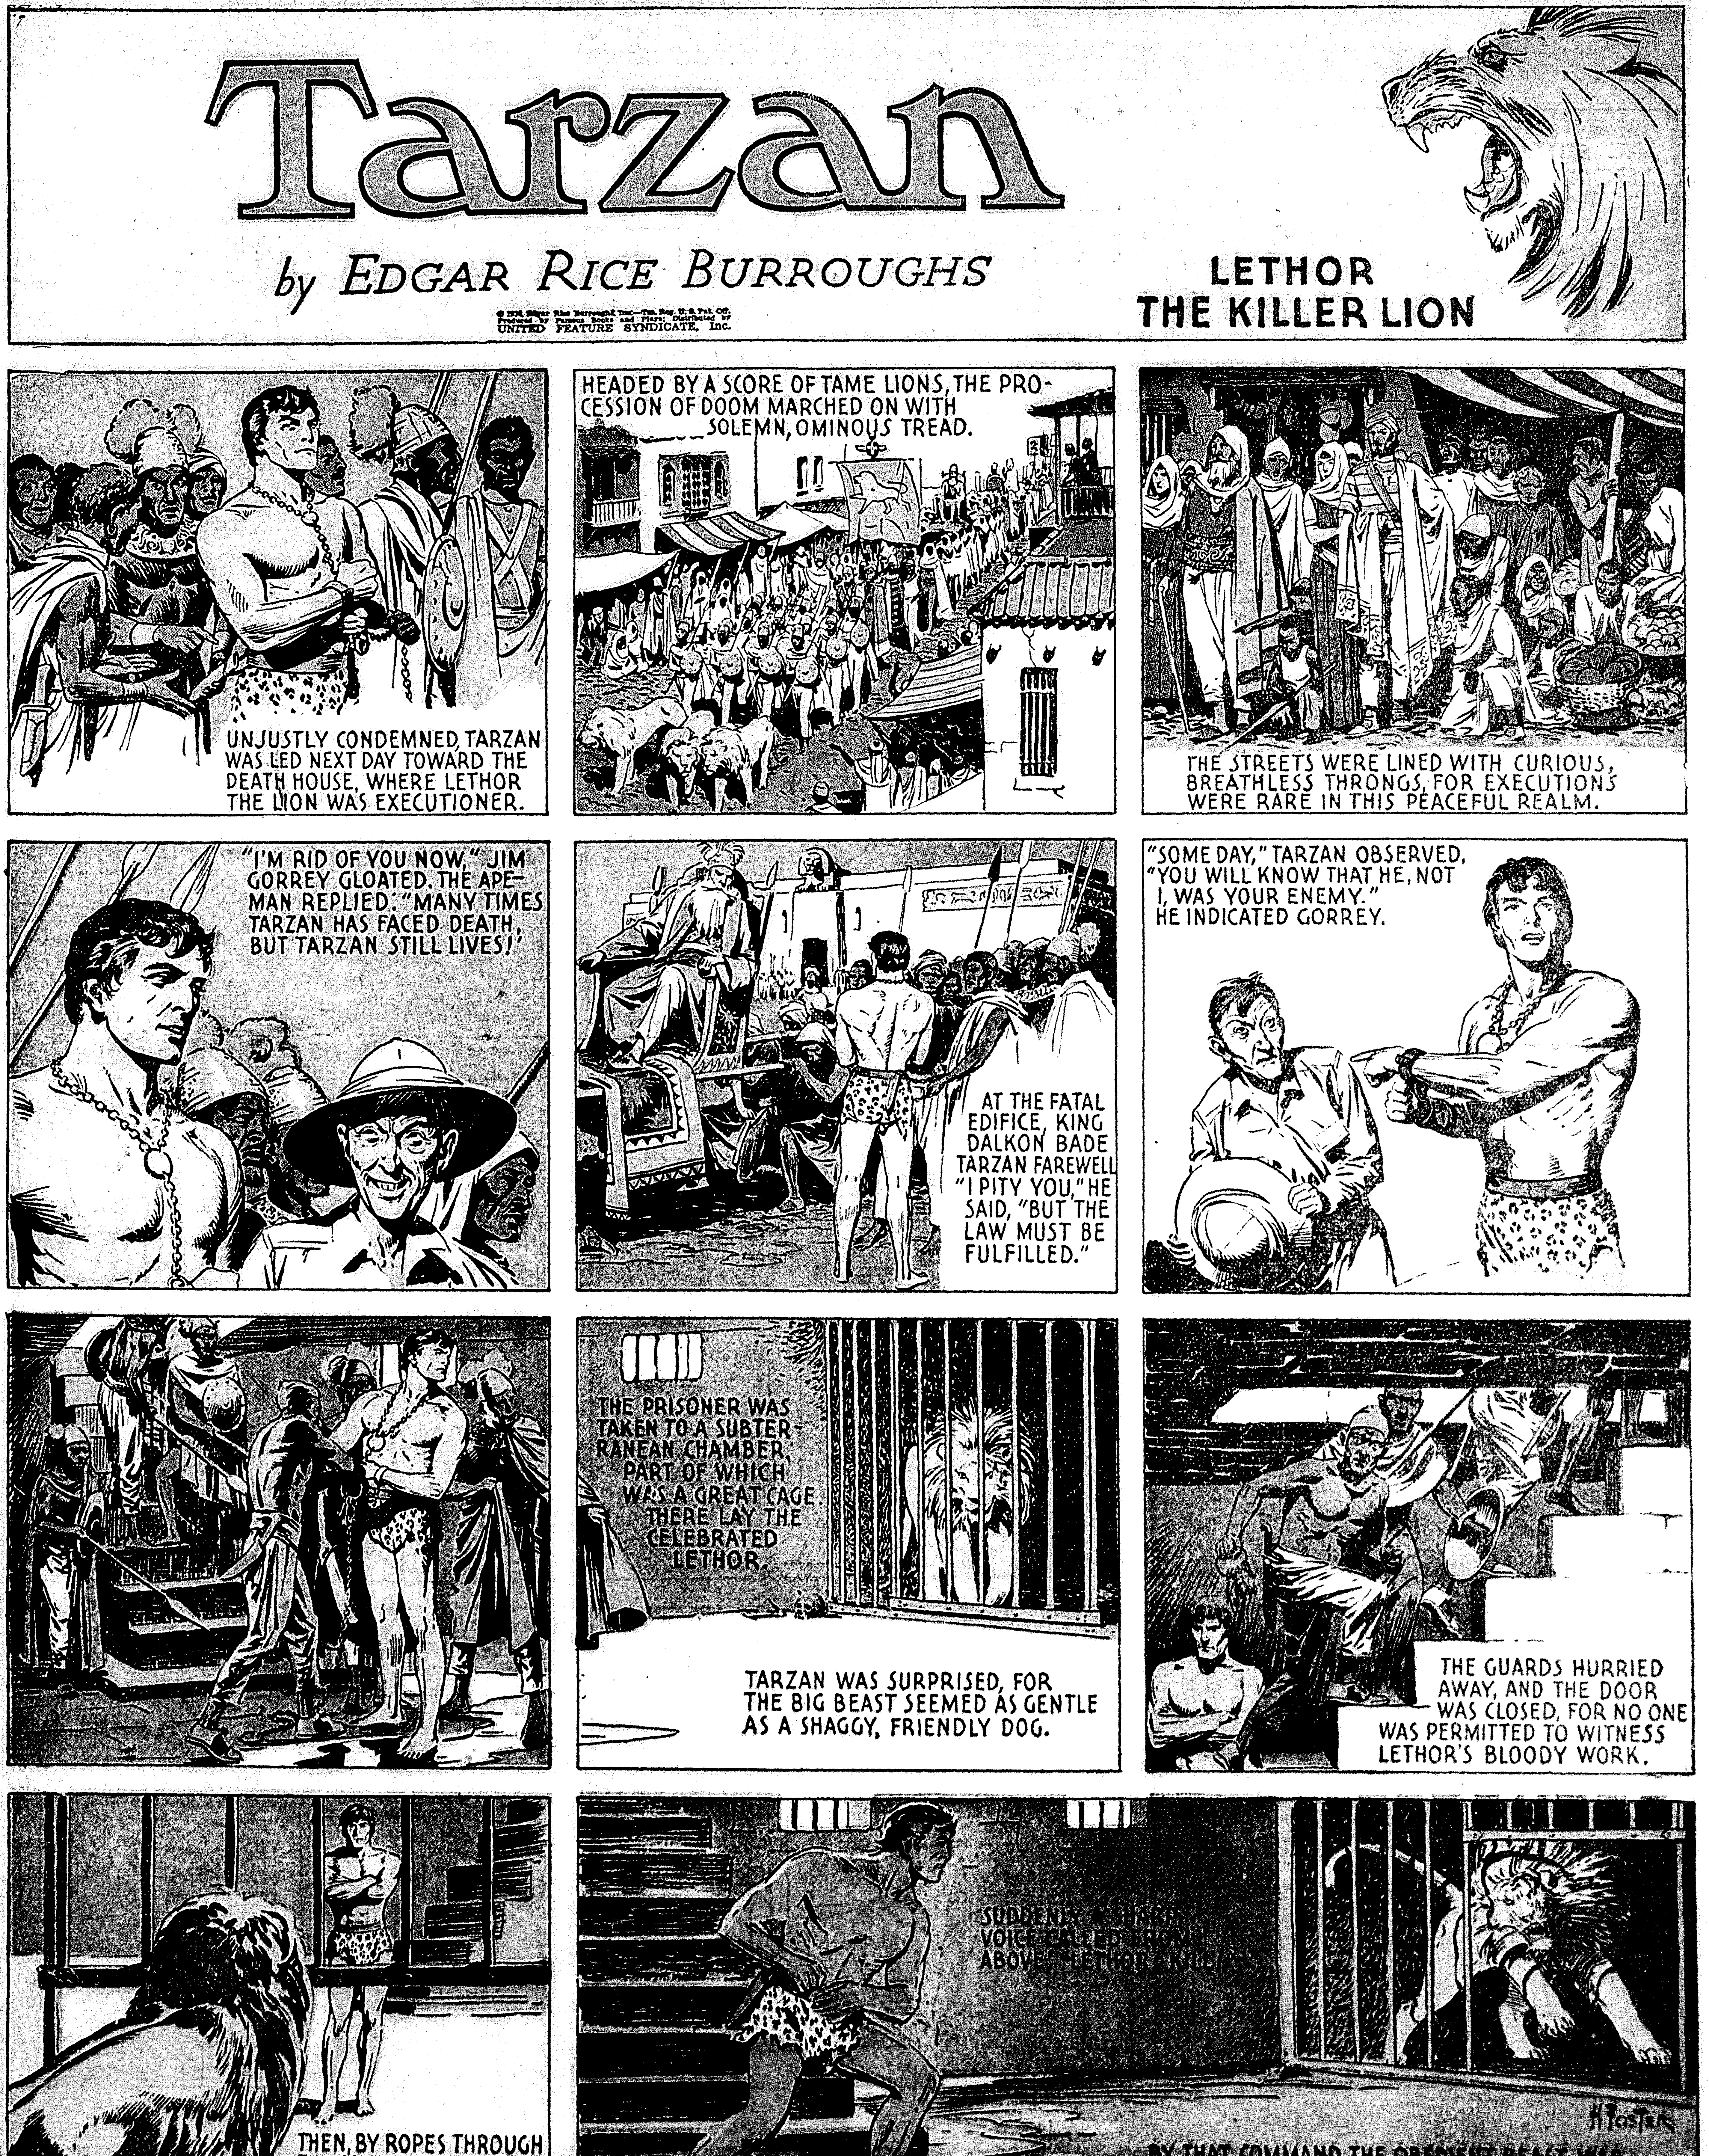
LETHOR THE KILLER LION



UNJUSTLY CONDEMNED, TARZAN WAS LED NEXT DAY TOWARD THE DEATH HOUSE, WHERE LETHOR THE LION WAS EXECUTIONER.
HEADED BY A SCORE OF TAME LIONS, THE PROCESSION OF DOOM MARCHED ON WITH SOLEMN, OMINOUS TREAD.
THE STREETS WERE LINED WITH CURIOUS, BREATHLESS THRONGS, FOR EXECUTIONS WERE RARE IN THIS PEACEFUL REALM.
"I'M RID OF YOU NOW," JIM GORREY GLOATED. THE APE-MAN REPLIED: "MANY TIMES TARZAN HAS FACED DEATH, BUT TARZAN STILL LIVES!"
AT THE FATAL EDIFICE, KING DALKON BADE TARZAN FAREWELL. "I PITY YOU," HE SAID, "BUT THE LAW MUST BE FULFILLED."
"SOME DAY," TARZAN OBSERVED, "YOU WILL KNOW THAT HE, NOT I, WAS YOUR ENEMY." HE INDICATED GORREY.
THE PRISONER WAS TAKEN TO A SUBTERRANEAN CHAMBER, PART OF WHICH WAS A GREAT CAGE. THERE LAY THE CELEBRATED LETHOR.
TARZAN WAS SURPRISED, FOR THE BIG BEAST SEEMED AS GENTLE AS A SHAGGY, FRIENDLY DOG.
THE GUARDS HURRIED AWAY, AND THE DOOR WAS CLOSED, FOR NO ONE WAS PERMITTED TO WITNESS LETHOR'S BLOODY WORK.
THEN, BY ROPES THROUGH THE CEILING, THE CAGE DOOR WAS HAULED UP. THE LION GAZED CALMLY AT ITS VICTIM.
SUDDENLY A SHARP VOICE CALLED FROM ABOVE: "LETHOR, KILL!"
H. FOSTER
BY THAT COMMAND THE OBEDIENT BEAST WAS TRANSFORMED INTO A DEMON KILLER, AND NOW IT RUSHED SAVAGELY AT TARZAN!
NEXT WEEK: DUNGEON OF DEATH

Loretta Young, Bob Taylor Star In 'Private Number'

Romance At Paramount Scores Hit

Patsy Kelly And Basil Rathbone Included In Supporting Cast

A NEW screen romantic team has soared to popularity in the combination of Robert Taylor and Loretta Young, according to the cheering comments of the patrons leaving the Paramount theater yesterday where "Private Number," the pair's first co-starring Fox production, had its local premiere.

Taylor and Miss Young certainly seem the perfect love-team. His dark handsomeness and youthful banter are perfect complements for Loretta's wide-eyed beauty and appeal. And to top it off, "Private Number" is the outstanding romantic hit of the year.

The picture opens with Taylor, a young millionaire's son, mistaking Loretta, a maid in the household, for a guest. He refuses to let the amused girl explain.

The romance blossoms into full bloom when Loretta accompanies the family to their summer home in Maine and one moonlit night, while Taylor and Loretta are cruising on the lake, they decide to get married.

As Taylor still has another year of college, Loretta insists that the wedding be kept a secret and Bob goes back to school while she remains as a servant in the household.

Basil Rathbone has ideas about Loretta himself and is furious when he is repulsed. He accidentally discovers that she is going to have a baby and communicates the news to Mrs. Winnfield. Loretta remains silent about her husband but irrepressible Patsy Kelly blurts out that Taylor and Loretta are married.

Rathbone is determined to have his revenge and convinces the Winfields that Loretta is a gold-digger. The heartbroken girl runs from the house and goes into hiding.

Taylor returns from college to find his wife has disappeared. He is bitter against his parents for the manner in which they treated Miss Young but the rascally butler connives a plot that makes it appear that Loretta left deliberately and is only trying to extract money from the Winfields.

The picture moves romantically and dramatically towards a stirring conclusion and the fadeout finds the two youngsters happily together with Taylor proudly gazing upon his son for the first time.

As stated, Taylor and Miss Young are perfectly cast. Patsy Kelly is hilarious as a comical chambermaid and Rathbone's performance is a superb piece of villainy. Marjorie Gateson is also featured.

Roy Del Ruth directed "Private Number" with Raymond Griffith associate producer. Gene Markey and William Conselman wrote the screen story, based on a play by Cleves Kinkead.

W. C. Fields and Rochelle Hudson in a scene from the merry extravaganza of laughs, music and girls, "Poppy," which comes to the Paramount theater Thursday and Friday, with Richard Cromwell, Lynne Overman, Catherine Doucet and Rosalind Keith in the supporting cast.

PACKTON MAN ACCUSED OF ROBBERY ON HIGHWAY

JENA, La., June 27.—(Special)—Accused of assaulting and robbing H. C. Hemphill near Tullos and driving away in Hemphill's truck, Clinton Wheat, 25, of Packton, has been arrested by Sheriff Barlow Thompson of LaSalle parish and placed in the parish jail. Wheat's bond was set at $500.

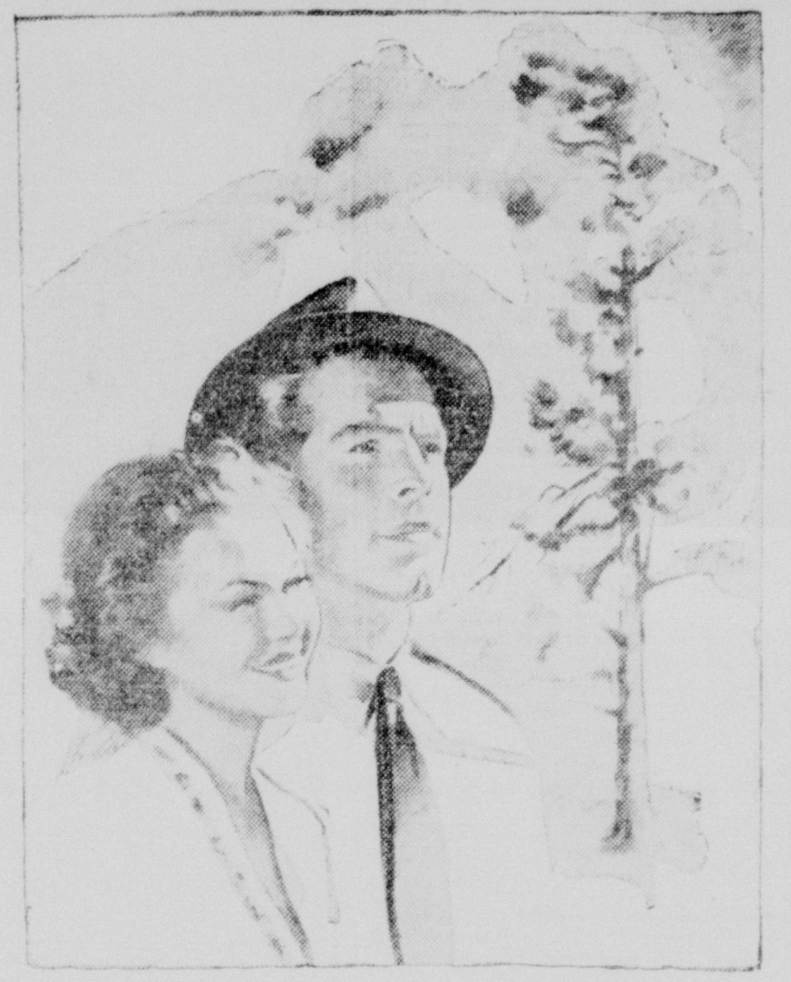
Eugene Pallette and Robert Donat in a hilarious scene from "The Ghost Goes West." Jean Parker plays opposite Robert Donat, sensational star of "The Count of Monte Cristo." The film plays at the Capitol for one day only next Friday.



Sylvia Sidney and Fred MacMurray, who with Henry Fonda are co-starred in the all natural color picture, "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," which plays a return engagement by special request at the Paramount theater Tuesday and Wednesday. Fred Stone, Nigel Bruce, Spanky McFarland, Beulah Bondi and Robert Barrat are others in the big cast.

Here's Robert Taylor and Loretta Young, the screen's perfect sweethearts, in the year's romantic thrill, "Private Number," the attraction at the Paramount theater today and Monday. Patsy Kelly, Basil Rathbone, Marjorie Gateson, Joe Lewis, Jane Darwell, and John Miljan also are in he fine cast.

Jimmie Allen makes a thrilling screen debut, with Katherine DeMille as his leading lady, in "The Sky Parade," which opens Tuesday at the Capitol theater for two days. Jimmie Allen, the idol of millions of radio fans, comes to the screen on wings of glory.

Romance seems just around the corner as Marsha Hunt watches Larry Crabbe step into the corral to saddle a "bad" horse. It's a scene in the "Arizona Raiders," which is playing today and Monday at the Capitol theater. It is another Zane Grey thrill-a-minute film.

'Arizona Raiders' At Capitol

Larry Crabbe Heads Cast Of New Western Adventure Picture

LARRY CRABBE rides, shoots and swims his way through a thrill-packed yarn of cattle-thieving and adventure in the Zane Grey film, "The Arizona Raiders," which opens today at the Capitol theater. Crabbe is teamed with Marsha Hunt and aided by a cast of top-notchers, including Raymond Hatton, Johnny Downs, Jane Rhodes and others.

Unique in a number of ways, "Arizona Raiders" presents its thrills in double-barrelled doses. There are two romances; two near-lynchings and two stampedes worked into the plot, each as exciting as the other. In addition, a novel twist is given the story by a sequence in which Miss Hunt, as a ranch owner, is forced to "steal" her own herd of horses to save them.

The picture opens with Larry about to be hanged on a false accusation of horse stealing; he makes his escape by inches. Shortly after, Crabbe comes upon Raymond Hatton, about to be hanged by a second posse for a list of minor offenses; he saves the victim and they become riding mates.

Crossing the state line into Arizona, the pair enter a small town and Hatton gets thrown into jail for shooting up a saloon. In jail he meets Downs and promises to help the boy elope with Miss Rhodes. Crabbe frees the pair by stampeding a herd of cattle through the town, so that they shatter most of the buildings, including the jail.

When Crabbe and Hatton set out for the Hunt ranch to carry out Hatton's quixotic plan, Crabbe is brought into contact with the beautiful owner. In a short time he has discovered a plot under way to rob the girl of all her herd.

In the rapid-fire events that follow, Crabbe prevents the theft, engages in a gun-battle with the raiders, wins the girl, and aids in bringing about a successful conclusion to the Downs romance.

CREEK WIDENED TO MAKE SWIMMING POOL AT JENA

JENA, La., June 27.—(Special)—Through the efforts of Town Marshal W. H. Bishop and the LaSalle parish recreational committee, a new swimming pool has been opened for the Jena children. The new pool is located on Hemp's creek near the residence of J. B. Peyton. WPA labor has been used to widen the stream and dam it up to make it suitable for use for this purpose.

BICYCLE PARADE PLANNED FRIDAY

First Event Of Kind Held Here Will Be Staged By Recreation Group

A bicycle parade, its first city-wide activity, will be held Friday by the Monroe Recreation department. The procession, which will pass through the business section of the city, will start at the Central Grammar school and end at the Atkinson playground corner of Oak and Hart streets. Ten o'clock in the morning is the hour set for it to begin.

The parade will be led by the band sponsored by the recreation department. The bicycles entered in the procession must be decorated. Prizes will be awarded to the rider whose wheel is considered to be the best decorated and the one whose bicycle is regarded as most uniquely decorated.

Following the parade, contests in bicycle riding and bicycle stunts will be staged at Atkinson playground.

The bicycle parade has been arranged to take the place of the annual fourth of July lantern parade and swimming contest at the municipal natatorium. This had to be abandoned because of the recent closing of the pool to make way for a link of the levee protecting Monroe against floods of Ouachita river.

Children who are to take part in the parade will assemble at the Central Grammar school an hour before the time set for the procession to start.

The six playgrounds of the city were opened Monday by the recreation department; and, according to Miss Lucyle Godwin, superintendent, there has been an average daily attendance of 450 children. The grounds were opened without formality because of the tragic death of Mayor Arnold Bernstein's sister, Mrs. Marcus Kaliski, in an automobile accident earlier in the day.

Activities at the playgrounds consist of baseball, softball, paddle tennis, croquet, sewing, woodwork, bean bag games, sidewalk games and various other forms of diversion.

Uncle Sam To Spend Many Millions Building Levees

NEW ORLEANS, June 27.—(AP)—Uncle Sam is going to spend upwards of $300,000,000 during the next six years to keep his feet from getting wet.

Congress has authorized that much to be appropriated to harness further the giant Mississippi river and its tributaries and remove the threat of floods to lives and property in Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas.

The Overton measure approved by congress is designed to prevent such disasters as the 1927 spring flood which cost a toll of about 300 lives and millions of dollars of damage in property and crop devastation.

Army engineers forecast that completion of the work would afford almost absolute flood protection to one of the richest agricultural sections in the world.

The new Overton plan tossed the whole job into the lap of the United States corps of engineers with certain broad instructions.

These were (1) abandonment of the Boeuf floodway to the west of Macon ridge in eastern Arkansas and immediate construction of a shorter floodway, the Eudora.

(2) Immediate construction of the Morganza floodway in southeastern Louisiana as a parallel relief floodway to the Atchafalaya floodway.

(3) Immediate construction of an additional outlet in southeast Louisiana to take care of the rush water from the parallel Atchafalaya and Morganza floodways.

(4) Improvement to the discharge capacity of the Mississippi and Atchafalaya rivers by strengthening bends in their courses, reinforcing levees and dredging shallow portions.

(5) Alleviation of flood threats to the St. Francis river in northeast Arkansas and the Yazoo in the Mississippi delta, either by construction of reservoirs or levees.

Straightening and correcting the course and flow of the Mississippi and its tributaries is expected to take care of most of the comparatively light annual floodwaters.

The floodway and spillway system is designed for emergency use—to take care of major floods.

The Eudora, Morganza and Atchafalaya floodways will provide auxiliary channels for the surging Mississippi. When the "father of the waters" begins to press dangerously high and violently against its protective levees, these three floodways will be thrown open to distribute the terrific pressure.

The pent-up water, thus set loose, will find its way to the Gulf of Mexico through the Bonnet Carre spillway, recently completed above New Orleans at a cost of $30,000,000, and the Berwick Bay outlet and proposed new outlet west of Berwick at the end of the Atchafalaya and Morganza floodways.

This system is expected to take care of the most serious floods possible. For instance, Lieutenant-Col. W. F. Tompkins, engineer in charge of the second New Orleans district, estimates that the Morganza floodway would be opened of necessity only about once in 10 years and its parallel floodway, the Atchafalaya, once in perhaps a century.

Residents in the paths of floodways are to be reimbursed for inundation of their lands.

The Overton measure authorized appropriation of $272,000,000 for the work as well as usage of all money authorized under the 1928 flood control bill not yet spent. It has been estimated that near $60,000,000 is unspent from the 1928 authorization.

Lieutenant-Colonel Tompkins said major operations await only the completion of technical details.

DR. SCOTT HAMILTON TO MAKE HOME IN MONROE

Dr. Scott Hamilton, who for the past three years has been a member of the staff of Charity hospital in New Orleans, has moved to Monroe where, with his family, he will make his home. He has opened offices in the Bernhardt building, where he will pursue his practice as a specialist in diseases of the bones and joints. Dr. Hamilton is a graduate of Tulane university. After his graduation he went to Minneapolis, where he taught two years in the anatomy department of University of Minnesota. Three years ago he was appointed to the staff of Charity hospital in New Orleans. He is a son-in-law of John M. Breard, vice-president and cashier of the Central Savings Bank and Trust company.

Richard Strauss played the piano proficiently at 4 years of age, and produced a number of compositions when only 6.

NEW BUILDING PERMITS GIVEN

Total Of $8,550 Will Be Spent On New Construction In West Monroe

Nine building permits, representing an expenditure of $8,550 on new buildings and on repairs to old ones, have been issued to date since the first of May in West Monroe, according to records in the office of L. L. Wood, city clerk.

Seven of the permits, totaling $5,800, were granted this month. Only two permits were issued in May. They totaled $2,750.

The June permits were issued as follows:

Voris Lyons, to build a one-story, frame house containing four rooms on Wheeler street, $600.

W. N. Reynolds, to build seven, one-story, frame, three-room houses on Phillips, $2,100.

W. D. Howze, to repair a one-story, frame, three-room house on Plum street, $150.

Jesse S. Heard, to build a one-story, frame, six-room house on North Fourth street, $2,200.

Monroe Building and Loan association, to repair a one-story, frame house at 304 Ludwig avenue, $150.

Monroe Building and Loan association, to repair a one-story, frame house at 405 Ludwig avenue, $150.

Monroe Building and Loan association, to repair a one-story, frame house at 409 Ludwig avenue, $450.

The May permits were issued as follows:

Homer Moffett, to build a one-story house containing five rooms on Cypress street, $2,250.

Marline Hattaway, to build five, one-room tourist cottages on Cypress street, $500.

FIVE GENERATIONS LIVING

SHREVE, Ohio.—(AP)—The birth of Sandra Mae Norton created a crowd of living forebears. On both sides of the family grandparents, great-grandparents, and great-great-great-grandparents are living.

"STRIKING" UP THE BAND

French officials have mobilized federal police to prevent foreign agitators from stirring up a repetition of the stay-in strikes that crippled industry when 500,000 quit work and refused to leave their plants. That the new strike technique holds no terrors for the workers is illustrated above. Stay-in strikers at a Paris plant dance to the accompaniment of an improvised orchestra.

CAMP LASSA BUILDINGS ARE BEING REPAIRED

LAKE FORBING, June 27.—(Special)—Preparatory to the opening of its sixteenth annual camp in July, Camp Lassa, the character building camp of the Louisiana Council of Religious education, at Forbing, La., three miles south of Shreveport, is undergoing repairs and improvements. The big two-story Norman hall dormitory which houses on the first floor the office, guest rooms, dining hall and kitchen and cares for 40 campers on the second floor, is being reroofed. This building is equipped with screen porches, running water, and 14 showers.

"Uncle Van" Carter, the camp director, is enlisting the interest and support of men and women throughout the state, and they have responded with funds sufficient to begin the work, and as it progresses, the expectation is that more funds will be received.

NYA WORK EXHIBITED

JONESBORO, La., June 27.—(Special)—A display of work done on various NYA projects was held recently in the basement of the First Baptist church, and many articles of woodcraft, basketry, sewing, handwork, knitting, and art work were exhibited. During the month of July, several other exhibits will be held, it has been announced, showing the progress that is being made in Jackson parish under the NYA.

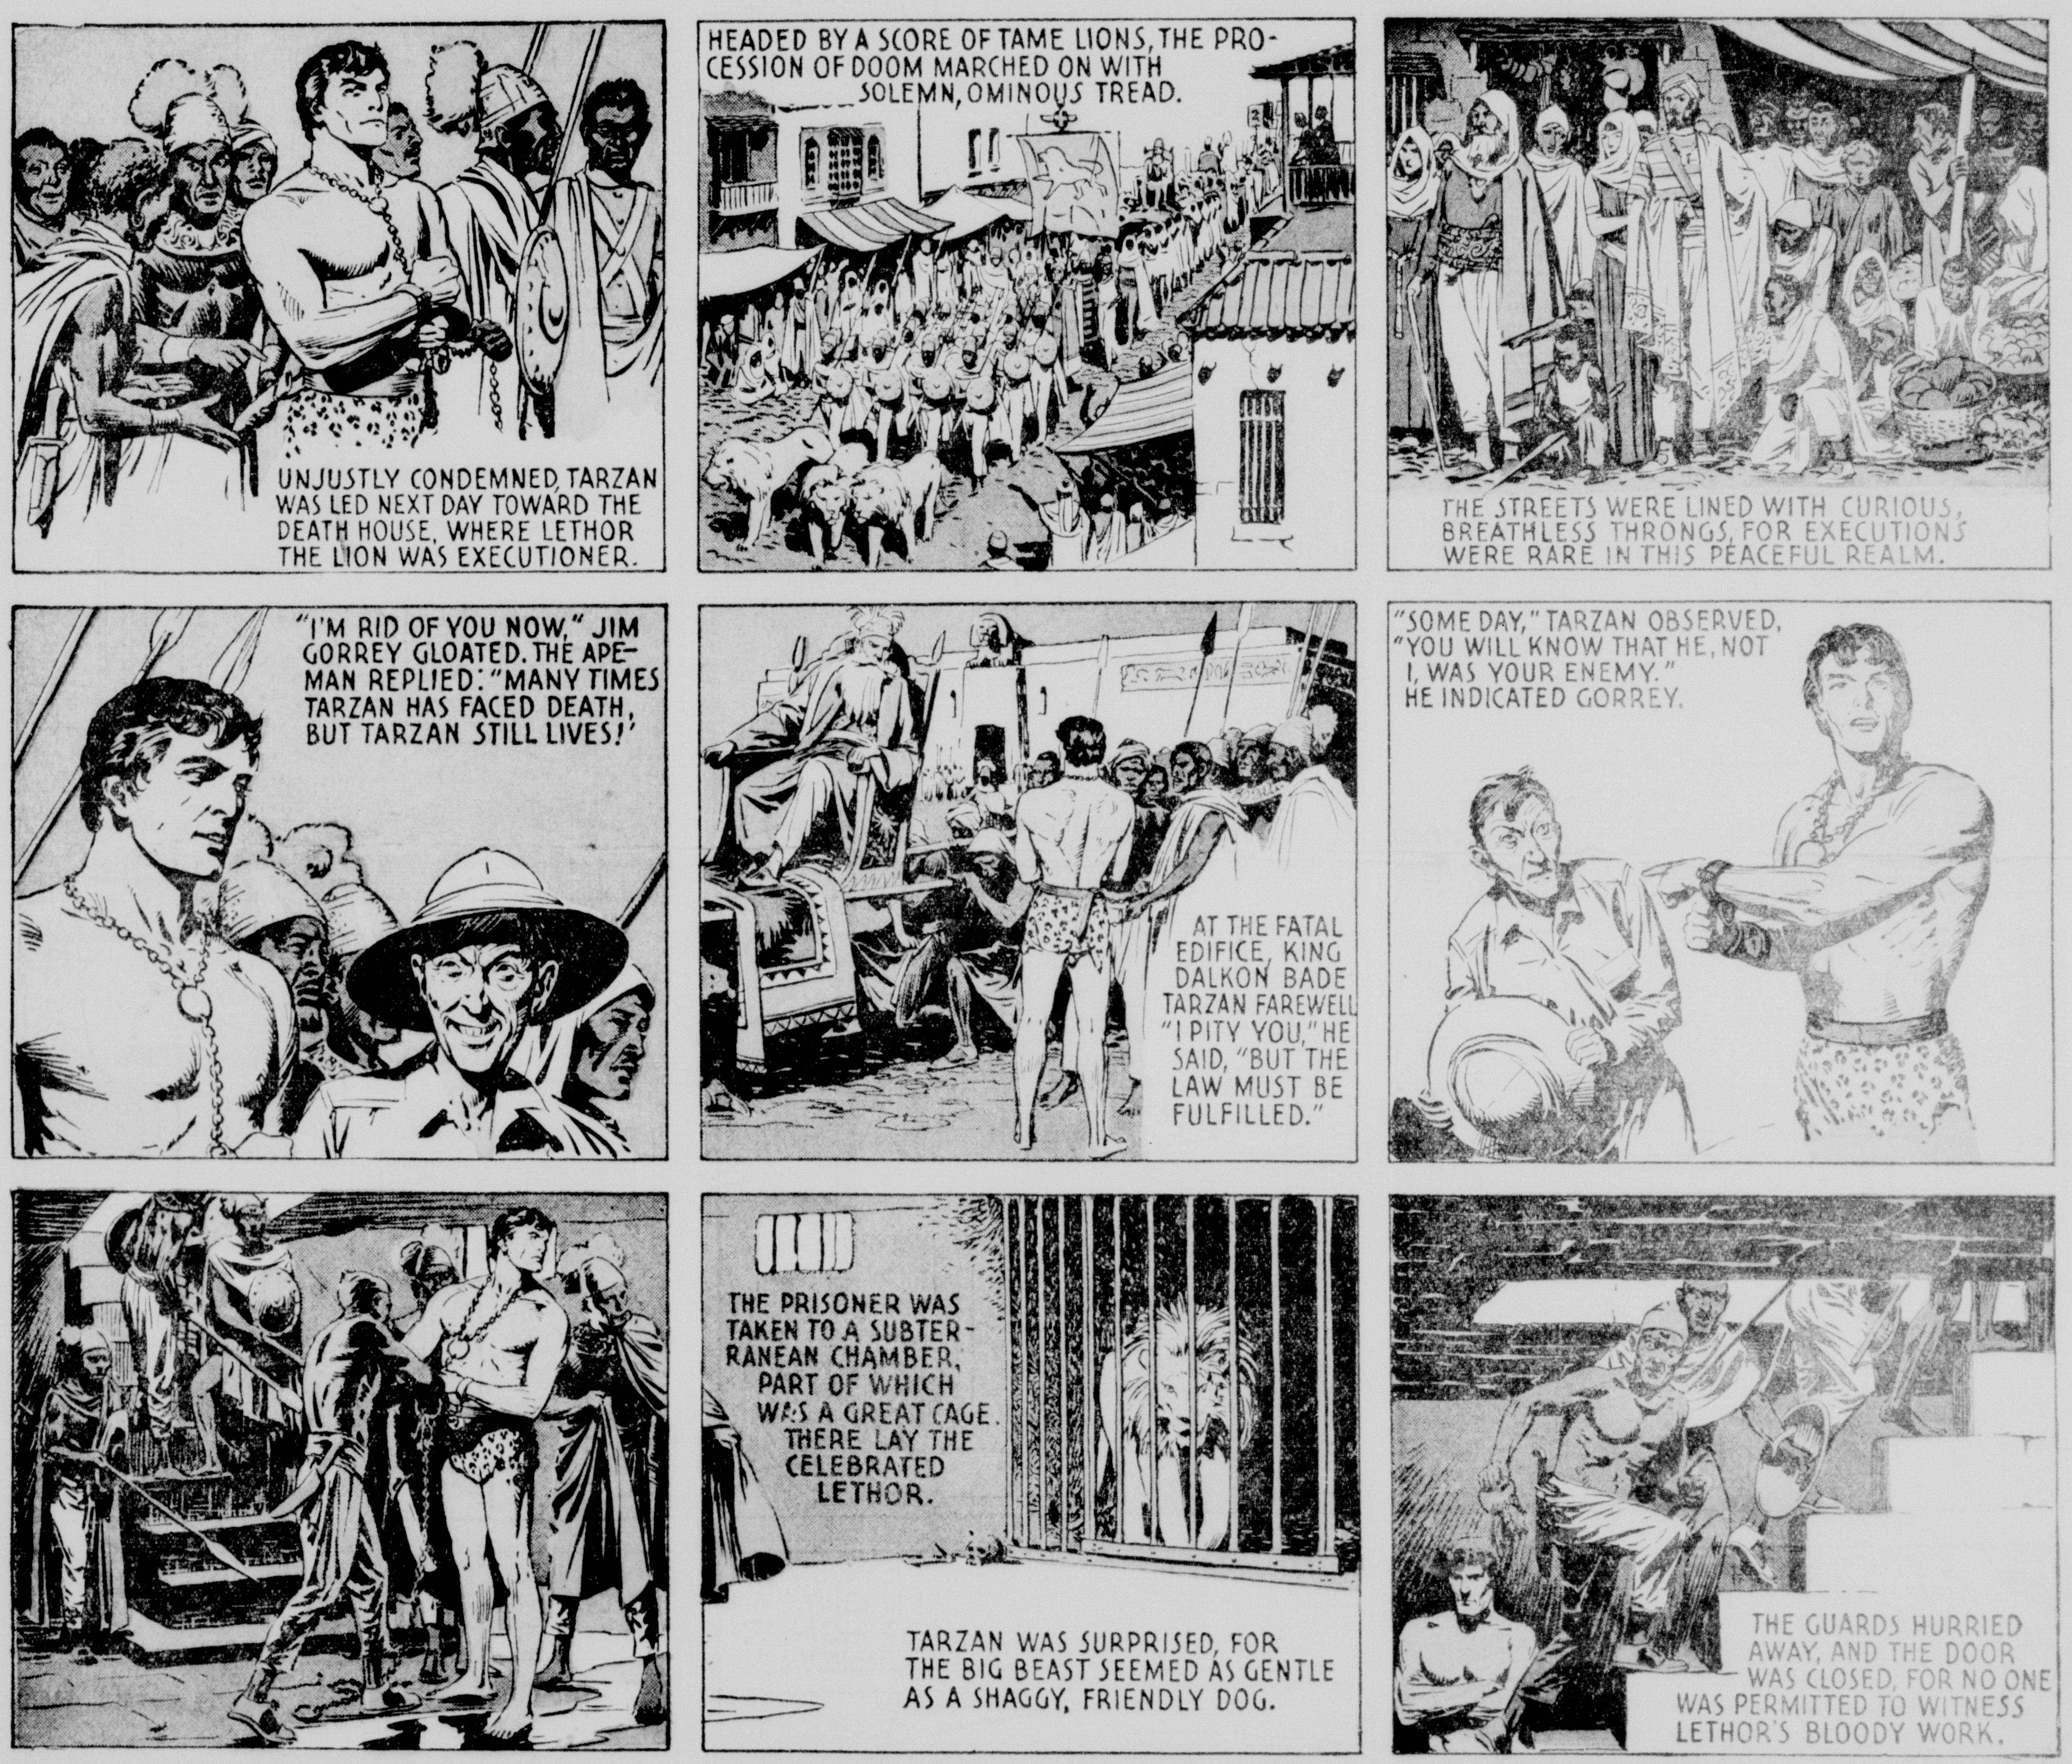
LETHOR THE KILLER LION



UNJUSTLY CONDEMNED, TARZAN WAS LED NEXT DAY TOWARD THE DEATH HOUSE, WHERE LETHOR THE LION WAS EXECUTIONER.
HEADED BY A SCORE OF TAME LIONS, THE PROCESSION OF DOOM MARCHED ON WITH SOLEMN, OMINOUS TREAD.
THE STREETS WERE LINED WITH CURIOUS, BREATHLESS THRONGS, FOR EXECUTIONS WERE RARE IN THIS PEACEFUL REALM.
"I'M RID OF YOU NOW," JIM GORREY GLOATED. THE APEMAN REPLIED: "MANY TIMES TARZAN HAS FACED DEATH, BUT TARZAN STILL LIVES!"
AT THE FATAL EDIFICE, KING DALKON BADE TARZAN FAREWELL. "I PITY YOU," HE SAID, "BUT THE LAW MUST BE FULFILLED."
"SOME DAY," TARZAN OBSERVED, "YOU WILL KNOW THAT HE, NOT I, WAS YOUR ENEMY." HE INDICATED GORREY.
THE PRISONER WAS TAKEN TO A SUBTERRANEAN CHAMBER, PART OF WHICH WAS A GREAT CAGE. THERE LAY THE CELEBRATED LETHOR.
TARZAN WAS SURPRISED, FOR THE BIG BEAST SEEMED AS GENTLE AS A SHAGGY, FRIENDLY DOG.
THE GUARDS HURRIED AWAY, AND THE DOOR WAS CLOSED, FOR NO ONE WAS PERMITTED TO WITNESS LETHOR'S BLOODY WORK.
SUDDENLY A SHARP VOICE CALLED FROM ABOVE: "LETHOR, KILL!"
H. FOSTER
BY THAT COMMAND THE OBEDIENT BEAST WAS TRANSFORMED INTO A DEMON KILLER, AND NOW IT RUSHED SAVAGELY AT TARZAN!

POLICE ARE STILL ON THE LOOKOUT FOR "LIPS" MANLIS, ALSO KNOWN AS BOB HONOR, THE REFORMED GANGSTER WHO LED THE ROBBERY OF THE CITY WAREHOUSE LAST WEEK.
SEE THERE, "LIPS"—THE COPS ARE STILL LOOKING FOR YOU. DON'T THAT BRING BACK THE OLD DAYS TO YOU, EH?
LISTEN, YOU MUGS CAN'T DO THIS TO ME. I TURNED STRAIGHT AND I'M KEEPING STRAIGHT, UNDERSTAND!
YEAH? WITH THAT FIFTY THOUSAND DOLLARS WORTH OF LOOT—AND YOU, BOTH MISSING, YOU'LL HAVE A HARD TIME CONVINCING THE COPS OF THAT.
YOU AND YOUR PET IDEAS, ABOUT REFORMING GANGSTERS! I KNEW IT!
OKAY, CHARLIE.
IT'S MY FAULT—BUT I STILL CAN'T BELIEVE IT—I THOUGHT BOB AND I UNDERSTOOD EACH OTHER.
TRACY—YOU MAY HAVE HEARD THIS BEFORE—BUT I'M TELLING YOU AGAIN—NEVER GO SOFT IN THE HEAD AND TRUST A CROOK!
"LIPS" THAT FIFTY GRAND WORTH OF CIGARETTES AND TOBACCO THE BOYS ARE LOADING ON THE BIG TRUCK HAS BEEN SOLD TO A FENCE UPSTATE.
SO WHAT!
YOU'RE GOING TO DRIVE THE TRUCK, SEE! GET UP IN THAT CAB!
GET THAT STUFF IN THERE IN A HURRY, YOU BIRDS, WE'RE LEAVING IN 30 MINUTES.
GET UP IN THERE AND STACK THEM BOXES TOWARD THE FRONT—IT'LL BE A CAPACITY LOAD.
STRIVING FEVERISHLY TO EVOLVE SOME SCHEME THAT WILL GIVE HIM THE UPPER HAND, BOB HONOR SUDDENLY MAKES A DECISION!
JAMMING THE GEARS INTO REVERSE, HE CRASHES THE REAR OF THE TRUCK AGAINST THE WALL!
WHAT IN—
WE'RE PRISONERS!

THE TRENCH OF BAYONETS

© 1936 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE Germans were threatening Verdun, in June, 1916. Opposing them, a blue-gray line of French infantry awaited the signal to go over the top. Rain had drenched the trenches and transformed the earth into a quivering mass of mud.

Among the defending forces, a small company of 100 men stood ankle-deep in their soggy trench, rifles ready and bayonets fixed. The battery of cannon behind them was laying down a preliminary barrage. Mud flew high in the air as shells burst nearby.

Suddenly, without warning, the rain-drenched parapet of the trench loosened and heaved over, burying the entire company alive. Where stood the 100 eager soldiers, 100 fixed bayonets reached ominously upward out of the earth.

That fatal trench of bayonets has now been enclosed as a memorial to its 100 victims. Its picture appears on one of the stamps France issued, between 1917 and 1919, on behalf of the World War orphans.

OH, BOY! MY HEAD FEELS LIKE SOMEBODY'D BEEN PATTIN' IT WITH A BRICK. WELL, THIS IS ONE NIGHT I WON'T WANTA GO OUT.
THAT IS JEST DANDY. YOU CAN MIND, MRS. McJITTERS' TWINS WHILE I AND HER GOES TO THE MOVIES, WILLIAM-BAW!
SAY, BE QUIET! I'M TRYIN' TO TAKE A NAP
OH, FER TH' LOVA MIKE! THERE- LOOK AT THE CHOO-CHOO-DREAT BIG CHOO-
WAW! I WANNA SEE CHOO-CHOO.
NOW YOU'VE GOT A GRANDSTAND SEAT, DON'T PESTER ME ABOUT THAT CHOO-CHOO ANY MORE.
BAW! BLAWA WAH! WAH! BLAW!
NOW WOT IN TH'-*?
BLAAWW! CHOO-CHOO'S GONE! WE WANNA CHOO-CHOO!
OOHH! I CAN'T STAND OUT HERE ALL NIGHT POUNDING ON THIS DOOR WHILE THOSE DEAR BABIES SCREAM IN THERE. WHY, OH, WHY DON'T YOUR WILLIAM LET US IN, MAMIE?
THIS AIN'T ANY TIME TO GO LOSING YOUR HEAD, MRS. McJITTERS. I'LL CRASH THE DOOR.

BAW WAH!
BAM!
HUH? I CAN'T HEAR YOU, HONEY.
GOOD GRIEF! WILLIE'S OUT OF HIS MIND. WEARING EARMUFFS THIS KIND OF WEATHER.
I'LL CALL THE BOARD OF HEALTH. HE'S AS CRAZY AS A LOON!
AND BESIDES THAT, DOCTOR, HE WANTED TO GO TO BED WITH CORKS IN HIS EARS AND WEAR THEM EARMUFFS SO HE COULDN'T HEAR ME TALK.
HE'S NOT CRAZY, LADY... ...HUMMMM... I'M A MARRIED MAN MYSELF, MR. MULLINS- AND I THANK YOU FOR A VERY PRACTICAL AND USEFUL SUGGESTION.

WHAT'D YOU WAN'T TO SEE MY DADDY ABOUT?
I WANTED TO TELL HIM ABOUT A NEW COOLING SYSTEM WE ARE INSTALLING.
3 28
ME AND THE KIDS DOWN THE ALLEY HAVE A COOLING SYSTEM WHICH I THINK IS THE BEST.
WELL, WELL, WELL. YOU SHOW ME YOUR SYSTEM THEN I WILL SHOW YOUR DADDY MINE.
WE JUST TURN THE GARDEN HOSE ON EACH OTHER- LIKE THAT.

CAPTAIN EASY by ROY CRANE
REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.
BOYS, MEET THE NEW OFFICER IN THE ROYAL GRENADIERS, CAPTAIN EASY, THE FIGHTINGEST BUCKAROO THAT EVER RODE A HOSS.
DELIGHTED!
AN HONOR, SIGNOR.
A TOAST TO THE NEW CAPITAN.
VIVA!
VIVA THE CAPITAN!
SEE! IT'S GETTING OVER SWELL!
AH, HERE'S COLONEL WOTTAMUGGI. COLONEL, THIS IS CAPTAIN EASY.
WHAT! DISSA MAN A CAPITAN?
YES, SIR. CAPTAIN EASY, OF THE ROYAL GRENADIERS.
PIFFLE! I NEVER FORGETTA DA FACE. HEEZA DA HOOK-NOSED BANDIT!
RIDICULOUS, SIR. WHY, HE—
I TELLA YOU, I NEVER FORGETTA DA FACE. ARRESTA DAT MAN! SHOOTA DA DOG!
BUT, COLONEL, HE CAN'T BE THE HOOK-NOSED BANDIT. HE'S BEEN IN JAIL FOR TWO WEEKS. QUICK, CAPTAIN, SHOW HIM YOUR JAIL CERTIFICATE.
THAT WILL PROVE MY INNOCENCE, SUH.
YOU SEE, SIR, THE POLICE MADE THE SAME MISTAKE— EVIDENTLY HE BEARS A CLOSE RESEMBLANCE.
WELL, HA HA! DA JOKE, SHE IS ONNA ME. CAPITAN, I REGRET.
BLAZES! WHAT A CLOSE CALL THAT WAS!
I'LL SAY IT WAS CLOSE!
WHEN THAT OLD BATTLE-WAGON GETS DOWN ON A GUY, SPORT, GOOD NIGHT! HE'S ALMOST AS BAD AS THE DICTATOR.
BAH! I'M STILL POSITIVE HEEZA DA HOOK-NOSED BANDIT. FOLLOW DAT MAN, CORPORAL— REPORTA TO ME WHERE HE GOES.
Roy Crane
TUT TUT, COLONEL, CAN'T YOU BE MISTAKEN?
I NEVER MAKKA DA MISTAKE. I INTEND TO SETTA DA TRAP AND PROVE DAT HE'S A SPY, A TRAITOR!

THE TRENCH OF BAYONETS

THE Germans were threatening Verdun, in June, 1916. Opposing them, a blue-gray line of French infantry awaited the signal to go over the top. Rain had drenched the trenches and transformed the earth into a quivering mass of mud.

Among the defending forces, a small company of 100 men stood ankle-deep in their soggy trench, rifles ready and bayonets fixed. The battery of cannon behind them was laying down a preliminary barrage. Mud flew high in the air as shells burst nearby.

Suddenly, without warning, the rain-drenched parapet of the trench loosened and heaved over, burying the entire company alive. Where stood the 100 eager soldiers, 100 fixed bayonets reached ominously upward out of the earth.

That fatal trench of bayonets has now been enclosed as a memorial to its 100 victims. Its picture appears on one of the stamps France issued, between 1917 and 1919, on behalf of the World War orphans.
